A Dead Man's Glands All About The War;—If The Scorpion's Warning Child Of England? Hardly

DR. HUGH H. YOUNG and Dr. William P. Didusch, of the Brady clinic, at Johns-Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, took some glands from the body of a young murderer, after his execution, and used them to restore a sick man to health and vigor.

This interests everybody. There is less interest, and there should be more in the fact that the brains of men dead a hundred, a thousand years or more, preserved in their books, give mental health and vigor to millions.

ENGLAND PROTESTS the action of Italy and Germany recognizing the not yet established Spanish government of General Franco, leader of the insurgents, and probable dictator, if he wins.

PARIS THINKS the agreement between Berlin and Tokyo, placing Russia between enemies east and west, is a peril to peace. As it happens, Germany also has probable enemies, Russia and France on the east and the west, and France and Russia have a pact, which would probably drag in France, if Russia had Japan and Germany to fight. France and Russia against Germany and Japan would make an interesting war, for any fortunate enough to keep out of it.

ENGLAND IS SO MUCH agitated that the London Times awakes from a sleep undisturbed since Northcliff died, and referring to Italy and Japan, speaks of "mutual admiration among thieves."

Japan is too polite and Italy too tactful to ask England "How did you get all your colonies? Did you pay the Boers for their gold and diamond mines in South Africa, or the Zulus for their African possessions; did you pay Germany for her colonies taken after the war?"

STALIN, OF RUSSIA, preserves an unusual faculty, that of keeping his mouth shut. He sent his first ambassador to Japan with these instructions, "Keep your mouth shut, your ears open, remembering that the Japanese know at least as much as you do."

Stalin said nothing while Hitler and Germany devoted a week to abusing his kind of government; he has said nothing thus far about the anti-Russian combination between Japan and Germany.

Probably busy speeding up his airplane and submarine factories, he has started something new, "the first school of women machine gunners." Now operating in Moscow, the school has 54 girls learning to run machine guns.

2 RIVALS VIE FOR SULTANATE OF SULU

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two rivals vied for the sultanate of Sulu today after the spiritual leadership of the warlike Moros was vacated by death for the second time in five months.

Sultan Mawallil Wasit died of a heart attack yesterday, scarcely two months after he succeeded his brother, Sultan Jamalu'l Kiram.

On his death bed, Wasit proclaimed his son Ismael, 32, as the next ruler over the 500,000 Mohammedans of the southern Philippines and British North Borneo.

But observers said Wasit's death strengthened the claim of vivacious 40-year-old Princess Dayang Dayang to the title of sultana and the greatly desired $3,000 annual pension paid the crown by British North Borneo.

Wasit was to have been formally crowned next month during the Mohammedan religious festival of Hiriyau Pauas. Because his title was not validated by coronation, some observers said Ismael cannot claim the sultanate.

Choir Singer, Attacked And Mutilated, In Serious Condition

The weapon was found in the 38-year-old choir singer's bedroom after she had been assaulted and robbed, beaten with fists and a wooden coat hangar and tortured with scissors.

Her assailant crept into the Brasy apartment early today, bound, mutilated and assaulted his victim and fled with her fur-collared coat and $60. She described him as a man of medium height with sandy hair and bulging eyes. Investigators said this corresponded with the description of "The Whipper," a sadist who terrorized a west side neighborhood last year.

Chief Inspector Emmett Evans of the bureau of identification announced he had been unable to find finger prints on the knife or in the Brasy apartment but would press efforts to trace the knife to its owner.

BOY SHOWN MERCY BY SUPREME COURT

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Five black-robed justices of the Tennessee supreme court showed mercy today on George M. Snow, 11-year-old Morgan county farm boy, who was convicted of voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to five years in the state reformatory for stabbing 16-year-old Johnnie Holt to death February 10, 1935.

The court affirmed the conviction, but recommended that the governor parole the boy to his parents.

"There is no reason why this misfortune should becloud the development and future usefulness of this child, and we are willing to give him an opportunity to overcome this error and to develop normally into a useful and respectable citizen," the court's opinion said.

CHARGE MILLIONS FIGHTING PROBE

By Joseph L. Miller

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention's legislative committee asserted tonight that "millions of dollars" would be available this winter to a lobby seeking to kill the senate investigation of strike-breaking and labor espionage.

The committee urged the convention, in its report, to demand an ample appropriation to continue the inquiry directed by Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin.

"All the lobbies of the great anti-union financial forces and all their secret pressures are being mobilized to prevent the senate granting an appropriation to carry on the investigation," the report said.

"If our reports are as accurate as we believe them to be, the greatest and most adroit lobby that has ever operated in Washington is being organized to kill this astounding expose.

"The LaFollette committee has made only a beginning, but what a beginning. It has dragged into the

COOPERATION AIM OF U. S. CHAMBER

Organization Says Government Should Take Notice Of Consensus

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The chamber of commerce of the United States gave new impetus today to the post-election talk of business cooperating with the government, but at the same time asserted that business "has the right to expect cooperation from the government."

Disavowing any interest in partisan politics, the chamber, which has criticised some New Deal policies, said in its periodical Washington review:

"The government of the United States, as government, is entitled to the support and cooperation of its citizenship. That rule is universal.

"The government also is entitled to the expression of honest criticism, based upon facts and experience, regarding any steps that it may propose.

MRS. THELMA CLARK TO APPEAL VERDICT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Thelma Clark announced today she would appeal a jury verdict which assessed her $30,000 for allegedly stealing the love of Michael Fitzpatrick, former ship's purser, from his wife, Christine.

"I'm stunned at such a verdict," declared Mrs. Clark, whose husband was a grandson of the late William Andrews Clark, Montana senator and copper magnate.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick accused the wealthy widow of promising Fitzpatrick a "surrounding of wealth and society."

MAESTRI SEEKING AID FOR FAMILIES

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Robert S. Maestri announced today that he was seeking to obtain funds from the state or the federal government for aid for 2,500 families who were cut off the rolls of the New Orleans public welfare department yesterday.

Those affected have been receiving relief checks in the emergency. Dr. Emil Leipziger, director of the department, said $30,000 to $40,000 a month had been expended by the department in excess of its income and that the surplus funds had been exhausted.

TEACHERS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

Visitors Enthusiastic Over Hospitality Extended Them While In City

The 44th annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers association was brought to a close Saturday morning when delegates assembled for the fourth general session on the roof of Hotel Frances.

As delegates trooped out of the city Saturday afternoon on their way back to homes in various parts of the state they were full of enthusiastic praise for the "good time that was had by all."

"The best convention we have ever had," was the most familiar expression amongst the departing groups of teachers and school officials who, though physically weary after the rounds of convention sessions and entertainment, were voluble in their appreciation of Monroe hospitality.

The committee of the Chamber of Commerce which had charge of plans to house the overflow from the various hotels expressed thanks to householders throughout the city who made their homes available to the delegates for the convention. Thanks were also expressed to those owners of automobiles who provided means of transportation to the convention sessions from the hotels. The city, which

REV. D. C. BARR'S LAST RITES HELD

Impressive Services For Beloved Minister Conducted At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Impressive funeral services for the late Rev. D. C. (Brother) Barr, 84-year-old Methodist Episcopal minister who died Friday at a Monroe hospital, were held at the Oak Ridge Methodist church Saturday afternoon. More than 1,000 friends of "Brother" Barr from all parts of the state attended the services, which were conducted by Rev. H. L. Johns of Monroe, presiding elder for the Monroe district; Rev. R. W. Rickey of Gilbert.

A mixed choir of more than 40 voices sang two of "Brother" Barr's favorite hymns, "Nearer My God To Thee" and "The Old Rugged Cross." Rev. James Harris and Mrs. Harris sang "Beautiful Isle Of Somewhere."

Rev. Johns paid high tribute to "Brother" Barr and his service in the ministry for more than half a century saying that it was his conviction the "happy memories of this grand old man will live with us forever."

Floral offerings from all parts of the state embanked one entire side of the small church, and the four walls of the auditorium were decorated with flowers. Prominent persons at the services included Fred M. Odom of New Orleans, associate judge of the Louisiana supreme court; R. E. Milling, New Orleans attorney; S. C. Shaw of Colfax, superintendent of Grant parish schools; State Senator Leo Terzia of Bastrop; G. S. Morris and E. E. Davis of Colfax; R. D. Swayze, Abe Arent, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Breard, E. Government Extends Arm To Help Needy Aged, Blind

Also Offers Assistance To Dependent Children Under 16 Years Old

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The News-Star and Morning World present below the last of a series of stories explaining the social security act.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Usingits powerful tax arm, the federal government is extending a helping hand to the states for the care of the needy aged, the needy blind and dependent children under 16 years of age.

Unlike the old age pensions and unemployment insurance sections of the social security act, however, these "pulic assistance" provisions impose no special tax. The grants to states which meet the specified conditions, which amount already to over $90,000,000, are met from the general funds of the treasury.

The security board estimated today that more than 1,400,000 are now receiving regular cash allowances under the program. All save five states, Georgia, Kansas, Nevada, Tennessee, and Virginia, are participating in at least one of the three phases. Twenty-three states have taken advantage of all three.

Institution of these programs was at once in consonance with American tradition and a departure. The colonists, following the English poor laws 300 years ago, used public funds to succor the impoverished. But not until 1935, when the depression and depletion of state funds created the demand, did the federal government assume any responsibility.

Even now the administrative responsibility is entirely that of the states. A few basic requirements must be met by the state plans for the approval which the security board must give before any grants-in-aid can be obtained.

Officials there draw a sharp distinction between old age "pensions" and "assistance." As explained before, there are no tests of need under the pension plan. But "assistance" payments can go only to those in want, as adjudged by the responsible local authorities. The state sets its own standards of the degree of need, age

MERCHANTS MAKE READY FOR HUGE CHRISTMAS RUSH

600,000 Additional Workers Expected To Be Necessary For Occasion

EXTRA DIVIDENDS, WAGES AND BONUSES WILL HELP

Stores Of Nation Lay In Big Stocks And Make Lavish Plans

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Merchants prepared today for an expected nation-wide Christmas shopping surge, partly supported by industry's year-end out-pouring of extra dividends, wage increases and bonuses.

The National Retail Dry Goods association estimated nearly 600,000 additional workers would be needed to handle the prospective increased holiday trade, the largest extra force since pre-depression years.

The nation's stores, the association said, have made "lavish plans," laid in large stocks of merchandise and emphasized a "festive tone" more strongly than in any year since 1929.

Retail men are looking to the distribution of many millions of dollars next month to shareholders and workers for stimulus to trade gains already achieved on the rise in national income, the association added.

Disbursement of about $300,000,000 in extra and increased dividends is in sight for the year-end following a record-breaking week of announcements.

A tabulation of actions by about 265 companies the last month shows a total of approximately $625,000,000 in dividends, including regular payments. The bulk is payable before Christmas, along with some $50,000,000 in bonuses by a large group of companies.

The Standard Statistics company reported 192 favorable dividend changes the past week had broken all previous records on the rush to distribute

HOUSING POLICIES HIT AND PRAISED

Resolution Asking For Extension Of FHA Favorably Voted

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—New Deal housing policies drew both praise and disapproval from the National Association of Real Estate Boards today.

In the closing session of their 29th annual convention the realtors adopted a resolution asking for an extension of the federal housing administration and also approved with one dissenting vote a resolution voicing opposition to home construction by the public works administration.

Introduced by the association's finance committee, one resolution instructed the president of the organization to seek such legislation at the next session of congress as would insure a continuance of the F. H. A. This resolution also included a proposal for a mortgage discount agency to be established as soon as possible.

In addition to an extension of the federal housing administration, the association asked that its provisions be made more flexible so that mortgages could be made on all types of insurable housing, regardless of who owned them.

FARM PROJECTS IN ARKANSAS INSPECTED

ENGLAND, Ark., Nov. 21.—(AP)—High administration officials resumed their inspection of southern resettlement projects today with the assurance of Senate Leader Joe T. Robinson that there is no probability that this phase of the New Deal program will be abandoned unless it fails.

Headed by Secretary Wallace, the official party swung into Mississippi on the seven-state tour after dedicating Plum Bayou Homesteads, the resettlement administration's first rural homestead project on which 100 selected Arkansas families will be resettled as farm-owners under long term credit.

Robinson joined Wallace and retiring Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell in dedicatory exercises yesterday, declaring that "this project is an experiment upon which depends future legislation for extending the plan to all parts of the nation to solve the tenancy problem."

LAST LAUGH

British immigration authorities refused to be swayed by beauty when Tamara Desni, above, tried to land in Southampton from a liner crossing from America, and the Russian film actress was forced to proceed to Bremen. But Tamara had the last laugh. She announced she is to wed Bruce Setton, film actor, relative of the duke of Albercorn, and perhaps live in England.

TENANT PROGRAM TO BE RESTRICTED

Wallace For More Conservative Plan Than Tugwell Advocated

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Commercial Appeal said tonight in a dispatch from Starkville, Miss., that Secretary Henry A. Wallace favors a more conservative tenancy program than that proposed by Rexford G. Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture and chief of resettlement administration.

"While the secretary did not comment on the result of his four-day tour of the mid-south cotton belt," the paper said, "associates said he would look unfavorably on Tugwell's recommendations for an expenditure of $50,000,000 a year for 10 years for enabling tenants to become owners.

"It was said the secretary was ready to proceed in that direction but not so far as Tugwell has proposed."

Wallace said in Arkansas yesterday that farmers should not expect large-scale operations in tenancy relief at the beginning.

The chieftains of the agriculture department left Greenville, Miss., this morning and went to the Delta experiment station farm at Stoneville to watch the Rust cotton picker in action. Previously, it was announced the demonstration had been cancelled.

The secretary appeared not greatly impressed, the paper said, with the demonstration, adding that waste cotton littered the ground.

LANDON RECEIVES TWO SUPPORTERS

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon entertained two of his presidential campaign supporters, former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and William Allen White, Emporia editor, at a dinner tonight but postponed a discussion of politics until tomorrow to attend a wedding.

After chatting informally with his guests at the dinner table, the governor and Mrs. Landon withdrew to attend the wedding of Miss Josephine Burrow, Topeka, to Frederick M. Harris, Jr., of Ottawa.

The dinner had been arranged for a discussion of future plans for the Republican party.

COVINGTON MUST PAY BANK IN MISSISSIPPI

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The federal district court here ruled that the town of Covington, La., must pay the First National bank in Gulfport, Miss., in receivership, $18,840.80 plus about $5,000 interest and costs.

The lower court judgment was granted in favor of Alonzo B. Haynes, Inc., of Pass Christian, Miss., who claimed it was due him for constructing a sewer system in Covington. He later assigned the note to the bank as surety on a loan.

The federal court ruled the town should pay $500 next February 15, a $1,500 payment on June 15, 1937, and $2,000 every six months thereafter.

LECHE SAYS ONLY THOSE ILL WILL NOT BE INCLUDED

MANY EXPECTED TO HEED COMMAND VOLUNTARILY

Executive Decides Entirely Too Many Report Mothers Dying

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche had cancelled all convict furloughs except a few issued for hospitalization. His new order, more stringent than past instructions, affects 51 convicts now at liberty.

It was learned that the governor before leaving for north Louisiana on the hunting trip on which he was engaged today issued instructions that every convict out on furlough and not receiving hospital treatment must return to the Angola penal farm at once.

He revoked all furloughs several months ago, but the order was relaxed in some cases where plea of special circumstances was advanced.

Later, it is understood, the governor became convinced that too many convicts had "dying mothers" and that the "mothers" in some cases might be non "existent."

If they do not return voluntarily, it is understood that they will be picked up by state and local police and sheriffs over the state.

The order followed closely upon action by the governor of overriding two recommendations by the pardon board for clemency for convicted murderers who have served only a few years of life sentences.

GOVERNMENT MAY MOVE IN STRIKE

Possible Intervention To Aid Alaska And Hawaii Seen

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Government officials and unions considered possible federal intervention in the maritime strike in behalf of Alaska and Hawaii today while the walkout spread to the Canadian west coast.

Longshoremen at Vancouver, B. C., said they would quit their jobs Monday.

Colonel O. F. Ohlson, manager of the government-owned Alaska railroad, conferred here with Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady on plans to charter ships for movement of necessities to Alaska. President Roosevelt authorized the move earlier in the week.

The question of using government ships to move supplies to strike-isolated Hawaii awaited word from President Roosevelt. The navy ordered a survey of its supply ships to determine which vessels could be used.

Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, territories director for the interior department said the chartering of a private ship for Hawaii on service also was under consideration.

These moves resulted from many appeals that the northern and island territories were running low on food and other necessities.

L. AND A. STRIKERS WILL WORK SOON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Union leaders of the Louisiana and Arkansas railway strike, which was settled at the conference table, said today they expected about 300 strikers to go back to work within three or four days.

S. N. Harrell, strike committee chairman, said that in the agreement reached at a conference called by Governor Richard Leche the railway agreed to recognize the four striking brotherhoods in collective bargaining hereafter.

The major concession made, he said, was the road's agreement to give Texas workers of the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas railway the "standard wages paid by the Louisiana and Arkansas railway in Louisiana and Arkansas" and to "abide by the rulings and decisions handed down in recent years by the national mediation board."

Officials of the railway declined comment.

Transportation workers had been on strike since September 19.

Ten survivors reached shore on rafts which they paddled with their hands for half a mile to Squaw point, about four miles north of Owen Sound.

DOCTOR'S PINCERS FOUND IN WOMAN'S STOMACH

Mrs. A. R. Banks (right) of Tulsa, Okla., suffered continued pains and thought she had a tumor. But this remarkable X-ray picture revealed a six-inch pair of surgical pincers in her abdomen. That led her to recall the pains began soon after she underwent an abdominal operation four years ago. A second operation was performed to remove the pincers which are shown lodged against the pelvic bone to the left of the lower spine. (Associated Press Photos)

CHARGE MILLIONS FIGHTING PROBE

By Joseph L. Miller

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention's legislative committee asserted tonight that "millions of dollars" would be available this winter to a lobby seeking to kill the senate investigation of strike-breaking and labor espionage.

The committee urged the convention, in its report, to demand an ample appropriation to continue the inquiry directed by Senator LaFollette, Progressive, Wisconsin.

"All the lobbies of the great anti-union financial forces and all their secret pressures are being mobilized to prevent the senate granting an appropriation to carry on the investigation," the report said.

"If our reports are as accurate as we believe them to be, the greatest and most adroit lobby that has ever operated in Washington is being organized to kill this astounding expose.

"The LaFollette committee has made only a beginning, but what a beginning. It has dragged into the

COOPERATION AIM OF U. S. CHAMBER

Organization Says Government Should Take Notice Of Consensus

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The chamber of commerce of the United States gave new impetus today to the post-election talk of business cooperating with the government, but at the same time asserted that business "has the right to expect cooperation from the government."

Disavowing any interest in partisan politics, the chamber, which has criticised some New Deal policies, said in its periodical Washington review:

"The government of the United States, as government, is entitled to the support and cooperation of its citizenship. That rule is universal.

"The government also is entitled to the expression of honest criticism, based upon facts and experience, regarding any steps that it may propose.

MRS. THELMA CLARK TO APPEAL VERDICT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Thelma Clark announced today she would appeal a jury verdict which assessed her $30,000 for allegedly stealing the love of Michael Fitzpatrick, former ship's purser, from his wife, Christine.

"I'm stunned at such a verdict," declared Mrs. Clark, whose husband was a grandson of the late William Andrews Clark, Montana senator and copper magnate.

MAESTRI SEEKING AID FOR FAMILIES

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Mayor Robert S. Maestri announced today that he was seeking to obtain funds from the state or the federal government for aid for 2,500 families who were cut off the rolls of the New Orleans public welfare department yesterday.

Those affected have been receiving relief checks in the emergency. Dr. Emil Leipziger, director of the department, said $30,000 to $40,000 a month had been expended by the department in excess of its income and that the surplus funds had been exhausted.

TEACHERS CLOSE ANNUAL MEETING

The 44th annual convention of the Louisiana Teachers association was brought to a close Saturday morning when delegates assembled for the fourth general session on the roof of Hotel Frances.

As delegates trooped out of the city Saturday afternoon on their way back to homes in various parts of the state they were full of enthusiastic praise for the "good time that was had by all."

"The best convention we have ever had," was the most familiar expression amongst the departing groups of teachers and school officials who, though physically weary after the rounds of convention sessions and entertainment, were voluble in their appreciation of Monroe hospitality.

The committee of the Chamber of Commerce which had charge of plans to house the overflow from the various hotels expressed thanks to householders throughout the city who made their homes available to the delegates for the convention. Thanks were also expressed to those owners of automobiles who provided means of transportation to the convention sessions from the hotels. The city, which

Impressive Services For Beloved Minister Conducted At Oak Ridge

OAK RIDGE, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Impressive funeral services for the late Rev. D. C. (Brother) Barr, 84-year-old Methodist Episcopal minister who died Friday at a Monroe hospital, were held at the Oak Ridge Methodist church Saturday afternoon. More than 1,000 friends of "Brother" Barr from all parts of the state attended the services, which were conducted by Rev. H. L. Johns of Monroe, presiding elder for the Monroe district; Rev. R. W. Vaughn of Ruston, Rev. W. S. B. Colvin of Rayville, Rev. A. S. Lutz of Hammond, former presiding elder of the district, Rev. James Harris of Rayville, Rev. W. C. Scott of Monroe and Rev. H. W. Rickey of Gilbert.

A mixed choir of more than 40 voices sang two of "Brother" Barr's favorite hymns, "Nearer My God To Thee" and "The Old Rugged Cross." Rev. James Harris and Mrs. Harris sang "Beautiful Isle Of Somewhere."

Rev. Johns paid high tribute to "Brother" Barr and his service in the ministry for more than half a century saying that it was his conviction the "happy memories of this grand old man will live with us forever."

Floral offerings from all parts of the state embanked one entire side of the small church, and the four walls of the auditorium were decorated with flowers. Prominent persons at the services included Fred M. Odom of New Orleans, associate judge of the Louisiana supreme court; R. E. Milling, New Orleans attorney; S. C. Shaw of Colfax, superintendent of Grant parish schools; State Senator Leo Terzia of Bastrop; G. S. Morris and E. E. Davis of Colfax; R. D. Swayze, Abe Arent, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Breard, E. Government Extends Arm To Help Needy Aged, Blind

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Usingits powerful tax arm, the federal government is extending a helping hand to the states for the care of the needy aged, the needy blind and dependent children under 16 years of age.

Unlike the old age pensions and unemployment insurance sections of the social security act, however, these "pulic assistance" provisions impose no special tax. The grants to states which meet the specified conditions, which amount already to over $90,000,000, are met from the general funds of the treasury.

The security board estimated today that more than 1,400,000 are now receiving regular cash allowances under the program. All save five states, Georgia, Kansas, Nevada, Tennessee, and Virginia, are participating in at least one of the three phases. Twenty-three states have taken advantage of all three.

Institution of these programs was at once in consonance with American tradition and a departure. The colonists, following the English poor laws 300 years ago, used public funds to succor the impoverished. But not until 1935, when the depression and depletion of state funds created the demand, did the federal government assume any responsibility.

Even now the administrative responsibility is entirely that of the states. A few basic requirements must be met by the state plans for the approval which the security board must give before any grants-in-aid can be obtained.

Officials there draw a sharp distinction between old age "pensions" and "assistance." As explained before, there are no tests of need under the pension plan. But "assistance" payments can go only to those in want, as adjudged by the responsible local authorities. The state sets its own standards of the degree of need, age

600,000 Additional Workers Expected To Be Necessary For Occasion

EXTRA DIVIDENDS, WAGES AND BONUSES WILL HELP

Stores Of Nation Lay In Big Stocks And Make Lavish Plans

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Merchants prepared today for an expected nation-wide Christmas shopping surge, partly supported by industry's year-end out-pouring of extra dividends, wage increases and bonuses.

The National Retail Dry Goods association estimated nearly 600,000 additional workers would be needed to handle the prospective increased holiday trade, the largest extra force since pre-depression years.

The nation's stores, the association said, have made "lavish plans," laid in large stocks of merchandise and emphasized a "festive tone" more strongly than in any year since 1929.

Retail men are looking to the distribution of many millions of dollars next month to shareholders and workers for stimulus to trade gains already achieved on the rise in national income, the association added.

Disbursement of about $300,000,000 in extra and increased dividends is in sight for the year-end following a record-breaking week of announcements.

A tabulation of actions by about 265 companies the last month shows a total of approximately $625,000,000 in dividends, including regular payments. The bulk is payable before Christmas, along with some $50,000,000 in bonuses by a large group of companies.

The Standard Statistics company reported 192 favorable dividend changes the past week had broken all previous records on the rush to distribute

Resolution Asking For Extension Of FHA Favorably Voted

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—New Deal housing policies drew both praise and disapproval from the National Association of Real Estate Boards today.

In the closing session of their 29th annual convention the realtors adopted a resolution asking for an extension of the federal housing administration and also approved with one dissenting vote a resolution voicing opposition to home construction by the public works administration.

Introduced by the association's finance committee, one resolution instructed the president of the organization to seek such legislation at the next session of congress as would insure a continuance of the F. H. A. This resolution also included a proposal for a mortgage discount agency to be established as soon as possible.

In addition to an extension of the federal housing administration, the association asked that its provisions be made more flexible so that mortgages could be made on all types of insurable housing, regardless of who owned them.

FARM PROJECTS IN ARKANSAS INSPECTED

ENGLAND, Ark., Nov. 21.—(AP)—High administration officials resumed their inspection of southern resettlement projects today with the assurance of Senate Leader Joe T. Robinson that there is no probability that this phase of the New Deal program will be abandoned unless it fails.

Headed by Secretary Wallace, the official party swung into Mississippi on the seven-state tour after dedicating Plum Bayou Homesteads, the resettlement administration's first rural homestead project on which 100 selected Arkansas families will be resettled as farm-owners under long term credit.

Robinson joined Wallace and retiring Resettlement Administrator Rexford G. Tugwell in dedicatory exercises yesterday, declaring that "this project is an experiment upon which depends future legislation for extending the plan to all parts of the nation to solve the tenancy problem."

LAST LAUGH

British immigration authorities refused to be swayed by beauty when Tamara Desni, above, tried to land in Southampton from a liner crossing from America, and the Russian film actress was forced to proceed to Bremen. But Tamara had the last laugh. She announced she is to wed Bruce Setton, film actor, relative of the duke of Albercorn, and perhaps live in England.

TENANT PROGRAM TO BE RESTRICTED

Wallace For More Conservative Plan Than Tugwell Advocated

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Commercial Appeal said tonight in a dispatch from Starkville, Miss., that Secretary Henry A. Wallace favors a more conservative tenancy program than that proposed by Rexford G. Tugwell, under-secretary of agriculture and chief of resettlement administration.

"While the secretary did not comment on the result of his four-day tour of the mid-south cotton belt," the paper said, "associates said he would look unfavorably on Tugwell's recommendations for an expenditure of $50,000,000 a year for 10 years for enabling tenants to become owners.

"It was said the secretary was ready to proceed in that direction but not so far as Tugwell has proposed."

Wallace said in Arkansas yesterday that farmers should not expect large-scale operations in tenancy relief at the beginning.

The chieftains of the agriculture department left Greenville, Miss., this morning and went to the Delta experiment station farm at Stoneville to watch the Rust cotton picker in action. Previously, it was announced the demonstration had been cancelled.

The secretary appeared not greatly impressed, the paper said, with the demonstration, adding that waste cotton littered the ground.

LANDON RECEIVES TWO SUPPORTERS

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon entertained two of his presidential campaign supporters, former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania and William Allen White, Emporia editor, at a dinner tonight but postponed a discussion of politics until tomorrow to attend a wedding.

After chatting informally with his guests at the dinner table, the governor and Mrs. Landon withdrew to attend the wedding of Miss Josephine Burrow, Topeka, to Frederick M. Harris, Jr., of Ottawa.

The dinner had been arranged for a discussion of future plans for the Republican party.

COVINGTON MUST PAY BANK IN MISSISSIPPI

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The federal district court here ruled that the town of Covington, La., must pay the First National bank in Gulfport, Miss., in receivership, $18,840.80 plus about $5,000 interest and costs.

The lower court judgment was granted in favor of Alonzo B. Haynes, Inc., of Pass Christian, Miss., who claimed it was due him for constructing a sewer system in Covington. He later assigned the note to the bank as surety on a loan.

The federal court ruled the town should pay $500 next February 15, a $1,500 payment on June 15, 1937, and $2,000 every six months thereafter.

LECHE SAYS ONLY THOSE ILL WILL NOT BE INCLUDED

Executive Decides Entirely Too Many Report Mothers Dying

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Governor Richard W. Leche had cancelled all convict furloughs except a few issued for hospitalization. His new order, more stringent than past instructions, affects 51 convicts now at liberty.

It was learned that the governor before leaving for north Louisiana on the hunting trip on which he was engaged today issued instructions that every convict out on furlough and not receiving hospital treatment must return to the Angola penal farm at once.

He revoked all furloughs several months ago, but the order was relaxed in some cases where plea of special circumstances was advanced.

Later, it is understood, the governor became convinced that too many convicts had "dying mothers" and that the "mothers" in some cases might be non "existent."

If they do not return voluntarily, it is understood that they will be picked up by state and local police and sheriffs over the state.

The order followed closely upon action by the governor of overriding two recommendations by the pardon board for clemency for convicted murderers who have served only a few years of life sentences.

GOVERNMENT MAY MOVE IN STRIKE

Possible Intervention To Aid Alaska And Hawaii Seen

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Government officials and unions considered possible federal intervention in the maritime strike in behalf of Alaska and Hawaii today while the walkout spread to the Canadian west coast.

Longshoremen at Vancouver, B. C., said they would quit their jobs Monday.

Colonel O. F. Ohlson, manager of the government-owned Alaska railroad, conferred here with Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady on plans to charter ships for movement of necessities to Alaska. President Roosevelt authorized the move earlier in the week.

The question of using government ships to move supplies to strike-isolated Hawaii awaited word from President Roosevelt. The navy ordered a survey of its supply ships to determine which vessels could be used.

Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, territories director for the interior department said the chartering of a private ship for Hawaii on service also was under consideration.

These moves resulted from many appeals that the northern and island territories were running low on food and other necessities.

L. AND A. STRIKERS WILL WORK SOON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Union leaders of the Louisiana and Arkansas railway strike, which was settled at the conference table, said today they expected about 300 strikers to go back to work within three or four days.

S. N. Harrell, strike committee chairman, said that in the agreement reached at a conference called by Governor Richard Leche the railway agreed to recognize the four striking brotherhoods in collective bargaining hereafter.

The major concession made, he said, was the road's agreement to give Texas workers of the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas railway the "standard wages paid by the Louisiana and Arkansas railway in Louisiana and Arkansas" and to "abide by the rulings and decisions handed down in recent years by the national mediation board."

Officials of the railway declined comment.

Transportation workers had been on strike since September 19.

RAVAGES SHOWN BY TUBERCULOSIS

Figures Cited Of Destruction Wrought Throughout Country

The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association is busily engaged in preparing for the sending out of Christmas seals, the annual campaign for which starts on Thanksgiving day.

In explanation of the need for warfare on the white plague some facts and figures are cited by G. B. Cooley, president of the local group:

"Your chances for dying from tuberculosis were about four times as great some 30 years ago as they are today. Thus you have today gained a security from tuberculosis such as the world has never before known.

"Thirty years ago 200 out of every 100,000 people living in the United States were dying every year from tuberculosis. If you go back another 30 years, the number is more than 300, or three out of every 1,000 people who lived and worked in the days of your mothers and fathers. No wonder Oliver Wendell Holmes called it "the white plague." Today not many more than 50 people are dying from this disease yearly in each 100,000. Still a large number, to be sure, but small by way of comparison with figures of a generation or two ago.

"Thirty years ago the estimated number of living persons in the United States who had tuberculosis was approximately 1,500,000. Today there is less than one-half that number of living victims of this disease in this country. When it is realized that every victim of tuberculosis is a potential spreader of tuberculosis to an average of three others, the chances of "catching" the disease today, as compared with 30 years ago, are very much less.

"Tuberculosis still is one of our greatest, and in many communities our greatest, health hazard. It still takes a toll of almost 70,000 lives annually. It still numbers its living victims by more than 500,000 and it still causes loss of life and health that costs our country at least three-quarters of a billion dollars a year. We have enough scientific knowledge to bring this "white plague" under control, if not to eradicate it. To do this requires the education of many millions of people, in order to get them to do their part in ridding the country of tuberculosis.

The recruits are Gordon E. Hill, S. F. Harris and Simon W. Hicks, all of West Monroe, John C. Hamilton of Chatham, and Bonnie J. Chambless of Eros.

Vacancies in various branches of United States army service in this country and abroad are to be filled in the near future with young men enlisted at this time, it was stated.

God character references from responsible citizens and certain educational requirements are necessary for enlistments.

STERLINGTON GIRL AWARDED CLUB TRIP

Sydney Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Alexander of Sterlington, and winner of a Ouachita parish 4-H club food preparation contest, has been awarded a trip to Chicago to attend an annual meeting of the national 4-H Club congress to be held there November 28 to December 5, it was learned yesterday from Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent.

The trip was awarded Miss Alexander by the Illinois Central railroad after Walter C. Abbott, state 4-H club leader, had announced that she was the winner of the Ouachita parish contest. The honor was the deciding qualification which won the trip for Miss Alexander as an "all-around" 4-H Club girl.

Two other Ouachita parish girls were awarded trips to the national meeting for winning, last July, state contests held at Baton Rouge during the annual short courses of the extension division of Louisiana State university. The girls are Mary Ella Sims, state canning champion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sims of Liberty community, and L. Marie Bayles, state bread making champion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bayles of Drew community.

The three Ouachita parish club girls will leave here next Saturday morning for Jackson, Miss., where the Louisiana clubs delegation will be assembled for the trip to Chicago. Miss Margaret Finberg, district home demonstration agent of southwest Louisiana, will be in charge of the entire group of girls.

LACK OF STEEL HALTS BUILDING

Construction Of Overpass At Corey Delayed By No Material

The Pittsbugh-Des Moines Steel company has temporarily shut down operations at Corey, in Caldwell parish, where an overpass over the Missouri Pacific railroad is under construction. Inability to secure steel is given as the cause, but it is hoped inside of the next week to receive material sufficient to enable the resumption of work.

The company anticipates initiation of the work of paving of approaches to the overpass by December 10.

Doullut and Ewing have completed the graveling of the Carleton-Pleasant Valley church road in Ouachita parish, which is another farm to market highway. The same company has started to gravel the Eros-Indian Village road.

Nelson Brothers have graveled and are now dressing up the sides of the Simsboro-Spring Hill road, which will be completed in 10 days time. They have also completed all dirt work and are working on the steel bridge over De Louter bayou in Union parish.

Part of the labor on all these projects is being provided by the Louisiana State Employment service.

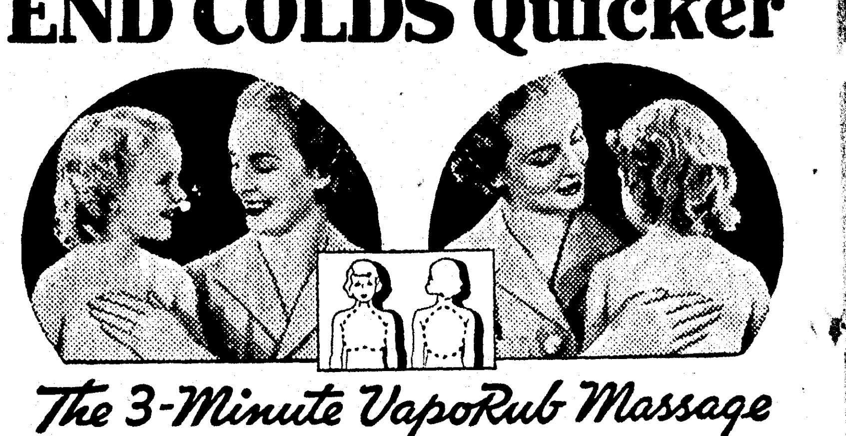
Young Mothers! Here's Help to END COLDS Quicker



The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.

It takes so little time—it does so much — this 3-Minute VapoRub Massage!

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute —direct to the irritated air-passages.

This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets

This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

RAVAGES SHOWN BY TUBERCULOSIS

Figures Cited Of Destruction Wrought Throughout Country

The Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association is busily engaged in preparing for the sending out of Christmas seals, the annual campaign for which starts on Thanksgiving day.

In explanation of the need for warfare on the white plague some facts and figures are cited by G. B. Cooley, president of the local group:

"Your chances for dying from tuberculosis were about four times as great some 30 years ago as they are today. Thus you have today gained a security from tuberculosis such as the world has never before known.

"Thirty years ago 200 out of every 100,000 people living in the United States were dying every year from tuberculosis. If you go back another 30 years, the number is more than 300, or three out of every 1,000 people who lived and worked in the days of your mothers and fathers. No wonder Oliver Wendell Holmes called it "the white plague." Today not many more than 50 people are dying from this disease yearly in each 100,000. Still a large number, to be sure, but small by way of comparison with figures of a generation or two ago.

"Thirty years ago the estimated number of living persons in the United States who had tuberculosis was approximately 1,500,000. Today there is less than one-half that number of living victims of this disease in this country. When it is realized that every victim of tuberculosis is a potential spreader of tuberculosis to an average of three others, the chances of "catching" the disease today, as compared with 30 years ago, are very much less.

"Tuberculosis still is one of our greatest, and in many communities our greatest, health hazard. It still takes a toll of almost 70,000 lives annually. It still numbers its living victims by more than 500,000 and it still causes loss of life and health that costs our country at least three-quarters of a billion dollars a year. We have enough scientific knowledge to bring this "white plague" under control, if not to eradicate it. To do this requires the education of many millions of people, in order to get them to do their part in ridding the country of tuberculosis.

The recruits are Gordon E. Hill, S. F. Harris and Simon W. Hicks, all of West Monroe, John C. Hamilton of Chatham, and Bonnie J. Chambless of Eros.

Vacancies in various branches of United States army service in this country and abroad are to be filled in the near future with young men enlisted at this time, it was stated.

God character references from responsible citizens and certain educational requirements are necessary for enlistments.

STERLINGTON GIRL AWARDED CLUB TRIP

Sydney Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Alexander of Sterlington, and winner of a Ouachita parish 4-H club food preparation contest, has been awarded a trip to Chicago to attend an annual meeting of the national 4-H Club congress to be held there November 28 to December 5, it was learned yesterday from Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent.

The trip was awarded Miss Alexander by the Illinois Central railroad after Walter C. Abbott, state 4-H club leader, had announced that she was the winner of the Ouachita parish contest. The honor was the deciding qualification which won the trip for Miss Alexander as an "all-around" 4-H Club girl.

Two other Ouachita parish girls were awarded trips to the national meeting for winning, last July, state contests held at Baton Rouge during the annual short courses of the extension division of Louisiana State university. The girls are Mary Ella Sims, state canning champion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sims of Liberty community, and L. Marie Bayles, state bread making champion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bayles of Drew community.

The three Ouachita parish club girls will leave here next Saturday morning for Jackson, Miss., where the Louisiana clubs delegation will be assembled for the trip to Chicago. Miss Margaret Finberg, district home demonstration agent of southwest Louisiana, will be in charge of the entire group of girls.

LACK OF STEEL HALTS BUILDING

The Pittsbugh-Des Moines Steel company has temporarily shut down operations at Corey, in Caldwell parish, where an overpass over the Missouri Pacific railroad is under construction. Inability to secure steel is given as the cause, but it is hoped inside of the next week to receive material sufficient to enable the resumption of work.

The company anticipates initiation of the work of paving of approaches to the overpass by December 10.

Doullut and Ewing have completed the graveling of the Carleton-Pleasant Valley church road in Ouachita parish, which is another farm to market highway. The same company has started to gravel the Eros-Indian Village road.

Nelson Brothers have graveled and are now dressing up the sides of the Simsboro-Spring Hill road, which will be completed in 10 days time. They have also completed all dirt work and are working on the steel bridge over De Louter bayou in Union parish.

Part of the labor on all these projects is being provided by the Louisiana State Employment service.

Real Estate Transfers

Henry Q. Green sold to Ouachita parish yesterday 14 acres of land at Calhoun for the consideration of $1,000, it was learned at the office of the parish clerk of court. Purchase of the land was authorized by the police jury at a recent meeting. The land, with a building already located on it, will be used by the parish road maintenance department for storing road equipment.

Young Mothers! Here's Help to END COLDS Quicker
The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage
Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warmed cloth.
It takes so little time—it does so much — this 3-Minute VapoRub Massage!
Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:
1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a poultice or plaster.
2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute —direct to the irritated air-passages.
This combined poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.
Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets
This safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

POULTRY COURSE TO OPEN TUESDAY

Blood Testing And Flock Inspection To Be Taught By Specialist

A two-day poultry course, beginning Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, will be conducted here at the courthouse by Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist of the Louisiana State university extension service and secretary of the Louisiana Poultry Improvement association.

The course is designed to train poultry leaders for blood testing and flock inspection work. Attendance at the course will be limited to persons who have had practical experience or special instruction in poultry work. Hatcherymen are especially urged to attend the course.

Certificates will be awarded by the Poultry Improvement association to persons completing the course. John H. Birdsong of Monroe is president of the association.

Emphasis on handling the problem of pullorum diseases, and culling, will be given during the short course. Demonstration showing how to give blood tests for pullorum diseases will be made.

Pullorum diseases cause a heavy loss among baby chickens. One hen may carry enough germs to infect an entire brood of chickens with the disease.

Persons desiring to attend the short course are advised to report to room No. 303 at the courthouse Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

safety. Three sailors and two Palamos residents were injured.

The Casa de Campo offensive followed close upon recapture of University City positions by the government militia and General Jose Miaja said rout of the civil war enemy was "inevitable."

While icy rains prevented a Fascist aerial attack on Madrid, wintry blasts added to the hardships of Madrid residents. It was estimated more than 250,000 women, children and old persons remained to be evacuated from the capital.

The commissary of evacuation announced 1,000 automobiles had been requisitioned to carry the refugees to safe haven, east and south of Madrid. The auto caravan was instructed to bring back food to the male defenders remaining.

"In view of the fact that the insurgents respect neither women nor children in their barbarous raids, we've decided to evacuate them as a precautionary measure," the commissary said.

The government confirmed the death of Buena Ventura Durrti, leader of Catalan volunteers to the Madrid defense. He was wounded fatally while leading an attack against Fascists within the University City suburb.

Recapturing University City positions, the Madrid militia battered Fascists in the suburbs with short-range artillery fire and consolidated forces "to crush the foe in a single, decisive battle," said General Jose Miaja.

GOVERNMENT

Until 1940, a state law may require that an applicant be as much as 70 years old. After that no law may have an age requirement in excess of 65. No citizen may be excluded on grounds that he has not been a citizen long enough. And no one who has been a resident of the state for 5 of the 9 years before he asks help, and has lived in the state continuously for a year before applying, may be denied assistance on ground of too short a residence.

The federal grant equal one-half the assistance payments in the states but there is a $15 limit per month per individual. That is, a state may pay the individual $40 a month if it desires, but the federal government will pay the state only $15, the state itself must stand the $25 expense.

An additional 9 per cent of the federal grant is allowed for administrative expenses. None of the money may be used for payments to people under 65 or to inmates of public institutions.

Aid to the needy blind is measured by approximately the same considerations. To illustrate, consider a home where the bread winner has died, leaving the widow to take care of a blind grandfather and three children under ten.

If they reside in a state cooperation with all three plans, the local authorities may make a monthly allowance for the grandfather and each child as needed. The grandfather can not collect twice, for being aged and blind. If the widow s blind, she is eligible.

The federal grants for aid to children are one-third of the state expenditures for that purpose, except no contribution is made for that part which exceeds $10 a month for the first child and $12 for each additional child in the same family. Payments for children in institutions may not be supplemented with the cash from Washington.

To be helped the dependent child must be living with relatives. He can not be excluded from the benefits if he has lived in the state for a year preceding the application or was born withn the year, providing the mother has lived in the state for a year preceding the birth.

The raising of state funds is left entirely to the states. Each state must be effective all over the state, and must be mandatory upon the local units if administered by them. The federal government takes no initiative to establish a state program. Once a state program is approved, major responsibility for its administration is left to the state.

Periodic reports may be required by the security board.

Should the state plan fall short of the required standards at any time due to lack of funds, maladministration or any other cause, the security board must try to adjust the situation. If it fails, the federal grants can be discontinued until the state assures effective operation.

As the French gentleman said, passing the fifth floor, having fallen from the tenth, "it is all right, if it lasts."

SOME BIG corporations pouring out surpluses because the law compels it may learn to sympathize with the female scorpion, who takes her young ones out for a ride on her back, in the nice sunshine. As she crawls along, the little scorpions devour the inside of her body, finally leaving an empty shell.

Too drastic distribution of surplus might produce several empty corporation shells. The baby-scorpion stock holders should think of that.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, able Englishman, thinks Great Britain, France, the United States, should remain "one in support of democracy," and calls the United States "a child of our blood and ideals." This country is the child of many different kinds of blood and ideals; greater New York includes the biggest Italian city in the world, bigger than Rome or Milan; more than a million of Italian birth or descent. The same New York contains two million Jews, more than ever were in Palestine; old Jerusalem could have been put in a corner of Central park. Winston Churchill, himself, is more a child of the United States than the United States is a child of England. Churchill's mother was the former American girl, Miss Jerome, whose father built her a fine house with a theater and stage, which is now the Democratic club on New York's Madison square.

A LABOR MEMBER of parliament says King Edward is visiting unfortunate coal miners in Wales to win popular approval in connection with his proposed marriage to an American lady.

The Laborite apparently forgets that before there was any public discussion of "an American lady," King Edward, after visiting the great passenger steamer Queen Mary, visited some miserable slums where workmen live, and asked how Great Britain, rich enough and powerful enough to build such a ship, could tolerate such hideous slums.

The king seems to have a really democratic "streak" apart from his interest in any "American ladies."

consensus of business opinion and to bring its conclusions to the attention of those administering the affairs of government and to the public."

The general expression of chamber policy was the latest of a number of statements stressing cooperation which have been issued in business and administration quarters since the election. One such, urging industry to give a "fair share" of jobs to older workers and to unskilled labor, was made by President Roosevelt himself.

Publication of the Washington Review followed approval by the chamber of commerce directors of a committee report suggesting that business men carefully survey the possibilities of regulating industry through state compacts.

The report said such regulation as that over electric utilities, milk production, use of natural resources and the like might be accomplished by agreements among states with similar interests.

The agreements would be subject to approval by congress, the report said, thus assuring that states would deal with regulatory matters in a way "consistent with national interest."

"Through the use of compacts among states," it added, "there would be respect for the constitutional reservation to the states of all powers not expressly granted to the federal government, with the practical effect the courts in reviewing compacts could take a more liberal view than in construing legislation purporting to be based upon limited federal powers."

Discussing specific economic questions, the Washington Review said bills to provide a six-hour day for railroad workers, to limit train lengths, and provide full crews, would "seriously interfere with responsibilities of rialroad management" and add $900,000,000 to the annual cost of railroad operations.

On other issues, it cited a statement by the international chamber of commerce on "the beneficial aspects" of the tri-power monetary agreement, and said that corporations "are encountering many difficulties in comprehending" possible effects of the new federal tax on undistributed profits.

W. Day, C. B. White, Guy M. Hicks, Louis Hoffpauir, Virgil Morris, J. M. Boykin, B. B. Boddie, J. A. McCormick, C. K. Smith, H. W. Rickey, Howard E. Post, Morris D. Wilkerson, A. C. Lawton, D. W. Poole and R. E. Pitts.

Funeral services were held in the church that was Rev. Barr's last charge, and interment was made in the Oak Ridge cemetery.

Rev. Barr's body lay in state in the First Methodist church of Monroe several hours Friday, and in the Oak Ridge church Saturday. Innumerable friends visited the bier at both places.

A native of DeKalb county, Alabama, Rev. Barr, often termed "the grand old man of north Louisiana Methodism," spent the greater part of his life in this state.

Rev. Barr spent his childhood and early manhood in Winn parish, where his family was engaged in farming. He received an education at the old Atlanta institute at Atlanta, La. However, due to conditions arising from the War Between the States and the financial plight of his family, his formal education was scant.

His ministerial career as a local preacher began in 1879, and he affiliated himself with the Methodist Episcopal conference in 1882. Although he was superannuated in 1926, he continued in popular demand as a minister.

Throughout most of his career, Rev. Barr was a circuit rider, serving a number of churches in this section. He ended his active ministerial days in Oak Ridge, where he held the pastorate for 10 consecutive years at the insistent demand of his congregation.

Rev. Barr is survived by five daughters, Mrs. S. M. Abel of Rochelle, Mrs. W. O. Files of Oak Ridge, Mrs. J. M. Brothers of Monroe, Mrs. Minnie Boughton of San Marcos, Tex., and Mrs. Roberta Bondy of San Antonio, Tex.; one sister, Mrs. M. A. Hunt of West Monroe; and numerous grandchildren.

"Espionage and thuggery are shown to be businesses organized on a nationwide scale, to which great corporations pay tens of millions annually. Strike breaking munitions, gas grenades, and machine guns are proved to be stocked by plants in every line of industry.

"Criminals, paid by business, march out of plants badged as deputy sheriffs, free to frame union men to prison. Big employers are shown personally instructing gangsters in the arts and tricks of destroying unions.

"Local public officials have been revealed as selling tear gas by night and, by day, drilling vigilantes as 'law and order leaguers' to crush unions."

increased 1936 earnings before the end of the year to obtain tax credits under the federal levy on undistributed profits.

The rush slackened at the week-end today but financial circles expected many additions before the tax deadline arrives.

The week's record included 134 extra payments. Not one reduction or omission was reported.

Scattered additional announcements of added compensation for workers included bonuses by Phillips Petroleum and Continental Oil, two of the larger units of the oil industry. About 1,000 employes of the Dolphin Jute mill and the Linen Thread company, Paterson, N. J., got ten per cent wage increases amounting to $100,000 annually. The National Tea company disclosed wage increases early this month for 4,000 employes approximating $300,000 over its chain system.

Among additions to the dividend list were an increase of 25 cents by Borg Warner, a year-end payment of 60 cents by Thompson Products, a 25-cent payment by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, 40 cents by Niagara Share and an extra of 25 cents by Scott Paper.

Republic Steel declared a dividend of $12 on account of accumulations on preferred stock and the Crane company $17.75 a share on preferred, including $14 in arrears.

POULTRY COURSE TO OPEN TUESDAY

Blood Testing And Flock Inspection To Be Taught By Specialist

A two-day poultry course, beginning Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, will be conducted here at the courthouse by Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist of the Louisiana State university extension service and secretary of the Louisiana Poultry Improvement association.

The course is designed to train poultry leaders for blood testing and flock inspection work. Attendance at the course will be limited to persons who have had practical experience or special instruction in poultry work. Hatcherymen are especially urged to attend the course.

Certificates will be awarded by the Poultry Improvement association to persons completing the course. John H. Birdsong of Monroe is president of the association.

Emphasis on handling the problem of pullorum diseases, and culling, will be given during the short course. Demonstration showing how to give blood tests for pullorum diseases will be made.

Pullorum diseases cause a heavy loss among baby chickens. One hen may carry enough germs to infect an entire brood of chickens with the disease.

Persons desiring to attend the short course are advised to report to room No. 303 at the courthouse Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

safety. Three sailors and two Palamos residents were injured.

The Casa de Campo offensive followed close upon recapture of University City positions by the government militia and General Jose Miaja said rout of the civil war enemy was "inevitable."

While icy rains prevented a Fascist aerial attack on Madrid, wintry blasts added to the hardships of Madrid residents. It was estimated more than 250,000 women, children and old persons remained to be evacuated from the capital.

The commissary of evacuation announced 1,000 automobiles had been requisitioned to carry the refugees to safe haven, east and south of Madrid. The auto caravan was instructed to bring back food to the male defenders remaining.

"In view of the fact that the insurgents respect neither women nor children in their barbarous raids, we've decided to evacuate them as a precautionary measure," the commissary said.

The government confirmed the death of Buena Ventura Durrti, leader of Catalan volunteers to the Madrid defense. He was wounded fatally while leading an attack against Fascists within the University City suburb.

Recapturing University City positions, the Madrid militia battered Fascists in the suburbs with short-range artillery fire and consolidated forces "to crush the foe in a single, decisive battle," said General Jose Miaja.

Until 1940, a state law may require that an applicant be as much as 70 years old. After that no law may have an age requirement in excess of 65. No citizen may be excluded on grounds that he has not been a citizen long enough. And no one who has been a resident of the state for 5 of the 9 years before he asks help, and has lived in the state continuously for a year before applying, may be denied assistance on ground of too short a residence.

The federal grant equal one-half the assistance payments in the states but there is a $15 limit per month per individual. That is, a state may pay the individual $40 a month if it desires, but the federal government will pay the state only $15, the state itself must stand the $25 expense.

An additional 9 per cent of the federal grant is allowed for administrative expenses. None of the money may be used for payments to people under 65 or to inmates of public institutions.

Aid to the needy blind is measured by approximately the same considerations. To illustrate, consider a home where the bread winner has died, leaving the widow to take care of a blind grandfather and three children under ten.

If they reside in a state cooperation with all three plans, the local authorities may make a monthly allowance for the grandfather and each child as needed. The grandfather can not collect twice, for being aged and blind. If the widow s blind, she is eligible.

The federal grants for aid to children are one-third of the state expenditures for that purpose, except no contribution is made for that part which exceeds $10 a month for the first child and $12 for each additional child in the same family. Payments for children in institutions may not be supplemented with the cash from Washington.

To be helped the dependent child must be living with relatives. He can not be excluded from the benefits if he has lived in the state for a year preceding the application or was born withn the year, providing the mother has lived in the state for a year preceding the birth.

The raising of state funds is left entirely to the states. Each state must be effective all over the state, and must be mandatory upon the local units if administered by them. The federal government takes no initiative to establish a state program. Once a state program is approved, major responsibility for its administration is left to the state.

Periodic reports may be required by the security board.

Should the state plan fall short of the required standards at any time due to lack of funds, maladministration or any other cause, the security board must try to adjust the situation. If it fails, the federal grants can be discontinued until the state assures effective operation.

SOME BIG corporations pouring out surpluses because the law compels it may learn to sympathize with the female scorpion, who takes her young ones out for a ride on her back, in the nice sunshine. As she crawls along, the little scorpions devour the inside of her body, finally leaving an empty shell.

Too drastic distribution of surplus might produce several empty corporation shells. The baby-scorpion stock holders should think of that.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, able Englishman, thinks Great Britain, France, the United States, should remain "one in support of democracy," and calls the United States "a child of our blood and ideals." This country is the child of many different kinds of blood and ideals; greater New York includes the biggest Italian city in the world, bigger than Rome or Milan; more than a million of Italian birth or descent. The same New York contains two million Jews, more than ever were in Palestine; old Jerusalem could have been put in a corner of Central park. Winston Churchill, himself, is more a child of the United States than the United States is a child of England. Churchill's mother was the former American girl, Miss Jerome, whose father built her a fine house with a theater and stage, which is now the Democratic club on New York's Madison square.

A LABOR MEMBER of parliament says King Edward is visiting unfortunate coal miners in Wales to win popular approval in connection with his proposed marriage to an American lady.

The Laborite apparently forgets that before there was any public discussion of "an American lady," King Edward, after visiting the great passenger steamer Queen Mary, visited some miserable slums where workmen live, and asked how Great Britain, rich enough and powerful enough to build such a ship, could tolerate such hideous slums.

The king seems to have a really democratic "streak" apart from his interest in any "American ladies."

consensus of business opinion and to bring its conclusions to the attention of those administering the affairs of government and to the public."

The general expression of chamber policy was the latest of a number of statements stressing cooperation which have been issued in business and administration quarters since the election. One such, urging industry to give a "fair share" of jobs to older workers and to unskilled labor, was made by President Roosevelt himself.

Publication of the Washington Review followed approval by the chamber of commerce directors of a committee report suggesting that business men carefully survey the possibilities of regulating industry through state compacts.

The report said such regulation as that over electric utilities, milk production, use of natural resources and the like might be accomplished by agreements among states with similar interests.

The agreements would be subject to approval by congress, the report said, thus assuring that states would deal with regulatory matters in a way "consistent with national interest."

"Through the use of compacts among states," it added, "there would be respect for the constitutional reservation to the states of all powers not expressly granted to the federal government, with the practical effect the courts in reviewing compacts could take a more liberal view than in construing legislation purporting to be based upon limited federal powers."

Discussing specific economic questions, the Washington Review said bills to provide a six-hour day for railroad workers, to limit train lengths, and provide full crews, would "seriously interfere with responsibilities of rialroad management" and add $900,000,000 to the annual cost of railroad operations.

On other issues, it cited a statement by the international chamber of commerce on "the beneficial aspects" of the tri-power monetary agreement, and said that corporations "are encountering many difficulties in comprehending" possible effects of the new federal tax on undistributed profits.

W. Day, C. B. White, Guy M. Hicks, Louis Hoffpauir, Virgil Morris, J. M. Boykin, B. B. Boddie, J. A. McCormick, C. K. Smith, H. W. Rickey, Howard E. Post, Morris D. Wilkerson, A. C. Lawton, D. W. Poole and R. E. Pitts.

Funeral services were held in the church that was Rev. Barr's last charge, and interment was made in the Oak Ridge cemetery.

Rev. Barr's body lay in state in the First Methodist church of Monroe several hours Friday, and in the Oak Ridge church Saturday. Innumerable friends visited the bier at both places.

A native of DeKalb county, Alabama, Rev. Barr, often termed "the grand old man of north Louisiana Methodism," spent the greater part of his life in this state.

Rev. Barr spent his childhood and early manhood in Winn parish, where his family was engaged in farming. He received an education at the old Atlanta institute at Atlanta, La. However, due to conditions arising from the War Between the States and the financial plight of his family, his formal education was scant.

His ministerial career as a local preacher began in 1879, and he affiliated himself with the Methodist Episcopal conference in 1882. Although he was superannuated in 1926, he continued in popular demand as a minister.

Throughout most of his career, Rev. Barr was a circuit rider, serving a number of churches in this section. He ended his active ministerial days in Oak Ridge, where he held the pastorate for 10 consecutive years at the insistent demand of his congregation.

Rev. Barr is survived by five daughters, Mrs. S. M. Abel of Rochelle, Mrs. W. O. Files of Oak Ridge, Mrs. J. M. Brothers of Monroe, Mrs. Minnie Boughton of San Marcos, Tex., and Mrs. Roberta Bondy of San Antonio, Tex.; one sister, Mrs. M. A. Hunt of West Monroe; and numerous grandchildren.

Politeness A Part Of Moral Sanity

Life, if it be happy and peaceful, is daily built of harmonious parts into a harmonious whole. Strive every day for harmony between yourself and the members of your family; between yourself and the associates outside your home. And harmony, as we all learn at one time or another, comes only from consideration and respect for the wishes of those with whom we are in contact, at home, at work or at play. It must be practiced every day; not tomorrow and yesterday, but today; for friction arises from old scars, from remembered hurts, as well as from the small inconsiderations we may be inflicting today.

Esme Wingfield-Stratford, in "New Minds for Old," stresses the gentle, harmonious way of life. He defines the first-class mind as one that is harmonious, in the sense that it adapts itself to environment, and particularly to its human environment, without friction, without daily tempers and unnecessary unpleasantness.

Brutality in a civilized environment, he shows, is not only repellant, but ineffective. The best engines run smoothly, and life shares this, at least, in common with machinery, that friction is waste. Unmannerly assertiveness is like the roaring of an engine when the clutch has slipped—it is not doing its work, and at the same time is ruining itself by overheating.

Rude conduct is objectionable for two reasons. It causes the seed we sow to fall on unfruitful soil, by arousing an instinctive hostility in any intelligent person, and, what is worse, it means that our minds are working in a way definitely wrong, and that our mental output is made defective by the fallacy of making assertion take the place of thought.

Mr. Stratford in his book rates politeness as one of the creative arts, to be achieved, not by following a set of rules, but by a great sympathy for others and by cultivating an imagination and anticipation of the reactions of those about us.

"Politeness," he says, "is the formal assertion of love as the basis of human intercourse. The gentleman, at least, makes a show of loving and respecting his neighbor as himself. There is a shallowness as well as a depth of manners, and the best manners are those in which the form must truly correspond with the reality."

Cultivate, then, politeness that springs from the heart, the gentle consideration you wish yourself to receive from others, the sense of humor we know to be the stabilizing factor in moral sanity—and harmony of life is most surely to be ours.

NECESSARY DATA

Officials of the commerce department are said to be drafting plans for a complete unemployment census of the United States. Congress, it is reported, will be asked to vote from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 for the job.

The work as outlined would take four months or more —but when is was finished we would know exactly how many men were out of work, what their former occupations were, what industries were over-supplied with workers, and what ones were not.

One hardly needs to say that this is an excellent plan; one can only wonder that it was not undertaken long ago.

For some six years now, unemployment has been our greatest problem; yet in all that time we have not made one move toward finding out what its exact extent may be.

That record is hardly believable. The very least congress can do is to pass a bill along these lines as rapidly as possible. We cannot go on any longer without getting all the facts.

TRAGIC NOTE

One of the most tragic stories to come out of the world of industry recently is the disclosure that many workers are afraid to fill out their social security act blanks for fear their employers will find out that they are older than they were supposed to be and will fire them.

In many and many a case, the worker's age is his most jealously guarded secret. In many other cases, workers of 48 have given their bosses to understand that they are 40 or 41. For a great many companies have a definite policy of weeding out men who pass 45.

So a great number of workers fear that they will lose their jobs if they fill out the security act blanks and give their right ages.

As it happens, those blanks may be mailed direct to Washington, where only federal officials may see them.

But what a commentary on individual practices that fear is! Can we have a more cruel or anti-social custom than the one which heads men for the scrap-heap as soon as they pass the mid-forties?

G-Man Hoover says that politics is the new Public Enemy No. 1, a statement of truth which will not improve his standing with the politicians.

New York's version of the world fair will cost $125,000,000. It's going to take a lot of fan dancers to liquidate that deficit.

Rhyme And Reason

TO WALK IN AUTUMN

To walk in autumn is to be
Alive to Nature's witchery.
A tall princess in golden gown.
The birch tree, clothed as for a ball,
Wears veils of silver; and the call
Of autumn wind is no mischance
When maple trees begin to dance.

The autumn holds its solemn breath
To see bright leaves waltz to their death.
The glory of the fields and trees
Is filled with somber harmonies.
The grass that in the early spring
Was quickened into welcoming
The daffodils' enchanted glow
Awaits the coming of the snow.

The happy year is growing old.
It girds itself against the cold
By putting on its finest dress,
Surprising us with loveliness.
Thus will I face my own old age,
With autumn's power to assuage
Its bleakness with gay colors twined
In the last garlands of the mind.

You Can't, Really

By BRUCE CATTON

The New York stock-broking gentleman who was going to sell his quail farm and move to Canada if the nation didn't vote right seems to have changed his mind, but his place has been taken by a well-to-do New Englander.

This man is not heading for Canada, but for some island in the Bahamas. He sailed from New York the other day announcing that the presidential election displeased him, that he was fed up with American civilization anyhow, and that, in company with a few wealthy Englishmen, who feel much the same way about their own fatherland, he is going to establish a safe retreat in the Caribbean sea.

He and his British friends plan to buy an island outright. They are all pretty well heeled, so their retreat will lack few comforts. There will be room for other wealthy Americans and Englishmen who can't stand the pressure at home.

Now the first fact that leaps to the mind about this little venture is that the retreat from civilization will be a sham rather than a reality. The owners of this island Eden will need money to keep it going; and the money, inevitably, will come from American and British industry and finance in the form of dividend and interest checks and so on.

Furthermore, these latter-day Adams will need furniture, foodstuffs, gadgets such as radios and iceboxes and siphons, clothing, books, and all manner of incidentals; and these products of the civilization they are trying to escape will be bought with the money which that civilization produces.

If they are tired of civilization, of President Roosevelt and Premier Baldwin, of New Deals and war scares, they can get away from it all only by landing naked on some lonely shore and hewing out their living with their bare hands.

Their present scheme no more cuts them off from civilization than does a trip to the top floor of the Empire State building. The folks back home will be supporting them.

And if war, depression, or revolution hits America and England, of course, these island refugees will be the very first to sink beneath the waves.

• • •

It all adds up, of course, to the simple fact that there can be no real escape from the modern world. We may think it's a fine world or we may think it's the worst world possible—but, hot or cold, we have to take it and like it.

Since we can't get away—since all of us are going to sink or swim together—isn't it a man's part to stay on the job and make the best of it, rather than to hunt up a remote burrow where he can stick his ostrich-head in the palm-fringed sands of some balmy tropic shore?

A BOOK REVIEW

BOOK SETS GULLIBLE MANKIND RIGHT

Mankind's odd custom of believing so many things that aren't so is examined by Vilhjalmur Stefansson in an entertaining book, "Adventures in Error."

Mr. Stefansson points out that some of our most cherished beliefs have no basis in fact. Many of them deal with the Arctic, and Mr. Stefansson is well qualified to discuss them.

The Arctic is the land of eternal snow, tremendous blizzards and no trees, as everybody knows. Well, says Mr. Stefansson, the average snowfall on the United States-Canadian border is far heavier than that of the extreme Arctic. The blizzards of that part of the country are worse than Arctic blizzards. And there are forests with trees 70 feet tall, well inside the Arctic Circle.

Nor is that all. The musk-ox of the far north does not live on lichens, but on flowering plants—which grow in profusion despite the "eternal snow." Most Eskimos have never seen a snow house. On a good summer day it will be as hot in upper Alaska as in Ohio.

Mr. Stefansson has his most fun, however, with the famous bathtub hoax.

You doubtless have seen stories about how the first bathtub in America was built in Cincinnati in 1845, how the White House never possessed a tub until Millard Fillmore's administration, and how Boston once had a law barring bathtubs? It's all false.

H. L. Mencken did it. In 1917 he wrote a kidding story, embodying those "facts," in a New York newspaper. To his amazement, everyone believed it. To this day Mencken's spoofing is solemnly accepted as gospel, despite his amused efforts to set people right.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GENIUS OF ELI WHITNEY—The inventor of the cotton gin was born in Westborough, Mass., in 1765. After graduating from Yale college, he went to Georgia, where the widow of General Nathaniel Greene invited him to stay at her plantation. Mrs. Greene soon came to have a very high opinion of young Whitney's capacity as an inventor. A few neighboring planters who happened to be visiting Mrs. Greene's plantation happened to mention the impossibility of cleaning cotton fiber from the seed. Someone suggested the remote possibility of accomplishing this end by machinery. It was then that Mrs. Greene suggested to her guests her conviction that Eli Whitney, if anyone, ought to be able to do it. The matter was submitted to the young inventor, who had never seen either a cotton plant or seed up to that time.

Whitney shut himself up in his quarters to study uncleaned cotton and a few months later, with the aid of self-made tools produced the cotton gin. This invention revolutionized the industry and ranks with the greatest achievements of mankind. But Whitney did not profit by it. His house was broken into, the machine stolen and counterfeited. The resulting lawsuits for infringement impoverished the inventor. Whitney later established a manufactory of arms in New Haven, Conn., which was a financial success.

NEW YORK Day by Day by O.O. McIntyre

I have long since given up following the rules, traffic lights and keep-off-the-grass signals about grammar. I have to catch myself not to say, "It's me." And force myself to say, "This is he" over the telephone. In spite of what they told us in the grade school!

The split infinitive business is fairly secure with me because I worked with a city editor to whom the split infinitive was anathema. Many times in writing of radio it seems smoother to say a program was "broadcasted" instead of the correct "broadcast." Solecisms, too, are my dish. Often more expressive than when shorn of their redundancy.

I used to search and listen for the smart-alecky way of saying things. There was a time when a plain statement of fact would bring a British "Really" from me. It sounded heigh-ho.

My beliefs are often ungrammatical. But what we might regard as the "ordinary" way of saying things is apt to be the better way of saying it. Folks have put those old expressions through long tests. Well known expressions are apt to be easier for the reader to wade through. The precise Hawthorne tripped on a couple of double negatives.

Irvin Cobb accents the "po" in policeman and calls a window a "winder." Will Hogg, a college regent and shark in catching grammatic upsets even in the classics, always preferred "I ain't" and used it. So does Bugs Baer. I once heard a professor who authored a text book on English say: "He invited my wife and I to dinner."

Our slang, too, not the Broadway sort, but of the George Adeain school, is a delight. It often says it as nothing else. We know a lady who is always getting us to write down slang which she mails to England. Of course, the meanings have to be set opposite, in more orthodox lingo. She has an aunt in Sussex who revels in it.

Then a bad habit many writers indulge of using CAPS for emphasis. It's like shouting in debate and may defeat its own ends. I have no particular taste for them and do not believe they are an essential of forceful writing, but I'll sneak them in whenever no one is looking.

There was an expression, "Confound that fellow." My father often used it when irked by some citizen's deportment. The Bible, I think, uses "confound" often. Tribes were confounded by the Creator for their errors. It was a mild sounding word but like many gentle sounding things, powerful. Anyone who has been confounded—and who has not?—knows the misery of that condition.

The true Gilbert and Sullivan fan arises when you want to pass to your seat. It's the most polite audience in the theater, by far, and the most loyal. What a lesson they could teach the showy cafe society first night crowds in other theaters.

Many of the Long Island suburbs are having evangelistic revivals. In passing one of the tabernacles the other day I thought of the revivalist who came to Gallipolis to put on a week or so of exhorting. One night he said that you could not see through the windows of the saloons from the street because the saloon keepers were ashamed of their calling. A saloon-keeper sitting near an uncle of mine observed dryly that he couldn't see where the windows of the church they were sitting in were particularly crystaline. I remember one religious whooper-upper bellowed that folk danced "just for the huggin' they could get out of it."

Jo Metzger, a veteran caricaturist of the newspaper shops, was telling Russ Cole of the time he was, with a pal, in Cleveland, hungry and broke. They'd not eaten for two days and they were going along a residence street in the rain. Metzger looked in at a lawn and saw lying there a very wet but very good $5 bill. They split it 50-50. And Metzger thought they could eat for a few days. His pal at the next corner stepped into a tobacco store and bought a dollar pipe.

There are two expressions in letter writing that always strike me with their coldness—"Dear Friend" and "Cordially yours." The first sounds like a circular from a clothing store.

In all the whoop de-do of the circus parade there is usually that picturesque old vet, holding in his hands about all the "ribbons" that two hands can hold, cursing and trying to manage about six unruly teams of horses, hooked to a lion cage. As a boy I'd rather have been that bird than king of six countries.

We had a reporter on a mid-west paper who was windy. When on Sunday he and his wife went to his father-in-law's for dinner, he'd sit in the front porch and spin wild yarns. His father-in-law very old, seated alongside, would eventually arise, go into the house, shaking his head and snorting: "Ther's nothin' t' that." In infancy and in old age people stick more closely to facts. In the intermediate years, they stray afield—indulge the fancy and depart from truth.

Decent newspapering lost a valiant champion in the passing of Marlen E. Pew, long editor of Editor and Publisher. Those who clung to ethical standards were his friends and he their counselor. He had only a biting contempt for the practitioners of slop-jar journalism and fought its inroads vigorously. He was a great reporter and editor in his time and could have held many big editorial posts in serener years, but he preferred to fight the things he detested in a noble calling that he loved.

Family Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

A Quaker named John Dalton bought some scarlet stockings which he thought were dark brown. This was the first scientifically recorded instance of color blindness.

Dalton was an eminent English physicist. It is said that he was walking down the street at Oxford, wearing his cap and gown and red stockings, just after a degree had been conferred upon him, and that one of his brother Quakers promptly took him to task for wearing such colors in public.

Color blindness is more common in boys than in girls. It is exceedingly important today because signals on the railroads and on street corners are most frequently red, green, and yellow, and occasionally blue, the colors most frequently concerned in color blindness.

Certainly, no one who is color blind should attempt to drive a motor car in modern traffic.

Persons who have color blindness see objects as lighter or darker, but are unable to distinguish shades. Sometimes they distinguish between red and green lights on roadways by their difference in brightness.

There is no specific cure for color blindness, since the defect is one of structure of the eye. However, as has already been mentioned, there are various ways in which the color vision may be developed or substitutions found.

The most common test involves sorting a number of colored worsteds. The person being tested is given certain pieces and asked to match them with others. There are other tests in which colored strips of paper are employed.

• • •

One woman who was an excellent seamstress was able to do sewing provided her family would tell her the colors of the thread. She was able to remember them by having each color in a different place in her workbox.

So important is color blindness today as a possible cause of accidents that every person who attempts to drive a motor car, or to occupy himself in any other way in which color detection is significant should have a test as soon as possible.

More than $32,600,000,000 was spent in retail stores by 30,000,000 American families last year.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Senator Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut is in the doghouse with the administration and it seems as if the administration might also be in the doghouse with Senator Lonergan.

The senator is chairman of the committee charged with investigating campaign funds. Because he is a Democrat and because the Democrats had a majority on the committee, it had been confidently expected that in time-honored manner the committee would provide some spectacular exposures during the campaign, with especial emphasis on big Republican contributions "irregular" tactics.

But Lonergan not only failed to help the New Deal campaign in that manner. He has blocked efforts of other committee members to start something.

It was Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, not Lonergan, who spilled from committee files the interesting information that five du Ponts, three Rockefellers, J. P. Morgan and other wealthy men had contributed large sums to the Republican campaign in Maine. Schwellenbach told Jim Farley.

• • •

'Burns Up' New Dealers

Democratic strategists then tried to get Lonergan to put the du Ponts, the Rockefellers and Morgan on the witness stand. Lonergan refused.

Schwellenbach's tactics, however, had the effect of discouraging at least a few wealthy men, who told Republican fund-raisers they feared they'd be haled before the committee if they contributed.

Currently, the New Dealers are burned up more than ever because Lonergan has refused an investigation of the defeat of Congressman Dennis Driscoll of Pennsylvania, who says he was beaten by a combination of "power trust" effort, employer coercion and paid whispering campaigns.

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania urged Lonergan to investigate, citing evidences of skullduggery, and was supported by two committee members, Schwellenbach and Senator Mintin of Indiana.

• • •

Ammunition For Lobbyists

The administration is likely to go to extremes in the Driscoll case because it is believed his defeat and that of Sisson of New York, plus narrow squeezes for other Democratic congressmen prominent in the bitter holding company fight in a year of Democratic landslides, will give power company lobbyists the chance to tell other congressmen that it's dangerous to incur enmity of the utilities.

Although Lonergan is able to take the position that he is refusing to let the committee be used as a partisan instrument, his critics in the administration are pointing out that he was elected in the Democratic sweep of 1932. Then the Democratic party in Connecticut was widely regarded as a mere adjunct to the Republican machine of J. Henry Roraback, powerful political boss and public utilities magnate.

One Way To Aid Business

President Roosevelt believes the various organizations, political machines, and individuals who tried to block his re-election spent around a hundred million dollars in the attempt.

"They helped our spending campaign a great deal," he remarked jokingly to some friends. "All we would need would be a campaign every six months to provide a large constant stimulus for business."

Roosevelt was also amused when told that wags along the lower borders of Maine and Vermont were putting up road signs inscribed: "You are now leaving the United States."

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

STAMP collectors may expect a rush of Spanish stamps, overprinted by the rebel forces as soon as they captured an important city. First came those of the island of Majorca. Now Seville has an overprinted set, and soon the overprints of other large centers may be expected. Some overprints are set in type, others are rubber-stamped, all along the same line, such as "Seville-Viva Espana-Julio 1936."

• • •

France has advanced its highest value in stamps from 10 francs to a new issue of 50 francs, which equals about $5.25 in United States money. This new high value is an airmail issue of the bank-note type, and is used mostly for registered airmail matter.

• • •

• • •

The Sultan of Zanzibar, Seyyed Sir Khalifa bin Harub, will commemorate the silver jubilee of his accession to the throne, Dec. 9, 1911, with a special jubilee issue of stamps.

• • •

It cost $8,000,000, and took 16 years to build Japan's new Diet building in Tokio, and its completion is celebrated with a set of four commemorative stamps, in two designs. One pair shows a view of the new building, and the other pair pictures the entrance.

Politeness A Part Of Moral Sanity

Life, if it be happy and peaceful, is daily built of harmonious parts into a harmonious whole. Strive every day for harmony between yourself and the members of your family; between yourself and the associates outside your home. And harmony, as we all learn at one time or another, comes only from consideration and respect for the wishes of those with whom we are in contact, at home, at work or at play. It must be practiced every day; not tomorrow and yesterday, but today; for friction arises from old scars, from remembered hurts, as well as from the small inconsiderations we may be inflicting today.

Esme Wingfield-Stratford, in "New Minds for Old," stresses the gentle, harmonious way of life. He defines the first-class mind as one that is harmonious, in the sense that it adapts itself to environment, and particularly to its human environment, without friction, without daily tempers and unnecessary unpleasantness.

Brutality in a civilized environment, he shows, is not only repellant, but ineffective. The best engines run smoothly, and life shares this, at least, in common with machinery, that friction is waste. Unmannerly assertiveness is like the roaring of an engine when the clutch has slipped—it is not doing its work, and at the same time is ruining itself by overheating.

Rude conduct is objectionable for two reasons. It causes the seed we sow to fall on unfruitful soil, by arousing an instinctive hostility in any intelligent person, and, what is worse, it means that our minds are working in a way definitely wrong, and that our mental output is made defective by the fallacy of making assertion take the place of thought.

Mr. Stratford in his book rates politeness as one of the creative arts, to be achieved, not by following a set of rules, but by a great sympathy for others and by cultivating an imagination and anticipation of the reactions of those about us.

"Politeness," he says, "is the formal assertion of love as the basis of human intercourse. The gentleman, at least, makes a show of loving and respecting his neighbor as himself. There is a shallowness as well as a depth of manners, and the best manners are those in which the form must truly correspond with the reality."

Cultivate, then, politeness that springs from the heart, the gentle consideration you wish yourself to receive from others, the sense of humor we know to be the stabilizing factor in moral sanity—and harmony of life is most surely to be ours.

NECESSARY DATA

Officials of the commerce department are said to be drafting plans for a complete unemployment census of the United States. Congress, it is reported, will be asked to vote from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 for the job.

The work as outlined would take four months or more—but when is was finished we would know exactly how many men were out of work, what their former occupations were, what industries were over-supplied with workers, and what ones were not.

One hardly needs to say that this is an excellent plan; one can only wonder that it was not undertaken long ago.

For some six years now, unemployment has been our greatest problem; yet in all that time we have not made one move toward finding out what its exact extent may be.

That record is hardly believable. The very least congress can do is to pass a bill along these lines as rapidly as possible. We cannot go on any longer without getting all the facts.

TRAGIC NOTE

One of the most tragic stories to come out of the world of industry recently is the disclosure that many workers are afraid to fill out their social security act blanks for fear their employers will find out that they are older than they were supposed to be and will fire them.

In many and many a case, the worker's age is his most jealously guarded secret. In many other cases, workers of 48 have given their bosses to understand that they are 40 or 41. For a great many companies have a definite policy of weeding out men who pass 45.

So a great number of workers fear that they will lose their jobs if they fill out the security act blanks and give their right ages.

As it happens, those blanks may be mailed direct to Washington, where only federal officials may see them.

But what a commentary on individual practices that fear is! Can we have a more cruel or anti-social custom than the one which heads men for the scrap-heap as soon as they pass the mid-forties?

G-Man Hoover says that politics is the new Public Enemy No. 1, a statement of truth which will not improve his standing with the politicians.

New York's version of the world fair will cost $125,000,000. It's going to take a lot of fan dancers to liquidate that deficit.

Rhyme And Reason

By ANNE CAMPBELL

TO WALK IN AUTUMN

To walk in autumn is to be
Alive to Nature's witchery.
A tall princess in golden gown.
The birch tree, clothed as for a ball,
Wears veils of silver; and the call
Of autumn wind is no mischance
When maple trees begin to dance.

The autumn holds its solemn breath
To see bright leaves waltz to their death.
The glory of the fields and trees
Is filled with somber harmonies.
The grass that in the early spring
Was quickened into welcoming
The daffodils' enchanted glow
Awaits the coming of the snow.

The happy year is growing old.
It girds itself against the cold
By putting on its finest dress,
Surprising us with loveliness.
Thus will I face my own old age,
With autumn's power to assuage
Its bleakness with gay colors twined
In the last garlands of the mind.

Our slang, too, not the Broadway sort, but of the George Adeain school, is a delight. It often says it as nothing else. We know a lady who is always getting us to write down slang which she mails to England. Of course, the meanings have to be set opposite, in more orthodox lingo. She has an aunt in Sussex who revels in it.

Then a bad habit many writers indulge of using CAPS for emphasis. It's like shouting in debate and may defeat its own ends. I have no particular taste for them and do not believe they are an essential of forceful writing, but I'll sneak them in whenever no one is looking.

There was an expression, "Confound that fellow." My father often used it when irked by some citizen's deportment. The Bible, I think, uses "confound" often. Tribes were confounded by the Creator for their errors. It was a mild sounding word but like many gentle sounding things, powerful. Anyone who has been confounded—and who has not?—knows the misery of that condition.

The true Gilbert and Sullivan fan arises when you want to pass to your seat. It's the most polite audience in the theater, by far, and the most loyal. What a lesson they could teach the showy cafe society first night crowds in other theaters.

Many of the Long Island suburbs are having evangelistic revivals. In passing one of the tabernacles the other day I thought of the revivalist who came to Gallipolis to put on a week or so of exhorting. One night he said that you could not see through the windows of the saloons from the street because the saloon keepers were ashamed of their calling. A saloon-keeper sitting near an uncle of mine observed dryly that he couldn't see where the windows of the church they were sitting in were particularly crystaline. I remember one religious whooper-upper bellowed that folk danced "just for the huggin' they could get out of it."

Jo Metzger, a veteran caricaturist of the newspaper shops, was telling Russ Cole of the time he was, with a pal, in Cleveland, hungry and broke. They'd not eaten for two days and they were going along a residence street in the rain. Metzger looked in at a lawn and saw lying there a very wet but very good $5 bill. They split it 50-50. And Metzger thought they could eat for a few days. His pal at the next corner stepped into a tobacco store and bought a dollar pipe.

There are two expressions in letter writing that always strike me with their coldness—"Dear Friend" and "Cordially yours." The first sounds like a circular from a clothing store.

In all the whoop de-do of the circus parade there is usually that picturesque old vet, holding in his hands about all the "ribbons" that two hands can hold, cursing and trying to manage about six unruly teams of horses, hooked to a lion cage. As a boy I'd rather have been that bird than king of six countries.

We had a reporter on a mid-west paper who was windy. When on Sunday he and his wife went to his father-in-law's for dinner, he'd sit in the front porch and spin wild yarns. His father-in-law very old, seated alongside, would eventually arise, go into the house, shaking his head and snorting: "Ther's nothin' t' that." In infancy and in old age people stick more closely to facts. In the intermediate years, they stray afield—indulge the fancy and depart from truth.

Decent newspapering lost a valiant champion in the passing of Marien E. Pew, long editor of Editor and Publisher. Those who clung to ethical standards were his friends and he their counselor. He had only a biting contempt for the practitioners of slop-jar journalism and fought its inroads vigorously. He was a great reporter and editor in his time and could have held many big editorial posts in serener years, but he preferred to fight the things he detested in a noble calling that he loved.

Family Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

A Quaker named John Dalton bought some scarlet stockings which he thought were dark brown. This was the first scientifically recorded instance of color blindness.

Dalton was an eminent English physicist. It is said that he was walking down the street at Oxford, wearing his cap and gown and red stockings, just after a degree had been conferred upon him, and that one of his brother Quakers promptly took him to task for wearing such colors in public.

Color blindness is more common in boys than in girls. It is exceedingly important today because signals on the railroads and on street corners are most frequently red, green, and yellow, and occasionally blue, the colors most frequently concerned in color blindness.

Certainly, no one who is color blind should attempt to drive a motor car in modern traffic.

Persons who have color blindness see objects as lighter or darker, but are unable to distinguish shades. Sometimes they distinguish between red and green lights on roadways by their difference in brightness.

There is no specific cure for color blindness, since the defect is one of structure of the eye. However, as has already been mentioned, there are various ways in which the color vision may be developed or substitutions found.

The most common test involves sorting a number of colored worsteds. The person being tested is given certain pieces and asked to match them with others. There are other tests in which colored strips of paper are employed.

* * *

One woman who was an excellent seamstress was able to do sewing provided her family would tell her the colors of the thread. She was able to remember them by having each color in a different place in her workbox.

So important is color blindness today as a possible cause of accidents that every person who attempts to drive a motor car, or to occupy himself in any other way in which color detection is significant should have a test as soon as possible.

More than $32,600,000,000 was spent in retail stores by 30,000,000 American families last year.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Senator Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut is in the doghouse with the administration and it seems as if the administration might also be in the doghouse with Senator Lonergan.

The senator is chairman of the committee charged with investigating campaign funds. Because he is a Democrat and because the Democrats had a majority on the committee, it had been confidently expected that in time-honored manner the committee would provide some spectacular exposures during the campaign, with especial emphasis on big Republican contributions "irregular" tactics.

But Lonergan not only failed to help the New Deal campaign in that manner. He has blocked efforts of other committee members to start something.

It was Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, not Lonergan, who spilled from committee files the interesting information that five du Ponts, three Rockefellers, J. P. Morgan and other wealthy men had contributed large sums to the Republican campaign in Maine. Schwellenbach told Jim Farley.

* * *

'Burns Up' New Dealers

Democratic strategists then tried to get Lonergan to put the du Ponts, the Rockefellers and Morgan on the witness stand. Lonergan refused.

Schwellenbach's tactics, however, had the effect of discouraging at least a few wealthy men, who told Republican fund-raisers they feared they'd be haled before the committee if they contributed.

Currently, the New Dealers are burned up more than ever because Lonergan has refused an investigation of the defeat of Congressman Dennis Driscoll of Pennsylvania, who says he was beaten by a combination of "power trust" effort, employer coercion and paid whispering campaigns.

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania urged Lonergan to investigate, citing evidences of skullduggery, and was supported by two committee members, Schwellenbach and Senator Mintin of Indiana.

* * *

Ammunition For Lobbyists

The administration is likely to go to extremes in the Driscoll case because it is believed his defeat and that of Sisson of New York, plus narrow squeezes for other Democratic congressmen prominent in the bitter holding company fight in a year of Democratic landslides, will give power company lobbyists the chance to tell other congressmen that it's dangerous to incur enmity of the utilities.

Although Lonergan is able to take the position that he is refusing to let the committee be used as a partisan instrument, his critics in the administration are pointing out that he was elected in the Democratic sweep of 1932. Then the Democratic party in Connecticut was widely regarded as a mere adjunct to the Republican machine of J. Henry Roraback, powerful political boss and public utilities magnate.

* * *

One Way To Aid Business

President Roosevelt believes the various organizations, political machines, and individuals who tried to block his re-election spent around a hundred million dollars in the attempt.

"They helped our spending campaign a great deal," he remarked jokingly to some friends. "All we would need would be a campaign every six months to provide a large constant stimulus for business."

Roosevelt was also amused when told that wags along the lower borders of Maine and Vermont were putting up road signs inscribed: "You are now leaving the United States."

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

STAMP collectors may expect a rush of Spanish stamps, overprinted by the rebel forces as soon as they captured an important city. First came those of the island of Majorca. Now Seville has an overprinted set, and soon the overprints of other large centers may be expected. Some overprints are set in type, others are rubber-stamped, all along the same line, such as "Seville-Viva Espana-Julio 1936."

* * *

France has advanced its highest value in stamps from 10 francs to a new issue of 50 francs, which equals about $5.25 in United States money. This new high value is an airmail issue of the bank-note type, and is used mostly for registered airmail matter.

* * *

* * *

The Sultan of Zanzibar, Seyyed Sir Khalifa bin Harub, will commemorate the silver jubilee of his accession to the throne, Dec. 9, 1911, with a special jubilee issue of stamps.

* * *

It cost $8,000,000, and took 16 years to build Japan's new Diet building in Tokio, and its completion is celebrated with a set of four commemorative stamps, in two designs. One pair shows a view of the new building, and the other pair pictures the entrance.

Politeness A Part Of Moral Sanity

Life, if it be happy and peaceful, is daily built of harmonious parts into a harmonious whole. Strive every day for harmony between yourself and the members of your family; between yourself and the associates outside your home. And harmony, as we all learn at one time or another, comes only from consideration and respect for the wishes of those with whom we are in contact, at home, at work or at play. It must be practiced every day; not tomorrow and yesterday, but today; for friction arises from old scars, from remembered hurts, as well as from the small inconsiderations we may be inflicting today.

Esme Wingfield-Stratford, in "New Minds for Old," stresses the gentle, harmonious way of life. He defines the first-class mind as one that is harmonious, in the sense that it adapts itself to environment, and particularly to its human environment, without friction, without daily tempers and unnecessary unpleasantness.

Brutality in a civilized environment, he shows, is not only repellant, but ineffective. The best engines run smoothly, and life shares this, at least, in common with machinery, that friction is waste. Unmannerly assertiveness is like the roaring of an engine when the clutch has slipped—it is not doing its work, and at the same time is ruining itself by overheating.

Rude conduct is objectionable for two reasons. It causes the seed we sow to fall on unfruitful soil, by arousing an instinctive hostility in any intelligent person, and, what is worse, it means that our minds are working in a way definitely wrong, and that our mental output is made defective by the fallacy of making assertion take the place of thought.

Mr. Stratford in his book rates politeness as one of the creative arts, to be achieved, not by following a set of rules, but by a great sympathy for others and by cultivating an imagination and anticipation of the reactions of those about us.

"Politeness," he says, "is the formal assertion of love as the basis of human intercourse. The gentleman, at least, makes a show of loving and respecting his neighbor as himself. There is a shallowness as well as a depth of manners, and the best manners are those in which the form must truly correspond with the reality."

Cultivate, then, politeness that springs from the heart, the gentle consideration you wish yourself to receive from others, the sense of humor we know to be the stabilizing factor in moral sanity—and harmony of life is most surely to be ours.

NECESSARY DATA

Officials of the commerce department are said to be drafting plans for a complete unemployment census of the United States. Congress, it is reported, will be asked to vote from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 for the job.

The work as outlined would take four months or more—but when is was finished we would know exactly how many men were out of work, what their former occupations were, what industries were over-supplied with workers, and what ones were not.

One hardly needs to say that this is an excellent plan; one can only wonder that it was not undertaken long ago.

For some six years now, unemployment has been our greatest problem; yet in all that time we have not made one move toward finding out what its exact extent may be.

That record is hardly believable. The very least congress can do is to pass a bill along these lines as rapidly as possible. We cannot go on any longer without getting all the facts.

TRAGIC NOTE

One of the most tragic stories to come out of the world of industry recently is the disclosure that many workers are afraid to fill out their social security act blanks for fear their employers will find out that they are older than they were supposed to be and will fire them.

In many and many a case, the worker's age is his most jealously guarded secret. In many other cases, workers of 48 have given their bosses to understand that they are 40 or 41. For a great many companies have a definite policy of weeding out men who pass 45.

So a great number of workers fear that they will lose their jobs if they fill out the security act blanks and give their right ages.

As it happens, those blanks may be mailed direct to Washington, where only federal officials may see them.

But what a commentary on individual practices that fear is! Can we have a more cruel or anti-social custom than the one which heads men for the scrap-heap as soon as they pass the mid-forties?

G-Man Hoover says that politics is the new Public Enemy No. 1, a statement of truth which will not improve his standing with the politicians.

New York's version of the world fair will cost $125,000,000. It's going to take a lot of fan dancers to liquidate that deficit.

Rhyme And Reason

By ANNE CAMPBELL

TO WALK IN AUTUMN

To walk in autumn is to be
Alive to Nature's witchery,
A tall princess in golden gown.
The birch tree, clothed as for a ball,
Wears veils of silver; and the call
Of autumn wind is no mischance
When maple trees begin to dance.

The autumn holds its solemn breath
To see bright leaves waltz to their death.
The glory of the fields and trees
Is filled with somber harmonies.
The grass that in the early spring
Was quickened into welcoming
The daffodils' enchanted glow
Awaits the coming of the snow.

The happy year is growing old.
It girds itself against the cold
By putting on its finest dress,
Surprising us with loveliness.
Thus will I face my own old age,
With autumn's power to assuage
Its bleakness with gay colors twined
In the last garlands of the mind.

You Can't, Really

By BRUCE CATTON

The New York stock-broking gentleman who was going to sell his quail farm and move to Canada if the nation didn't vote right seems to have changed his mind, but his place has been taken by a well-to-do New Englander.

This man is not heading for Canada, but for some island in the Bahamas. He sailed from New York the other day announcing that the presidential election displeased him, that he was fed up with American civilization anyhow, and that, in company with a few wealthy Englishmen, who feel much the same way about their own fatherland, he is going to establish a safe retreat in the Caribbean sea.

He and his British friends plan to buy an island outright. They are all pretty well heeled, so their retreat will lack few comforts. There will be room for other wealthy Americans and Englishmen who can't stand the pressure at home.

* * *

Now the first fact that leaps to the mind about this little venture is that the retreat from civilization will be a sham rather than a reality. The owners of this island Eden will need money to keep it going; and the money, inevitably, will come from American and British industry and finance in the form of dividend and interest checks and so on.

Furthermore, these latter-day Adams will need furniture, foodstuffs, gadgets such as radios and iceboxes and siphons, clothing, books, and all manner of incidentals; and these products of the civilization they are trying to escape will be bought with the money which that civilization produces.

If they are tired of civilization, of President Roosevelt and Premier Baldwin, of New Deals and war scares, they can get away from it all only by landing naked on some lonely shore and hewing out their living with their bare hands.

Their present scheme no more cuts them off from civilization than does a trip to the top floor of the Empire State building. The folks back home will be supporting them.

And if war, depression, or revolution hits America and England, of course, these island refugees will be the very first to sink beneath the waves.

* * *

It all adds up, of course, to the simple fact that there can be no real escape from the modern world. We may think it's a fine world or we may think it's the worst world possible—but, hot or cold, we have to take it and like it.

Since we can't get away—since all of us are going to sink or swim together—isn't it a man's part to stay on the job and make the best of it, rather than to hunt up a remote burrow where he can stick his ostrich-head in the palm-fringed sands of some balmy tropic shore?

BOOK SETS GULLIBLE MANKIND RIGHT

Mankind's odd custom of believing so many things that aren't so is examined by Vilhjalmur Stefansson in an entertaining book, "Adventures in Error."

Mr. Stefansson points out that some of our most cherished beliefs have no basis in fact. Many of them deal with the Arctic, and Mr. Stefansson is well qualified to discuss them.

The Arctic is the land of eternal snow, tremendous blizzards and no trees, as everybody knows. Well, says Mr. Stefansson, the average snowfall on the United States-Canadian border is far heavier than that of the extreme Arctic. The blizzards of that part of the country are worse than Arctic blizzards. And there are forests with trees 70 feet tall, well inside the Arctic Circle.

Nor is that all. The musk-ox of the far north does not live on lichens, but on flowering plants—which grow in profusion despite the "eternal snow." Most Eskimos have never seen a snow house. On a good summer day it will be as hot in upper Alaska as in Ohio.

Mr. Stefansson has his most fun, however, with the famous bathtub hoax.

You doubtless have seen stories about how the first bathtub in America was built in Cincinnati in 1845, how the White House never possessed a tub until Millard Fillmore's administration, and how Boston once had a law barring bathtubs? It's all false.

H. L. Mencken did it. In 1917 he wrote a kidding story, embodying those "facts," in a New York newspaper. To his amazement, everyone believed it. To this day Mencken's spoofing is solemnly accepted as gospel, despite his amused efforts to set people right.

TODAY'S BIBLE THOUGHT

Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.—I Corinthians 10:33.

By Christ's purchasing redemption, two things are intended: His satisfaction and His merit; the one pays our debt, and so satisfies; the other procures our title, and so merits. The satisfaction of Christ is to free us from misery; the merit of Christ is to purchase happiness for us.—Jonathan Edwards.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GENIUS OF ELI WHITNEY—The inventor of the cotton gin was born in Westborough, Mass., in 1765. After graduating from Yale college, he went to Georgia, where the widow of General Nathaniel Greene invited him to stay at her plantation. Mrs. Greene soon came to have a very high opinion of young Whitney's capacity as an inventor. A few neighboring planters who happened to be visiting Mrs. Greene's plantation happened to mention the impossibility of cleaning cotton fiber from the seed. Someone suggested the remote possibility of accomplishing this end by machinery. It was then that Mrs. Greene suggested to her guests her conviction that Eli Whitney, if anyone, ought to be able to do it. The matter was submitted to the young inventor, who had never seen either a cotton plant or seed up to that time.

Whitney shut himself up in his quarters to study uncleaned cotton and a few months later, with the aid of self-made tools produced the cotton gin. This invention revolutionized the industry and ranks with the greatest achievements of mankind. But Whitney did not profit by it. His house was broken into, the machine stolen and counterfeited. The resulting lawsuits for infringement impoverished the inventor. Whitney later established a manufactory of arms in New Haven, Conn., which was a financial success.

NEW YORK Day by Day by O. O. McIntyre

I have long since given up following the rules, traffic lights and keep-off-the-grass signals about grammar. I have to catch myself not to say, "It's me." And force myself to say, "This is he" over the telephone. In spite of what they told us in the grade school!

The split infinitive business is fairly secure with me because I worked with a city editor to whom the split infinitive was anathema. Many times in writing of radio it seems smoother to say a program was "broadcasted" instead of the correct "broadcast." Solecisms, too, are my dish. Often more expressive than when shorn of their redundancy.

I used to search and listen for the smart-alecky way of saying things. There was a time when a plain statement of fact would bring a British "Really" from me. It sounded heigh-ho.

My beliefs are often ungrammatical. But what we might regard as the "ordinary" way of saying things is apt to be the better way of saying it. Folks have put those old expressions through long tests. Well known expressions are apt to be easier for the reader to wade through. The precise Hawthorne tripped on a couple of double negatives.

Irvin Cobb accents the "po" in policeman and calls a window a "winder." Will Hogg, a college regent and shark in catching grammatic upsets even in the classics, always preferred "I ain't" and used it. So does Bugs Baer. I once heard a professor who authored a text book on English say: "He invited my wife and I to dinner."

Our slang, too, not the Broadway sort, but of the George Adeain school, is a delight. It often says it as nothing else. We know a lady who is always getting us to write down slang which she mails to England. Of course, the meanings have to be set opposite, in more orthodox lingo. She has an aunt in Sussex who revels in it.

Then a bad habit many writers indulge of using CAPS for emphasis. It's like shouting in debate and may defeat its own ends. I have no particular taste for them and do not believe they are an essential of forceful writing, but I'll sneak them in whenever no one is looking.

There was an expression, "Confound that fellow." My father often used it when irked by some citizen's deportment. The Bible, I think, uses "confound" often. Tribes were confounded by the Creator for their errors. It was a mild sounding word but like many gentle sounding things, powerful. Anyone who has been confounded—and who has not?—knows the misery of that condition.

The true Gilbert and Sullivan fan arises when you want to pass to your seat. It's the most polite audience in the theater, by far, and the most loyal. What a lesson they could teach the showy cafe society first night crowds in other theaters.

Many of the Long Island suburbs are having evangelistic revivals. In passing one of the tabernacles the other day I thought of the revivalist who came to Gallipolis to put on a week or so of exhorting. One night he said that you could not see through the windows of the saloons from the street because the saloon keepers were ashamed of their calling. A saloon-keeper sitting near an uncle of mine observed dryly that he couldn't see where the windows of the church they were sitting in were particularly crystaline. I remember one religious whooper-upper bellowed that folk danced "just for the huggin' they could get out of it."

Jo Metzger, a veteran caricaturist of the newspaper shops, was telling Russ Cole of the time he was, with a pal, in Cleveland, hungry and broke. They'd not eaten for two days and they were going along a residence street in the rain. Metzger looked in at a lawn and saw lying there a very wet but very good $5 bill. They split it 50-50. And Metzger thought they could eat for a few days. His pal at the next corner stepped into a tobacco store and bought a dollar pipe.

There are two expressions in letter writing that always strike me with their coldness—"Dear Friend" and "Cordially yours." The first sounds like a circular from a clothing store.

In all the whoop de-do of the circus parade there is usually that picturesque old vet, holding in his hands about all the "ribbons" that two hands can hold, cursing and trying to manage about six unruly teams of horses, hooked to a lion cage. As a boy I'd rather have been that bird than king of six countries.

We had a reporter on a mid-west paper who was windy. When on Sunday he and his wife went to his father-in-law's for dinner, he'd sit in the front porch and spin wild yarns. His father-in-law very old, seated alongside, would eventually arise, go into the house, shaking his head and snorting: "Ther's nothin' t' that." In infancy and in old age people stick more closely to facts. In the intermediate years, they stray afield—indulge the fancy and depart from truth.

Decent newspapering lost a valiant champion in the passing of Marien E. Pew, long editor of Editor and Publisher. Those who clung to ethical standards were his friends and he their counselor. He had only a biting contempt for the practitioners of slop-jar journalism and fought its inroads vigorously. He was a great reporter and editor in his time and could have held many big editorial posts in serener years, but he preferred to fight the things he detested in a noble calling that he loved.

Family Health

A Quaker named John Dalton bought some scarlet stockings which he thought were dark brown. This was the first scientifically recorded instance of color blindness.

Dalton was an eminent English physicist. It is said that he was walking down the street at Oxford, wearing his cap and gown and red stockings, just after a degree had been conferred upon him, and that one of his brother Quakers promptly took him to task for wearing such colors in public.

Color blindness is more common in boys than in girls. It is exceedingly important today because signals on the railroads and on street corners are most frequently red, green, and yellow, and occasionally blue, the colors most frequently concerned in color blindness.

Certainly, no one who is color blind should attempt to drive a motor car in modern traffic.

Persons who have color blindness see objects as lighter or darker, but are unable to distinguish shades. Sometimes they distinguish between red and green lights on roadways by their difference in brightness.

There is no specific cure for color blindness, since the defect is one of structure of the eye. However, as has already been mentioned, there are various ways in which the color vision may be developed or substitutions found.

The most common test involves sorting a number of colored worsteds. The person being tested is given certain pieces and asked to match them with others. There are other tests in which colored strips of paper are employed.

One woman who was an excellent seamstress was able to do sewing provided her family would tell her the colors of the thread. She was able to remember them by having each color in a different place in her work-box.

So important is color blindness today as a possible cause of accidents that every person who attempts to drive a motor car, or to occupy himself in any other way in which color detection is significant should have a test as soon as possible.

More than $32,600,000,000 was spent in retail stores by 30,000,000 American families last year.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Senator Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut is in the doghouse with the administration and it seems as if the administration might also be in the doghouse with Senator Lonergan.

The senator is chairman of the committee charged with investigating campaign funds. Because he is a Democrat and because the Democrats had a majority on the committee, it had been confidently expected that in time-honored manner the committee would provide some spectacular exposures during the campaign, with especial emphasis on big Republican contributions "irregular" tactics.

But Lonergan not only failed to help the New Deal campaign in that manner. He has blocked efforts of other committee members to start something.

It was Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington, not Lonergan, who spilled from committee files the interesting information that five du Ponts, three Rockefellers, J. P. Morgan and other wealthy men had contributed large sums to the Republican campaign in Maine. Schwellenbach told Jim Farley.

* * *

Democratic strategists then tried to get Lonergan to put the du Ponts, the Rockefellers and Morgan on the witness stand. Lonergan refused.

Schwellenbach's tactics, however, had the effect of discouraging at least a few wealthy men, who told Republican fund-raisers they feared they'd be haled before the committee if they contributed.

Currently, the New Dealers are burned up more than ever because Lonergan has refused an investigation of the defeat of Congressman Dennis Driscoll of Pennsylvania, who says he was beaten by a combination of "power trust" effort, employer coercion and paid whispering campaigns.

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania urged Lonergan to investigate, citing evidences of skullduggery, and was supported by two committee members, Schwellenbach and Senator Mintin of Indiana.

Ammunition For Lobbyists

The administration is likely to go to extremes in the Driscoll case because it is believed his defeat and that of Sisson of New York, plus narrow squeezes for other Democratic congressmen prominent in the bitter holding company fight in a year of Democratic landslides, will give power company lobbyists the chance to tell other congressmen that it's dangerous to incur enmity of the utilities.

Although Lonergan is able to take the position that he is refusing to let the committee be used as a partisan instrument, his critics in the administration are pointing out that he was elected in the Democratic sweep of 1932. Then the Democratic party in Connecticut was widely regarded as a mere adjunct to the Republican machine of J. Henry Roraback, powerful political boss and public utilities magnate.

One Way To Aid Business

President Roosevelt believes the various organizations, political machines, and individuals who tried to block his re-election spent around a hundred million dollars in the attempt.

"They helped our spending campaign a great deal," he remarked jokingly to some friends. "All we would need would be a campaign every six months to provide a large constant stimulus for business."

Roosevelt was also amused when told that wags along the lower borders of Maine and Vermont were putting up road signs inscribed: "You are now leaving the United States."

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

STAMP collectors may expect a rush of Spanish stamps, overprinted by the rebel forces as soon as they captured an important city. First came those of the island of Majorca. Now Seville has an overprinted set, and soon the overprints of other large centers may be expected. Some overprints are set in type, others are rubber-stamped, all along the same line, such as "Seville-Viva Espana-Julio 1936."

* * *

France has advanced its highest value in stamps from 10 francs to a new issue of 50 francs, which equals about $5.25 in United States money. This new high value is an airmail issue of the bank-note type, and is used mostly for registered airmail matter.

* * *

The Sultan of Zanzibar, Seyyed Sir Khalifa bin Harub, will commemorate the silver jubilee of his accession to the throne, Dec. 9, 1911, with a special jubilee issue of stamps.

It cost $8,000,000, and took 16 years to build Japan's new Diet building in Tokio, and its completion is celebrated with a set of four commemorative stamps, in two designs. One pair shows a view of the new building, and the other pair pictures the entrance.

FAST PACE SET IN OIL CIRCLES

Six New Producing Wells Completed; Score Of Drilling Permits Issued

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Activity in Louisiana's oil industry during the past week continued at a fast pace with scores of drilling projects under way, said reports to the state conservation department.

The department's minerals division announced that during the week ended Friday six new producing wells were completed, and a score of permits for drilling were issued.

There was considerable speculation in the industry over the outcome of the second meeting of Rodessa operators called by Governor Richard W. Leche for next Friday in connection with conservation in the Rodessa field.

Recommendations are expected to be made for a permanent gas-oil ratio restriction order for the Louisiana side of the field.

Conservation officials said it is generally agreed that additional reductions will be made in the allowed ratios. A minimum of 3,000 cubic feet per barrel for oil wells, and 6,000 feet per barrel for gas distillate wells has been suggested as necessary to effect any substantial check of the daily reservoir pressure decline.

The field, location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each new completion follows:

Basile in Acadia parish, Continental Oil company, 314.40 barrels; East Hackberry in Cameron parish, Stanolind Oil and Gas company, 892.08 berrels; English bayou in Calcasieu parish, Fohs Oil company, two wells, 438.12 and 227.16 barrels, respectively; Iberia in Iberia parish, Texas company, 1,150 barrels, and Rodessa in Caddo parish, United Gas Public Service company, 968 barrels.

Cosmo Petroleum corporation in Acadia parish; Paul Cooper in Caddo parish; Bayou State Oil corporation in Caddo; Lion Oil Refining company in Caddo, two; Phillips Petroleum corporation in Caddo; J. R. Turnbull in Calcasieu, and Union Sulphur company in Calcasieu.

Grant Oil corporation in Grant parish; S. D. Hunter, trustee, in Morehouse parish, three; United Carbon company in Grant parish; Carbons Consolidated, Inc., in Ouachita parish; A. L. Braden, et al., in Sabine; Herton Oil company in St. Mary parish; George E. Lillie in St. Mary; Interstate Natural Gas company in Union parish, two, and Standard Oil company of Louisiana in Webster parish.

EDGEWATER RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the frams residence of G. P. Schumaker in Edgewater Gardens addition yesterday morning shortly before 10 o'clock. Firemen were summoned to the scene but the flames had gained such headway that the home could not be saved.

During the day firemen extinguished grass and trash fires at 1900 South Grand street, rear of 114 Jackson street, and Pecan street and the Winnsboro road.

The world's largest power dam is said to be that on the Dnieper river in Soviet Russia. It was built by American engineers.

PUBLIC HEARING ON LABOR SLATED

Rules Relating To New Unemployment Compensation Law Will Be Talked

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21—(Special)—B. W. Cason, Louisiana commissioner of labor, announces that a public hearing for the adoption of rules and regulations relating to the new Louisiana unemployment compensation law (Act 97 of 1936) will be held on Monday, November 30, beginning at 3 p.m., at his office on the twelfth floor of the state capitol in Baton Rouge. Employers and employes or their representatives and the general public will be given full opportunity to be heard, at this meeting, prior to the adoption of the official rules and regulations by the commissioner of labor, who is charged with the administration of unemployment compensation in Louisiana.

The new law affects employers of eight or more persons employed for some portion of the day, but not necessarily simultaneous, within each of twenty different weeks, whether consecutive or not, within either the current calendar year or preceding year. The exceptions are governmental employment, agricultural labor, domestic service in a private home, service by crews on vessels in navigable waters, the employment of parents, spouse or minor children of the employer and the employment by certain no-profit organizations operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

Employers subject to the law will contribute for the calendar year 1936, retroactive to January 1, 1936, nine-tenths of one per cent of his 1936 pay roll. All employers will be permitted by the United States collector of internal revenue to deduct from the payment of the federal excise tax the amount of employer contributions under the state law, which is 90 per cent of the amount of the federal tax.

Employes will not contribute toward unemployment compensation during 1936, but their contributions for 1937 and thereafter will be one-half of one per cent of wages.

Benefits will become payable for unemployment following a waiting period of four weeks on and after January 1, 1938. Total unemployment benefits will amount to 50 per cent of full time wages, but not more than $15 per week nor less than $5 per week or three-fourths of full time weekly wages, whichever is less. Partial unemployment and five-sixths of the wages for such week. Benefits will be payable in proportion to the number of weeks of employment against which no benefits have been charged. They must be applied for, but the qualifications of an employe for benefits are liberal in the extreme.

Printed forms for initial status reports will be mailed by the commissioner of labor to all employers of labor within a few days. The purpose of the initial status report is to enable the commissioner of labor to determine whether an employer is subject to the law. All employers, regardless of whether they believe themselves subject to contributions for unemployment compensation, will be required to return the reports promptly.

WINTER NEEDS AT WESTERN STORE

Eubank Has Complete Stock Of Efficient Anti-Freeze And Heaters

With a view to meeting the cold weather requirements of its customers in the way of anti-freeze solutions and patented automobile heaters, the Western Auto Associate store, located at 419 DeSiard street, and managed by J. T. Eubank, has stocked a large quantity of the finest anti-freeze solutions on the market in two grades known as Ethyl-Alcohol anti-freeze, which sells at 15 cents a quart, and Wizard Super anti-freeze, selling at 89 cents a gallon.

Ethyl-Alcohol anti-freeze to be used in car radiators is an improved solution superior to the majority of anti-freeze solutions on the market. It is practically odorless, prevents rust and corrosion as well as electrolyptic action on metals and has approximately the same viscosity as water. It contains commercial denatured Ethyl type alcohol and is 188 proof.

Wizard Super anti-freeze also for use in car radiators is a perfect protection for cars, being 100 per cent concentrated anti-freeze and prepared so as to be absolutely rustless, has no offensive odor, does not generate poisonous fumes, is oil sealed thus retarding evaporation, is much stronger than the regular anti-freeze solutions and is therefore safer. It is a better protector against bursting from freezing as long as 20 per cent of the original solution is retained, and has practically the same specific gravity as water and will not seep.

Mr. Eubank announces that the Western Auto Associate store here is well stocked with Hot-Wave automobile heaters, said to rank with the finest car heaters on the market.

"The important features of Hot-Wave automobile heaters include what is known as the duplex heating core," Mr. Eubank stated. "This is an unusual arrangement of the heater core which permits the water to flow through the heater twice and by the fan twice, thus giving double heat. This is accomplished by having both pipes connected to one end of the core. Each of these pipes is connected to an individual tank that covers half the core, reversing itself in the tank at the opposite end and being forced back through the other half of the core. This assures three-way heat, down, side and forward, which means comfort in any weather."

Other features of Hot-Wave automobile heaters include a defroster accessory which can be attached to the heater in a few moments, snapping directly into the side of the heater shell; also an aero-dynamic fan housing which makes the operating of Hot-Wave automobile heaters absolutely noiseless.

Hot-Wave automobile heaters are sold by Western Auto Associate store at $3.98, $5.95, $7.95 and $9.95.

The two more expensive heaters are equipped with automatic air vents which keep pockets of air from forming in the lines. These two types of Hot-Wave automobile heaters may be purchased on convenient terms.

SERVICE GIVEN BY MARTINS' AGENCY

Mr. And Mrs. Martin Give Personal Attention To Their Many Clients

The Martin Magazine agency, operated by Frank Martin and his wife, Mrs. Louise Riggs Martin, is the only agency of its type in the Twin Cities, and it offers complete and personal subscription service on all classes of magazines.

No matter what type of magazine the reader desires—industrial, fiction, children's, trade, style, news, etc.—he will find his favorite periodical listed among the wide variety of magazines handled by the Martin agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have been residents of Monroe for a number of years and are well known and respected. Mrs. Martin is remembered by many of her friends and former pupils as a successful school teacher, a fact which has given her an insight into the problems of parents and teachers and enabled her to assemble among the agency's list all of the highest type magazines that offer much assistance in solving the multiple problems faced every day by those charged with molding the destinies of the younger generation. She has made a specialty of children's magazines and for several years has handled efficiently many of the largest orders for local school library periodicals.

In addition to magazine subscription solicitations, the Martin Magazine agency features the World Book Encyclopedia, an authoritative reference library, not to be found in stores in the Twin Cities but which is sold only through personal demonstrations by the publisher's representatives. The World Book Encyclopedia is recognized generally as being the most complete and authentic of its type ever published. A special pre-Christmas offer is being made of the World Book set now, which makes it an ideal gift for parents to give their children or for others who desire a library that is complete as it is interesting.

Many attractive club subscriptions at low prices may be obtained at this time from the agency. Special Christmas rates are now in effect. Any one would appreciate the gift of a subscription to his favorite magazine.

The Martin Magazine agency is home-owned and home-serviced. Customers do not deal with out-of-town collectors, but are given courteous and efficient service at all times by Mr. and Mrs. Martin, who reside at 309 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe, and whose telephone number is 1759.

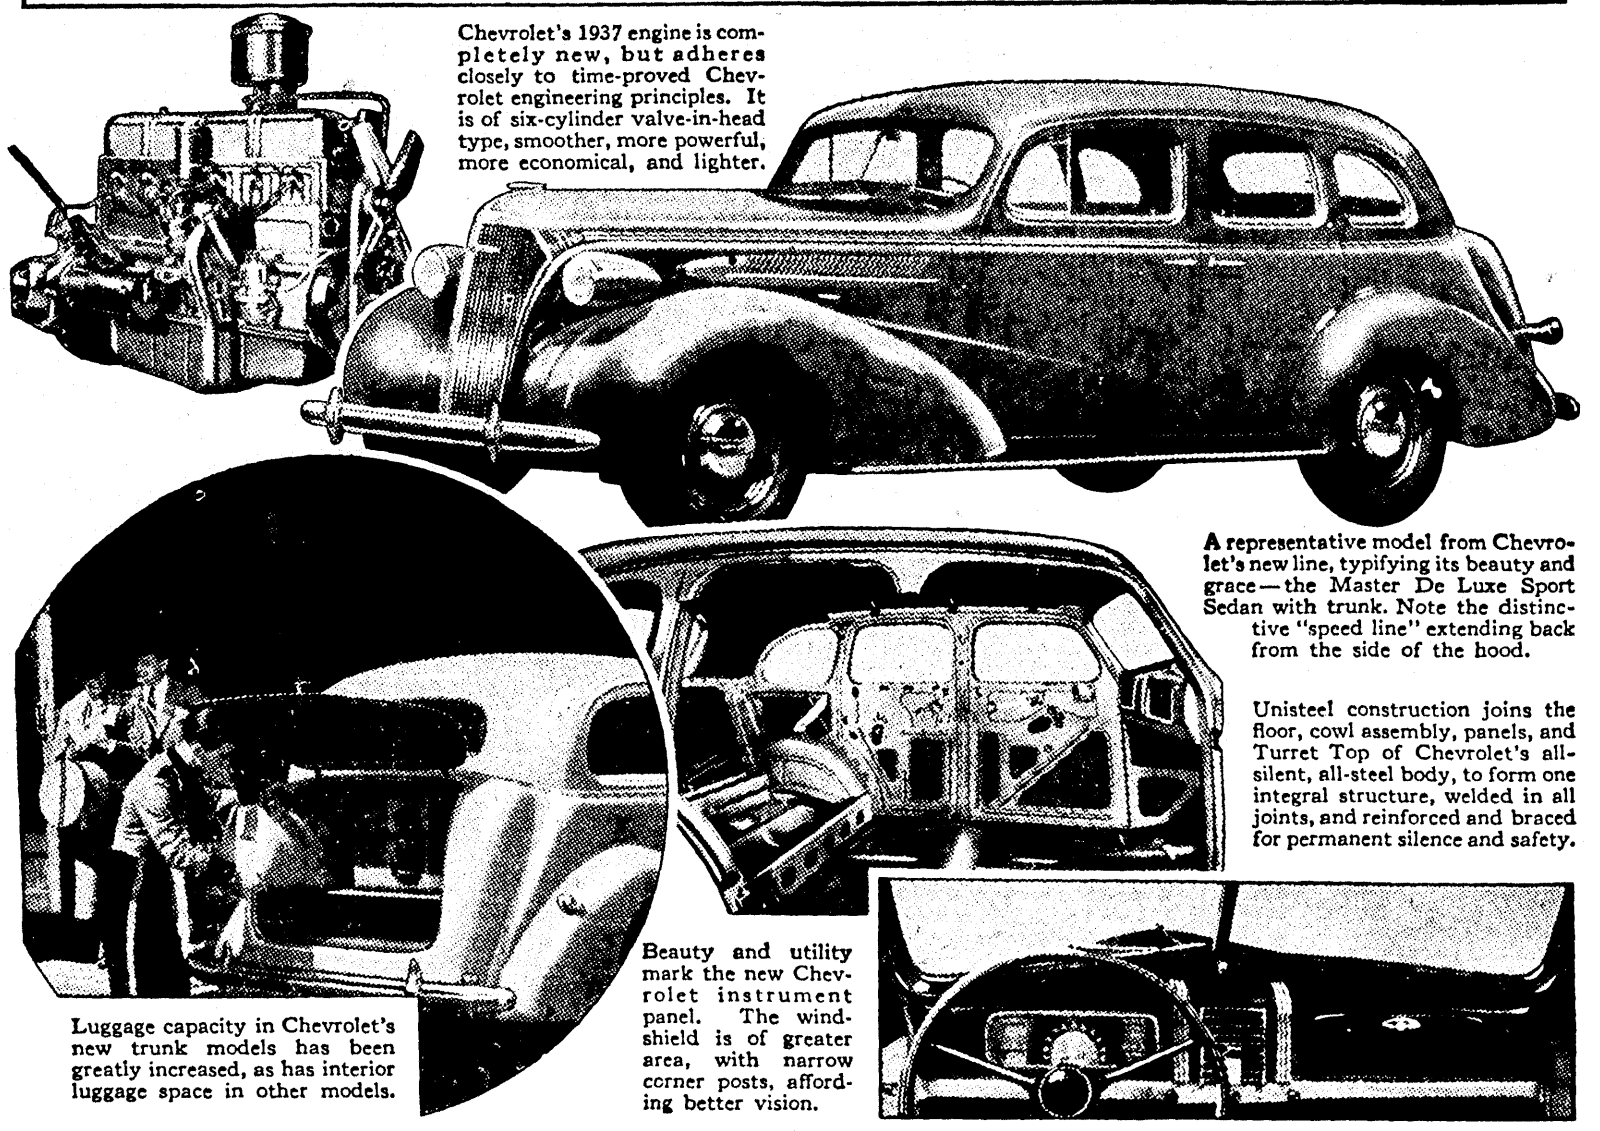
Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars



Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proved Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unisteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-silent, all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

Luggage capacity in Chevrolet's new trunk models has been greatly increased, as has interior luggage space in other models.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Syncro-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

CITY CONTINUES TO PREFER A. & W.

Popular Sandwich Shop On DeSiard Street Shows Steady Increase

The depression has been over a long time, only everyone hasn't assumed the right attitude, according to I. W. Allen, manager of the A. and W. Sandwich shop, 326 DeSiard street. Mr. Allen said he has found that the more one thinks times are better, the better one feels and soon, in reality, business will get better.

During the last year, business at the A. and W. has increased each month, Mr. Allen said, and the increase has been steady. For example, during the month of September, the A. and W. had its second best business month since the opening of the store October 21, 1931. An August of this year, the establishment's books showed that it had its third best month. Mr. Allen said his best business month was May, 1934, but September receipts showed only a small marginal difference.

According to Mr. Allen, business has been better during the past year because the people have been spending more money.

BUSINESS GOOD AT CENTRAL AUTO

Phenomenal Record Made By Local Studebaker Agency On N. Second

Established here in May of the present year, the Central Auto company, located on North Second street, next door to Central No. 2 service station, has enjoyed a phenomenal business during the few months of its existence and has made the Monroe motorist "Studebaker-minded."

The company was organized by W. J. Sherrouse and C. B. Sherrouse to distribute the Studebaker automobile. This car in years past had achieved a splendid reputation in the Twin Cities and surrounding territory but its distribution had been discontinued.

The new Studebaker models are now on display at the company's showrooms on North Second street and it is evident that the manufacturers have made every effort to make the new cars outstanding triumphs of automotive engineering.

Among the new improvements are the overdrive, which permits fast driving with practically no vibration and with complete safety. In connection with the overdrive, those who have cars equipped with this improvement declare that while driving at 70 miles an hour it seems as if the car is making about 40 miles an hour. The finest brakes designed by world famous experts insure the utmost safety to the fast-driving Studebaker of today.

Other improvements include the automatic hill clutch, making it possible for the driver of a Studebaker to stop his car on an incline without interfering with the use of the brake or accelerator.

The Central Auto company is managed by F. N. Steele, known popularly as "Sticky," and he has proved an efficient manager and is credited with much of the success of the new company.

LARGE STOCK AT HOME FURNITURE

New Additions To Lines Handled By Lindsey Meet Business Increase

In keeping with the general business up-trend, the Home Furniture company, located at 501-11 DeSiard street, has added several new lines of merchandise of which the most outstanding is the Davis Cabinet company's solid walnut and maple bedroom furniture suites.

The James Robertson models are of the period of 1779 and the Hanna Sheldon models date from the latter part of the 17th century. These suites as well as many others which are featured by the Home Furniture company in the colonial designs are authentic reproductions of the furniture used in early American homes and have met with an instant demand.

The Home Furniture company carries complete lines of nationally advertised merchandise including Roper stoves, Philco radios, Perfect Sleeper Tuftless Inner Springs mattresses, Cavalier cedar chests, Speed Queen washing machines equipped with electric and gasoline motors, Quaker, Candura and Gold Seal linoleum rugs, Mohawk woolen rugs, and other nationally advertised merchandise.

This store has grown rapidly during the past few years and is one of the most popular of its kind in the city. Its stocks are always attractive and complete and the personnel trained in courtesy and helpfulness to the public.

J. B. Lindsay, president of the Home Furniture company, in a statement declared that his firm looks for better business during 1937 and is prepared to handle an increased demand for better popular priced merchandise.

DODGE, PLYMOUTH FIRM WELL KNOWN

Monroe Auto Supply Aggressively Operated By W. L. Etheridge, Jr.

The Monroe Auto Supply company is one of the best known automobile distributing agencies in the south and handles the Dodge and Plymouth cars. Its offices and showrooms are located on Walnut street and it maintains a large used car lot at the corner of Washington and North Second streets.

The firm has an exclusive franchise for the distribution of Dodge automobiles and trucks for practically all of north Louisiana. The Dodge automobile has long been noted for economy and dependability in performance. Dodge economy, proved and endorsed by thousands of Dodge owners, is considered the most effective appeal to present and prospective owners of Dodge cars and trucks.

The Monroe Auto Supply company is under the management of W. L. Ethridge, Jr., who assumed charge shortly after the first of the year. Since taking control, Mr. Ethridge has pursued an aggressive policy in the conduct of the business and his first year as manager has been marked by unusual success.

Among the policies instituted by Mr. Ethridge, perhaps the most far reaching was the establishment of a 90-day service guarantee for used cars. The Monroe Auto Supply company is credited with handling more used cars than any similar concern in the south, and this new policy has done much to increase the sales in this department. The company has more than 40 used cars on display in its used car lot at all times.

The Monroe Auto Supply company maintains a complete stock of nationally advertised automobile accessories and distributes genuine Dodge and Plymouth parts.

It also maintains a complete service department in the charge of A. G. Olcott.

S-W-P LEADS IN QUALITY PAINTS

Manager Of Local Sherwin-Williams Store Tells Of Improvements

The science of paint making has made considerable progress in recent years and the Sherwin-Williams company, largest manufacturers of paint products in the world, has spent large sums in perfecting the technique of making paints, according to J. F. Davis, manager of the Sherwin-Williams company store at 109 Catalpa street.

"For many years before and after 1860, paint was mixed on the job with a stick from white lead, linseed oil and turpentine," Mr. Davis explained. "This hand mixture produced a product which gave very fair service, provided, of course, that the white lead and linseed oil were both of good quality. True, this paint lost its gloss quite soon, took on a grayish, dirty cast from the air of the average community and chalked excessively.

"The science of paint making has progressed far since those days," Mr. Davis continued. "Science has found the way to reinforce lead and oil by adding certain other pigments unknown in years gone by. The result is multi-pigment paint which means paint containing several pigments instead of only one. Gone are the days of stick-mixing for modern machinery does that job a thousand times better. Gone are the days of premature chalking, fading and discoloration. Modern multi-pigment, machine-mixed paint of high quality holds its color better, covers more surface per gallon, wears longer and costs less in the long run."

Mr. Davis warned paint users against the mistaken theory that a paint which costs less per gallon than Sherwin-Williams paints is economical to use.

"There is no short cut to experience," Mr. Davis said. "No idle claims can take the place of performance. The men who supervise the actual production of Sherwin-Williams paints at the mills have long years of service to their credit. They are real paint makers, and no house paint that is almost as good as Sherwin-Williams paint can equal its performance, can match its value or duplicate its economy.

"It is cheaper to buy Sherwin-Williams paints than other brands of cheap house paints," Mr. Davis stated.

Six New Producing Wells Completed; Score Of Drilling Permits Issued

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Activity in Louisiana's oil industry during the past week continued at a fast pace with scores of drilling projects under way, said reports to the state conservation department.

The department's minerals division announced that during the week ended Friday six new producing wells were completed, and a score of permits for drilling were issued.

There was considerable speculation in the industry over the outcome of the second meeting of Rodessa operators called by Governor Richard W. Leche for next Friday in connection with conservation in the Rodessa field.

Recommendations are expected to be made for a permanent gas-oil ratio restriction order for the Louisiana side of the field.

Conservation officials said it is generally agreed that additional reductions will be made in the allowed ratios. A minimum of 3,000 cubic feet per barrel for oil wells, and 6,000 feet per barrel for gas distillate wells has been suggested as necessary to effect any substantial check of the daily reservoir pressure decline.

The field, location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each new completion follows:

Basile in Acadia parish, Continental Oil company, 314.40 barrels; East Hackberry in Cameron parish, Stanolind Oil and Gas company, 892.08 berrels; English bayou in Calcasieu parish, Fohs Oil company, two wells, 438.12 and 227.16 barrels, respectively; Iberia in Iberia parish, Texas company, 1,150 barrels, and Rodessa in Caddo parish, United Gas Public Service company, 968 barrels.

Cosmo Petroleum corporation in Acadia parish; Paul Cooper in Caddo parish; Bayou State Oil corporation in Caddo; Lion Oil Refining company in Caddo, two; Phillips Petroleum corporation in Caddo; J. R. Turnbull in Calcasieu, and Union Sulphur company in Calcasieu.

Grant Oil corporation in Grant parish; S. D. Hunter, trustee, in Morehouse parish, three; United Carbon company in Grant parish; Carbons Consolidated, Inc., in Ouachita parish; A. L. Braden, et al., in Sabine; Herton Oil company in St. Mary parish; George E. Lillie in St. Mary; Interstate Natural Gas company in Union parish, two, and Standard Oil company of Louisiana in Webster parish.

EDGEWATER RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the frams residence of G. P. Schumaker in Edgewater Gardens addition yesterday morning shortly before 10 o'clock. Firemen were summoned to the scene but the flames had gained such headway that the home could not be saved.

Furnishings of the home were destroyed by the flames.

During the day firemen extinguished grass and trash fires at 1900 South Grand street, rear of 114 Jackson street, and Pecan street and the Winnsboro road.

The world's largest power dam is said to be that on the Dnieper river in Soviet Russia. It was built by American engineers.

PUBLIC HEARING ON LABOR SLATED

Rules Relating To New Unemployment Compensation Law Will Be Talked

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—B. W. Cason, Louisiana commissioner of labor, announces that a public hearing for the adoption of rules and regulations relating to the new Louisiana unemployment compensation law (Act 97 of 1936) will be held on Monday, November 30, beginning at 3 p.m., at his office on the twelfth floor of the state capitol in Baton Rouge. Employers and employes or their representatives and the general public will be given full opportunity to be heard, at this meeting, prior to the adoption of the official rules and regulations by the commissioner of labor, who is charged with the administration of unemployment compensation in Louisiana.

The new law affects employers of eight or more persons employed for some portion of the day, but not necessarily simultaneous, within each of twenty different weeks, whether consecutive or not, within either the current calendar year or preceding year. The exceptions are governmental employment, agricultural labor, domestic service in a private home, service by crews on vessels in navigable waters, the employment of parents, spouse or minor children of the employer and the employment by certain noprofit organizations operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

Employers subject to the law will contribute for the calendar year 1936, retroactive to January 1, 1936, nine-tenths of one per cent of his 1936 pay roll. All employers will be permitted by the United States collector of internal revenue to deduct from the payment of the federal excise tax the amount of employer contributions under the state law, which is 90 per cent of the amount of the federal tax.

Employes will not contribute toward unemployment compensation during 1936, but their contributions for 1937 and thereafter will be one-half of one per cent of wages.

Benefits will become payable for unemployment following a waiting period of four weeks on and after January 1, 1938. Total unemployment benefits will amount to 50 per cent of full time wages, but not more than $15 per week nor less than $5 per week or three-fourths of full time weekly wages, whichever is less. Partial unemployment and five-sixths of the wages for such week. Benefits will be payable in proportion to the number of weeks of employment against which no benefits have been charged. They must be applied for, but the qualifications of an employe for benefits are liberal in the extreme.

Printed forms for initial status reports will be mailed by the commissioner of labor to all employers of labor within a few days. The purpose of the initial status report is to enable the commissioner of labor to determine whether an employer is subject to the law. All employers, regardless of whether they believe themselves subject to contributions for unemployment compensation, will be required to return the reports promptly.

TEACHERS

placed additional buses at the disposal of the convention and issued free passes on buses and street cars to visiting delegates, was likewise given a message of thanks by the Chamber of Commerce committee.

Resolutions of appreciation for the support of Governor Richard W. Leche and State Superintendent of Education T. H. Harris in the enactment of teacher legislation at the last session of the Louisiana legislature were adopted.

Other resolutions adopted included the association's thanks to retiring President Spencer Phillips of Pelican for his work in bringing about the enactment of the tenure law, the teachers retirement law and the repeal of a portion of the budget law which freed the teachers of the state from political influence, commended the work of the association's new president, L. E. Frazar of Merryville, who is also a member of the state legislature from Beauregard parish, and extended "its deepest thanks for the services he rendered to the progress of education, particularly in behalf of the teacher retirement law."

Commendatory resolutions and thanks were voted the city of Monroe for its hospitality, to Executive Secretary G. O. Houston, Superintendent T. O. Brown, Superintendent E. L. Neville, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, the newspapers of Monroe, KMLB, the transportation companies, the Chamber of Commerce and all civic organizations.

The association in a special resolution thanked S. Allen Bordelon, who introduced the bill in the legislature providing for the repeal of the budget law; C. A. Riddle, who sponsored the tenure law and N. Carbajal and Senator A. A. Fredericks, who introduced the same law for the city of New Orleans and who were instrumental in getting the bills passed.

Committees who work on teacher legislation and which included the committee on teacher retirement, the committee on tenure and the legislative committee were also thanked in resolutions adopted yesterday.

The association went on record endorsing the provisions of the Harrison-Fletcher bill providing for an expenditure by the federal government of $300,000,000 in support of education and declared, "We hope that congress will see fit to pass this bill, making available to the various states their portion of the $300,000,000 annually that is provided in this bill. Louisiana would receive about five and a quarter million dollars annually from this source of the bill ever becomes a law."

In a resolution endorsing the suggestion that teachers of the state be paid on a twelve-month basis without a reduction in the amount they receive monthly, the association stated that it would petition the governor and the legislature to give careful consideration to providing pay for the teachers of the state on the basis of twelve months without a reduction in salary.

The association adopted a resolution favoring child labor laws and urged the state of Louisiana to ratify this amendment to the national constitution as soon as possible.

A resolution presented by the department of classroom teachers was also adopted whereby the school boards in the state will be urged to provide some system of definite sick leave for teachers and the association pledged itself to give special attention to the question of studying the problem of sick leave and hospitalization.

L. E. Frazer, newly elected president of the association, Mrs. W. B. Eisley, of Tallulah, who was named vice-president, and H. W. Wright of Jonesville and S. R. Emmons of Minden who were elected to the executive council for the ensuing year were installed at the session yesterday.

Other officers and members of the executive council for the next twelve months include R. H. Agate, treasurer, G. O. Houston executive secretary, and Spencer Phillips, L. W. Ferguson, L. E. Frazar, and T. H. Harris, members of the executive council.

For the first time in its history the Louisiana Teachers association accorded the honor of life membership and that of honorary president of the association to two of its members, State Superintendent of Education T. H. Harris and Ouachita Parish Superintendent of schools T. O. Brown of Monroe. The honors were conferred in appreciation of the work done by the men in the field of education.

DEATH OF BRIDE IN ALASKA UNDER QUIZ

PALMER, Alaska, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Federal authorities went quietly about the Matanuska valley today in their reopened investigation of the death of a bride, Mrs. Zelda King Pilkenton, shot through the heart in her home among the federal colonists the night of November 11.

Assistant United States District Attorney Warren A. Taylor and United States Marshal's Deputy Frank Hoffman came from Anchorage in a taxicab and visited the towns of Matanuska and Wasilla, but refused to comment on what line their investigation was taking.

Mrs. Pilkenton's widower, Alva Pilkenton, who said she killed herself with a .22 caliber rifle, is an accountant in the Matanuska Valley Land Settlement corporation.

Every Man King And Two Queens, 'Election' Offer

Interest in the highly competitive campaign for mayor and other officials of "Little Chicago"—formerly designated as the region of the Five Points—in which Tom Adams, "super-plutocrat" and advocate of annexation, is opposed by Gus Kokinos, "plutocrat," anti-annexationist and resenting everything that Adams stands for, is gaining momentum every time the clock rings out the passing hours.

Right now the contest is being centered upon the next chief of police. Allan Ritter, owner of the "house of one million parts," is opposed by his neighbor, Bert Mahoney, noted far and wide as proprietor of the "house of three million parts." Being engaged in the same line of business, naturally they are at the outset rivals of no small nature and now they are rivals in politics as well as in business.

Each has a generous display of cards printed to hand out to the impressionable. Ritter, in a gust of generosity, sets forth what he has to offer in this manner:

"VOTE FOR ALLAN RITTER
For Chief of Police"

"I am not a politician but was nominated by my friends, but if elected I pledge: (1) Every man a king, and furnish a queen for him. (2) I will furnish better whisky, in carload lots, not barrels."

But his opponent, with a greater degree of generosity, thundered at the offer of his rival and came out with far more generous offers in the king and queen line. His cards are being distributed in fully 14 parishes as follows:

"VOTE FOR MAHONEY
FOR CHIEF OF POLICE
Of Little Chicago

His platform sets forth: (1) "Will make every man a king and furnish two queens. (2) Will make every lady a queen and furnish two kings; also will furnish new one for either king or queen if so desired by either. (3) I will furnish better whisky, in trainload and shipload lots. (Not just carload lots.)"

The coroner's race is also one that is also being fought out bitterly. An orange-hued handbill was circulated around communities along the east bank of the Ouachita river Saturday by A. B. (Doc) Smelser. And here is his promise conveyed on said handbill:

"I PROMISE:
'To see that you are buried in the best of taste
Not put away with too great haste.
And whatever the cause of your relatives' tears
I'll keep your secret, so have no fears.'"
"A vote for me is a token well spent."

Yellow placards are being nailed on light and telephone polls for many miles round about, giving the names of the candidates and their platforms and each ticket bidding for support at the polls on that fateful November 25.

No dark horses—"black mules"—as Gus is inclined to call 'em, will be permitted in this race, as the candidates say they had enough of that stuff at last year's election. If such a candidate presumes to permit his name on the ballot, the vote will be cancelled, said the Little Chicago executive committee.

Both candidates for mayor, and also others on their respective tickets, are looking with interest to absentee votes to help swell their majorities. Anyone can be given an absentee ballot by calling campaign headquarters. Those at the helm are extremely generous in this matter and they expect to get absentee votes from all parts of north Louisiana.

The most stupendous parade that has ever been staged west of the Mississippi river is now being arranged for, stated Philip Lasotta, executive committeeman, which will cause people in Monroe, Eros, Cheniere, Ruston and Shreveport to sit up and take notice. But more about this parade, its time and general composition is promised later, only the public is asked to be watching out for it like they did for that last circus parade that went through DeSiard street.

Eubank Has Complete Stock Of Efficient Anti-Freeze And Heaters

With a view to meeting the cold weather requirements of its customers in the way of anti-freeze solutions and patented automobile heaters, the Western Auto Associate store, located at 419 DeSiard street, and managed by J. T. Eubank, has stocked a large quantity of the finest anti-freeze solutions on the market in two grades known as Ethyl-Alcohol anti-freeze, which sells at 15 cents a quart, and Wizard Super anti-freeze, selling at 89 cents a gallon.

Ethyl-Alcohol anti-freeze to be used in car radiators is an improved solution superior to the majority of anti-freeze solutions on the market. It is practically odorless, prevents rust and corrosion as well as electrolyptic action on metals and has approximately the same viscosity as water. It contains commercial denatured Ethyl type alcohol and is 188 proof.

Wizard Super anti-freeze also for use in car radiators is a perfect protection for cars, being 100 per cent concentrated anti-freeze and prepared so as to be absolutely rustless, has no offensive odor, does not generate poisonous fumes, is oil sealed thus retarding evaporation, is much stronger than the regular anti-freeze solutions and is therefore safer. It is a better protector against bursting from freezing as long as 20 per cent of the original solution is retained, and has practically the same specific gravity as water and will not seep.

Mr. Eubank announces that the Western Auto Associate store here is well stocked with Hot-Wave automobile heaters, said to rank with the finest car heaters on the market.

"The important features of Hot-Wave automobile heaters include what is known as the duplex heating core," Mr. Eubank stated. "This is an unusual arrangement of the heater core which permits the water to flow through the heater twice and by the fan twice, thus giving double heat. This is accomplished by having both pipes connected to one end of the core. Each of these pipes is connected to an individual tank that covers half the core, reversing itself in the tank at the opposite end and being forced back through the other half of the core. This assures three-way heat, down, side and forward, which means comfort in any weather."

Other features of Hot-Wave automobile heaters include a defroster accessory which can be attached to the heater in a few moments, snapping directly into the side of the heater shell; also an aero-dynamic fan housing which makes the operating of Hot-Wave automobile heaters absolutely noiseless.

Hot-Wave automobile heaters are sold by Western Auto Associate store at $3.98, $5.95, $7.95 and $9.95.

The two more expensive heaters are equipped with automatic air vents which keep pockets of air from forming in the lines. These two types of Hot-Wave automobile heaters may be purchased on convenient terms.

SERVICE GIVEN BY MARTINS' AGENCY

The Martin Magazine agency, operated by Frank Martin and his wife, Mrs. Louise Riggs Martin, is the only agency of its type in the Twin Cities, and it offers complete and personal subscription service on all classes of magazines.

No matter what type of magazine the reader desires—industrial, fiction, children's, trade, style, news, etc.—he will find his favorite periodical listed among the wide variety of magazines handled by the Martin agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin have been residents of Monroe for a number of years and are well known and respected. Mrs. Martin is remembered by many of her friends and former pupils as a successful school teacher, a fact which has given her an insight into the problems of parents and teachers and enabled her to assemble among the agency's list all of the highest type magazines that offer much assistance in solving the multiple problems faced every day by those charged with molding the destinies of the younger generation. She has made a specialty of children's magazines and for several years has handled efficiently many of the largest orders for local school library periodicals.

In addition to magazine subscription solicitations, the Martin Magazine agency features the World Book Encyclopedia, an authoritative reference library, not to be found in stores in the Twin Cities but which is sold only through personal demonstrations by the publisher's representatives. The World Book Encyclopedia is recognized generally as being the most complete and authentic of its type ever published. A special pre-Christmas offer is being made of the World Book set now, which makes it an ideal gift for parents to give their children or for others who desire a library that is complete as it is interesting.

Many attractive club subscriptions at low prices may be obtained at this time from the agency. Special Christmas rates are now in effect. Any one would appreciate the gift of a subscription to his favorite magazine.

The Martin Magazine agency is home-owned and home-serviced. Customers do not deal with out-of-town collectors, but are given courteous and efficient service at all times by Mr. and Mrs. Martin, who reside at 309 Ludwig avenue, West Monroe, and whose telephone number is 1759.

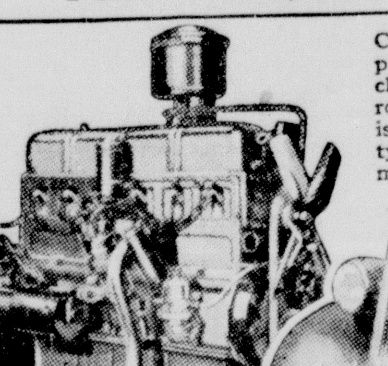
Performance, Beauty and Safety Mark Chevrolet's Completely New Cars



Chevrolet's 1937 engine is completely new, but adheres closely to time-proved Chevrolet engineering principles. It is of six-cylinder valve-in-head type, smoother, more powerful, more economical, and lighter.

A representative model from Chevrolet's new line, typifying its beauty and grace—the Master De Luxe Sport Sedan with trunk. Note the distinctive "speed line" extending back from the side of the hood.

Unisteel construction joins the floor, cowl assembly, panels, and Turret Top of Chevrolet's all-silent, all-steel body, to form one integral structure, welded in all joints, and reinforced and braced for permanent silence and safety.

Beauty and utility mark the new Chevrolet instrument panel. The windshield is of greater area, with narrow corner posts, affording better vision.

New power, economy, durability, safety and comfort, coupled with striking new beauty, characterize Chevrolet's new models for 1937. They are offered in two series, Master and Master De Luxe, virtually identical in appearance.

Chevrolet's fully-enclosed Knee-Action is furnished at no extra cost on the Master De Luxe models; and new Syncro-Mesh transmission, and safety plate glass all around at no extra cost, feature all models of both series.

CITY CONTINUES TO PREFER A. & W.

Popular Sandwich Shop On DeSiard Street Shows Steady Increase

The depression has been over a long time, only everyone hasn't assumed the right attitude, according to I. W. Allen, manager of the A. and W. Sandwich shop, 326 DeSiard street. Mr. Allen said he has found that the more one thinks times are better, the better one feels and soon, in reality, business will get better.

During the last year, business at the A. and W. has increased each month, Mr. Allen said, and the increase has been steady. For example, during the month of September, the A. and W. had its second best business month since the opening of the store October 21, 1931. An August of this year, the establishment's books showed that it had its third best month. Mr. Allen said his best business month was May, 1934, but September receipts showed only a small marginal difference.

According to Mr. Allen, business has been better during the past year because the people have been spending more money.

BUSINESS GOOD AT CENTRAL AUTO

Established here in May of the present year, the Central Auto company, located on North Second street, next door to Central No. 2 service station, has enjoyed a phenomenal business during the few months of its existence and has made the Monroe motorist "Studebaker-minded."

The company was organized by W. J. Sherrouse and C. B. Sherrouse to distribute the Studebaker automobile. This car in years past had achieved a splendid reputation in the Twin Cities and surrounding territory but its distribution had been discontinued.

The new Studebaker models are now on display at the company's showrooms on North Second street and it is evident that the manufacturers have made every effort to make the new cars outstanding triumphs of automotive engineering.

Among the new improvements are the overdrive, which permits fast driving with practically no vibration and with complete safety. In connection with the overdrive, those who have cars equipped with this improvement declare that while driving at 70 miles an hour it seems as if the car is making about 40 miles an hour. The finest brakes designed by world famous experts insure the utmost safety to the fast-driving Studebaker of today.

Other improvements include the automatic hill clutch, making it possible for the driver of a Studebaker to stop his car on an incline without interfering with the use of the brake or accelerator.

The Central Auto company is managed by F. N. Steele, known popularly as "Sticky," and he has proved an efficient manager and is credited with much of the success of the new company.

LARGE STOCK AT HOME FURNITURE

New Additions To Lines Handled By Lindsey Meet Business Increase

In keeping with the general business up-trend, the Home Furniture company, located at 501-11 DeSiard street, has added several new lines of merchandise of which the most outstanding is the Davis Cabinet company's solid walnut and maple bedroom furniture suites.

The James Robertson models are of the period of 1779 and the Hanna Sheldon models date from the latter part of the 17th century. These suites as well as many others which are featured by the Home Furniture company in the colonial designs are authentic reproductions of the furniture used in early American homes and have met with an instant demand.

The Home Furniture company carries complete lines of nationally advertised merchandise including Roper stoves, Philco radios, Perfect Sleeper Tuftless Inner Springs mattresses, Cavalier cedar chests, Speed Queen washing machines equipped with electric and gasoline motors, Quaker, Candura and Gold Seal linoleum rugs, Mohawk woolen rugs, and other nationally advertised merchandise.

This store has grown rapidly during the past few years and is one of the most popular of its kind in the city. Its stocks are always attractive and complete and the personnel trained in courtesy and helpfulness to the public.

J. B. Lindsay, president of the Home Furniture company, in a statement declared that his firm looks for better business during 1937 and is prepared to handle an increased demand for better popular priced merchandise.

DODGE, PLYMOUTH FIRM WELL KNOWN

Monroe Auto Supply Aggressively Operated By W. L. Etheridge, Jr.

The Monroe Auto Supply company is one of the best known automobile distributing agencies in the south and handles the Dodge and Plymouth cars. Its offices and showrooms are located on Walnut street and it maintains a large used car lot at the corner of Washington and North Second streets.

The firm has an exclusive franchise for the distribution of Dodge automobiles and trucks for practically all of north Louisiana. The Dodge automobile has long been noted for economy and dependability in performance. Dodge economy, proved and endorsed by thousands of Dodge owners, is considered the most effective appeal to present and prospective owners of Dodge cars and trucks.

The Monroe Auto Supply company is under the management of W. L. Ethridge, Jr., who assumed charge shortly after the first of the year. Since taking control, Mr. Ethridge has pursued an aggressive policy in the conduct of the business and his first year as manager has been marked by unusual success.

Among the policies instituted by Mr. Ethridge, perhaps the most far reaching was the establishment of a 90-day service guarantee for used cars. The Monroe Auto Supply company is credited with handling more used cars than any similar concern in the south, and this new policy has done much to increase the sales in this department. The company has more than 40 used cars on display in its used car lot at all times.

The Monroe Auto Supply company maintains a complete stock of nationally advertised automobile accessories and distributes genuine Dodge and Plymouth parts.

It also maintains a complete service department in the charge of A. G. Olcott.

Manager Of Local Sherwin-Williams Store Tells Of Improvements

The science of paint making has made considerable progress in recent years and the Sherwin-Williams company, largest manufacturers of paint products in the world, has spent large sums in perfecting the technique of making paints, according to J. F. Davis, manager of the Sherwin-Williams company store at 109 Catalpa street.

"For many years before and after 1860, paint was mixed on the job with a stick from white lead, linseed oil and turpentine," Mr. Davis explained. "This hand mixture produced a product which gave very fair service, provided, of course, that the white lead and linseed oil were both of good quality. True, this paint lost its gloss quite soon, took on a grayish, dirty cast from the air of the average community and chalked excessively.

"The science of paint making has progressed far since those days," Mr. Davis continued. "Science has found the way to reinforce lead and oil by adding certain other pigments unknown in years gone by. The result is multi-pigment paint which means paint containing several pigments instead of only one. Gone are the days of stick-mixing for modern machinery does that job a thousand times better. Gone are the days of premature chalking, fading and discoloration. Modern multi-pigment, machine-mixed paint of high quality holds its color better, covers more surface per gallon, wears longer and costs less in the long run."

Mr. Davis warned paint users against the mistaken theory that a paint which costs less per gallon than Sherwin-Williams paints is economical to use.

"There is no short cut to experience," Mr. Davis said. "No idle claims can take the place of performance. The men who supervise the actual production of Sherwin-Williams paints at the mills have long years of service to their credit. They are real paint makers, and no house paint that is almost as good as Sherwin-Williams paint can equal its performance, can match its value or duplicate its economy.

"It is cheaper to buy Sherwin-Williams paints than other brands of cheap house paints," Mr. Davis stated.

GEORGIA HOLDS FORDHAM TO TIE

LOOK OUT FOR DIXIE

If yesterday's football developments on the eastern front didn't put a southern team in the Rose Bowl, then somebody on the Pacific coast is getting ready to pull a few shenanigans. Barring a couple of upsets this week, Louisiana State or Alabama looks like a leadpipe cinch to get the call.

Georgia rose to the occasion yesterday and paved the way for Dixie. By battling the apparently over-rated Fordham Rams to a 7-7 deadlock, the Bulldogs gallantly took care of the interests of L. S. U. and 'Bama. All signs pointed to a Rose Bowl invitation for Fordham before the Georgians took the Rams by the horns and tossed 'em out of the picture.

Marquette was bumped by Duquesne, 13 to 0, and ruined what little consideration the Golden Avalanche was getting out California way.

The third "upset" of the day toppled Northwestern from the perch the Wildcats had been occupying since they beat Minnesota and incidentally put the Gophers back where they belong—at the top of the heap. Notre Dame's decisive victory over Northwestern yesterday proved just what everybody has been saying—that a combination of breaks and mud enabled the Wildcats to beat the Gophers on an "off day."

Getting back to the Rose Bowl situation, no team in the east, north or southwest has a claim as strong as Louisiana State's or Alabama's and the Tigers should rate a step or two ahead of the Tide because of the strenuous schedule Coach Bernie Moore's charges have played this year.

In the east, Fordham was listed as the top team, and now the Rams have two ties marked up against them. There's no team in the middle west, outside of the Big Ten, that rates any consideration now. And the Big Ten is out, because of a conference ruling prohibiting post-season games. In the Big Six, Nebraska thought a couple of weeks ago that they might get a nibble, but Pitt took care of that last week-end. The Southwest conference race has become a topsy-turvy affair, with no team boasting a record to gain consideration.

From where we're sitting, it looks like it's strictly an L. S. U.—Alabama battle for the bid. Each has a tie against it, but even with that, the record of each stacks up much better than that of any other team which has been mentioned as Rose Bowl material.

BIERMAN'S RULES

Bernie Bierman, who ought to know, has laid down twelve fundamental rules upon which to build a successful football team. Having used these rules in turning out great grid teams at Minnesota and Tulane, Bierman is well qualified to tell the world, as he does in the current issue of Collier's, just how it should be done.

Bierman's system, he says, is based on the fact that in his section of the country the lads have a potential ability to block powerfully, and so he has emphasized the running game ever since he went to Minneapolis in 1932.

He says his twelve rules are flexible enough to be adapted to any style of attack, circumstances alone listing them behind the running game which he favors for Minnesota. He sets them down this way:

1. No boy will play good football unless he enjoys the game and gives his best on every play.
2. To play his best, a boy must be in good physical condition and have adequate rest before a game.
3. A boy who places personal glory and success above the best interests of the team is a liability rather than an asset.
4. A large, fairly well-developed squad is more desirable than a squad composed of a few stars and a group of mediocre, undeveloped talent.
5. A single wingback formation with appropriate and seasonal variations seems most desirable for our offense needs.
6. We like to shift, but we can and have played from a set formation.
7. We believe in a rather large number of plays and sometimes put in special plays for certain opponents.
8. We believe that certain fundamentals such as blocking, charging, tackling and ball carrying, to mention only a few, are more important than plays themselves.
9. We lean to an aggressive six-man line on defense.
10. We favor a calm, determined team, rather than one keyed up to a hysterical pitch for a game.
11. Speed is an essential component of a sound style of play.
12. Players develop through hard work over a comparatively long period rather than from short intensive drives during the heat of a fall campaign.

"The last maxim," says Coach Bierman, "probably is the heart of major football today, for despite the talk of 'good old days' the game has become infinitely more exacting and precise than it was ten or fifteen years ago. Despite the storybooks, there is no such thing any more as the flash who drives through for the winning touchdown in the first game he enters. Every lad the spectators see successive Saturdays during the season is the product of weeks and months of rigid, painstaking training.

"The football taught by most coaches has the grace of flexibility and can be attuned to the favored type of play in certain localities, the nature of the material at hand, and the foibles and fashions of the day. Under another set of circumstances and blessed with a different type of material, I'd probably be stressing the forward pass or the lateral."

Writing somewhat prophetically of the current season, Bierman says that "there are too many big guns being fired in the fast company of the Western conference to avoid being hit now and then. I'll continue concentrating on the game coming next and let championships and winning streaks take care of themselves."

SPORTS FODDER

Three open tournaments, topped by the Miami Biltmore $10,000 Open, December 4-7, remaining on the professional golfers' 1936 schedule will bring the total prize money to $148,945, an increase of $14,245 over a year ago. Other events are the Augusta Open, November 27-29, and the Nassau Open, December 12-14.

College football authorities, tired of rebuilding new goal posts after every important game, are installing steel ones which can be dismantled in five seconds after the final whistle, thus cheating fans of the honor.

San Francisco, looking forward to a big 1939 celebration, is bidding for the National A. A. U. championships, including track and field.

Fred Perry has notified tennis officials in the Miami area he will play in the professional tournament to be played there this winter.

Barbed wire fences are placed around the bleacher sections in Venezuela to keep fight fans from crashing the high-priced seats, and a powder is sprinkled over invading boxers by way of jinxing them.

Bill Dineen, the American league umpire, would make a great kidnapper. He can carry 19 baseballs in his pockets.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, owner of the Milky Way farm, will replace Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt this year as the leading money-winning owner, marking the second time in three years a woman has won the distinction. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane had the honor in 1934.

A move is afoot to rub out the pass interference rule in football, giving the defense an opportunity to break up a forward by any means short of deliberate roughing.

Wiffy Cox, training his guns for the big dough along the winter trail, said "I cleared $7,000 in '31, but the tour cost me $3,000 last year and my prizes were $1,800." With any luck this season Wiffy should be able to pass his former high.

Shipping Sam Byrd to Rochester appears to be the start of a deal that will send Spud Davis from the Cards to the Reds.

At 16, Francis Leary of Manchester (Conn.) High school, has done the mile in 4:33.

Every club in the National league, with the exception of the Dodgers and the Cards, has been mentioned as interested in a deal for Wally Berger of the Bees, and they just haven't gotten around to it yet.

BEASLEY REACHES TOURNEY FINALS

Winner Over Wesley Shafto To Meet Shep Girault In 36-Hole Match

Bun Beasley defeated Wesley Shafto, defending champion, 2 and 1, in their semi-final match of the Lakeside Country club championship tournament yesterday and will meet Shep Girault in the final 36-hole battle for the club title. The first 18 holes of the finals will be played this afternoon, with the second 18 slated for Monday afternoon.

The club's fall handicap tournament for women reached the semi-final round yesterday, with the following results in the quarter-finals:

Mrs. E. S. Girault defeated Miss Kent Millsaps, 2 and 1.

Mrs. A. B. Clarkson defeated Mrs. C. W. Wallace, 4 and 3.

Pairings for the consolation round in the women's tournament were announced yesterday by Winnie Cole, Lakeside pro. Mrs. Henry Biedenharn meets Mrs. Joe Washburn, Mrs. F. F. Millsaps plays Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. A. T. Shotwell meets Mrs. Marvyn Johnson and Mrs. C. C. Boardman meets Mrs. W. W. Kellogg.

A sweepstakes tournament was held at the Lakeside club yesterday, with W. L. James and Guy Campbell tying for low net score. James posted an 89, which with an 18 handicap, gave him a net 71, the same net Campbell made with his gross 91 and 20 handicap.

BROWNING GETS ACE AT M'GUIRE COURSE

Van Browning, who took up golf only a year ago, realized every golfer's fondest dream yesterday when he made a hole-in-one.

Using a No. 4 iron, Browning sent his tee shot rolling into the cup of the 133-yard No. 17 hole at the McGuire Park Golf club. The ball flew straight as an arrow for the green and headed straight for the cup. The ace helped Browning score an 86 for the 18 holes.

Playing with the sure-shot artist were J. C. Jordan and Robert Broomfield.

The Bayou Tigers, thinking of their old foe, Tulane, whom they meet next week, and of the Rose Bowl, scored almost at will over the S. L. I. Bulldogs. The last quarter was cut by six minutes by mutual consent.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U. used practically every man he had, but the scoring continued with the third stringers scoring three touchdowns.

Louisiana State scored on its first play when Morton raced 15 through the line and over the goal. He, Coffee, Milner and Tinsley crossed the goal in the first period.

Crass, sub for Coffee, Rohm, sub for Milner, Reed, sub for Morton, and Mihalich each scored in the second.

Milner, Morton, Reed and Walker, sub for Morton, tallied in the third, and Johnson, sub for Coffee, and Walker, sub for Milner, added two more touchdowns in the shortened fourth.

Tinsley, Rohm, Mihalic and Walker scored on passes.

GOOD NEWS!

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Bedlam brooke loose at Louisiana State university's football stadium today at news of Georgia's holding Fordham to a 7-7 tie.

About 4,000 L. S. U. students yelled and cheered themselves hoarse, and yelled like madmen when the score was announced, considering that the score dropped Fordham down in the list of Rose Bowl eligibles since L. S. U. beat Georgia 47-7 and raised Louisiana State's Pasadena hopes higher.

Louisiana State was swamping Southwestern Louisiana institute in a "breather" game when the announcement came.

HORSE WINS RACE AFTER ATTEMPT AT 'SPONGING'

The gelding defeated Must Be by one and a half lengths in the second running of the $1,500 added race for all ages over a mile and a sixteenth. Reminding was third by a nose.

AUBURN WALLOPS LOYOLA, 44 TO 0

Plainsmen Roll Up Impressive Victory Over Wolves At Home-Coming

A home-coming day crowd of 5,000 witnessed the lop-sided victory, in which the Auburn reserves displayed power equal to the regulars. The reserves counted three touchdowns in the first half, and two more in the final quarter, the regulars accounting for two during the third period.

Alert play by the Auburn line completely bottled up Loyola's backs. Two scoring threats were turned back by the victors. One followed a short kick, and the other a fumble on Auburn's 13.

Blake scampered 20 yards for the first marker, following a short kick, and a 45-yard dash off tackle by Tipper set the stage for the second. Tipper was dropped on the Loyola 18, but Blake passed to Williams in the end zone a few plays later.

Ralph O'Gwynne, third string halfback, ran 90 yards for the third score on the first play after he entered the contest.

Auburn's regulars scored in eight plays after going on the field to start the second half. Hitchcock featured the drive with a 45 yard run around his right end, and Fenton went over from the 5, and kicked the extra point.

Gilbert, star Plainsman center, intercepted a Loyola pass on his 5 and ran it back to Loyola's 45. Hitchcock shot a long pass to Eaves, who took the ball on the 5 and ran across to score.

Pelham Sitz, sub fullback, ripped through the line for 45 yards as the final period opened, and went over from the 4 a few plays later.

Loyola's weary ranks were unable to check fresh Auburn third-stringers, and O'Gwynne set the stage for another touchdown with a 30 slash through the line. Kelly scored from the six yard line.

RAMBLERS TAME WILDCATS, 26-6 BEFORE 56,000

Irish Shove Big Ten Champs From Grid Pinnacle In Touchdown Parade

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame brought 'em back alive today.

They tamed, beat and caged the mighty Wildcats of Northwestern by the astonishing score of 26 to 6, ending a college football prowl that had not been halted through rain and sunshine for seven straight games, a raid that found them even feasting on the national championship dream of mighty Minnesota.

Notre Dame astonished a capacity crowd of 56,000 thrilled spectators this blustery November afternoon by whipping the champions of the Western conference in one of the biggest upsets of the season. The pop-eyed spectators left the Notre Dame stadium wondering which was now the ranking No. 1 football team of the nation. They knew it was no longer Northwestern.

Notre Dame took advantage of every opportunity to outmaneuver the fagged out, hitherto unbeaten Wildcats to pile up their victory. The size of the score just about indicates the difference between the two teams.

Four touchdowns were scored by Notre Dame, one in each period, before the badly whipped Wildcats found themselves long enough to stage a 77-yard march in the fourth to register their only score.

The hero of Notre Dame's triumph was a 21-year-old youngster, Bob Wilke of Hamilton, O., playing left halfback. In the first period, Wilke bounced away on a 30-yard dash that gave Notre Dame its first score, and in the second he got away on an even more dazzling run, this one for 34 yards for the second touchdown.

In the third it was Wilkie's quick kick which caught Northwestern napping and led to the most disastrous fumble of the afternoon. Wilke's quick punt sailed far over the head of Don Heap, flashy Northwestern halfback. For an instant he stood wondering what to do, then he tried to retrieve the bouncing ball, barely touched it, when Joe O'Neill came tearing along to recover it for Notre Dame on Northwestern's 3. Larry Danbom, Notre Dame fullback, crashed over for the touchdown.

GEORGIA'S VICTORY FEATURES PLAY OF CONFERENCE TEAMS

(By Associated Press)

Fordham's renowned "seven blocks of granite" crumbled before the savage clawing of an underdog Georgia Bulldog Saturday when the southerners battled the Rams to a 7-7 deadlock and eliminated them unceremoniously from the Rose Bowl picture.

Georgia held the highly-touted New Yorkers to a single touchdown after themselves smashing over a score on the Ram's second team before 35,000 awe stricken spectators in the Polo Grounds. Fordham, heretofore was undefeated and tied only by Pittsburgh.

Louisiana State students, forgetting for the moment the carnage of their team's lopsided victory, cheered themselves hoarse over Georgia's tie. With Fordham out of the running they figured the Bayou Tigers had a brighter chance to go to Pasadena on New Year's day.

"Hooray for Georgia and Dixie," the stocky governor, himself a former star on the Crimson Tide, wired the Georgia team. Then he commented:

"That ought to end any doubt about Alabama going to the Rose Bowl."

Alabama, tied by Tennessee, a conference member, was idle today. Louisiana, undefeated in the conference, was tied early in the season by Texas. The Tide's final clash is against Vanderbilt Thanksgiving day and L. S. U. ends its regular season against Tulane next Saturday.

The razzle dazzling Georgia Tech Engineers worked an assortment of pigskin magic to whip Florida 38 to 14. Tulane swamped Sewanee 53 to 6 and Mississippi State trounced Mississippi 26 to 6.

Greenies Score At Will To Win 'Breather' Before L. S. U. Battle

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Filling the air with laterals and forwards, Tulane scalped Sewanee's helpless Tigers, 53 to 6, today before a crowd of 10,000.

Hek Clark's little purple and white team fought gallantly but was utterly unable to cope with the Wave's sharpshooters and the big Green line.

It was apparent after the first five minutes that Tulane could win about as it pleased and "Red" Dawson took advantage of the situation to save his regulars for next week's all-important clash with Louisiana State as well as get a fresh line on his reserves.

Tulane started with a rush, pushing over two touchdowns in the opening period and two more in the second. Little Sewanee braced in the third period after scoring their lone tally just before the half ended, and held the Dawsonmen scoreless. Tulane opened up again in the final quarter for four more markers.

Jerry Friederichs, reserve end, accounted for two of the Wave's eight touchdowns with circus catches of long passes. Captain Bill Moss booted five points after touchdown and played a great game in the line.

Sewanee's touchdown came after a fumble and a 15-yard penalty gave the Tigers the ball on Tulane's 35. Stanphill got 14 around right end and Cochrane passed to Keiser over the goal line.

KELLEY FINISHES STELLAR CAREER

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Larry Kelley, Yale's brilliant football captain, wanted to be "alone" tonight in his greatest hour of triumph.

"I feel sort of funny," said the Williamsport, Pa., youth, "I really can't explain it. Here I have dreamed about this, about my team beating Harvard to win the Big Three title, about leading a Yale team through a successful season, and then when it happens, it seems like a dream.

"I guess I ought to go off somewhere and be by myself, alone. I want to find out if I'm awake. And I sort of feel sad to think it's all over, the day I dreamed about for four years."

But, Kelley, puffing on his first cigarette since last September in the Yale dressing room, wasn't allowed to be "alone."

For one thing, Dick Harlow, Harvard coach, sought the big Yale end out and doffing his hat, said:

"God bless you Larry. You were great. I'll love you always."

Then Ducky Pond, his coach, finally broke away from a crowd of jubilant alumni to tell his brilliant captain how "sorry" he was to see him go, and added:

"Now that the season is over, I can tell you to your face, you are the greatest end I ever saw."

Usually ready with a wisecrack to meet such situations, Kelley merely mumbled:

"Gee, I'm sorry my career is over."

The Yale leader wanted it definitely known he has played his last football game, and isn't interested at all in turning professional.

By scoring a touchdown, Kelley completed three years of play against the Crimson and Princeton during which he has tallied at least once in each contest.

BULLDOGS BLAST RAMS' CHANCES FOR ROSE BOWL

On this November afternoon, there came out of the southland an underrated and much kicked-around Georgia team to shatter Fordham's rasiest dream in football history by holding the renowned Rams, their "seven blocks of granite" and all, to a 7 to 7 tie before an amazed throng of 35,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds.

The result, a capping climax to a season littered and strewn with upsets from coast to coast, was one of the most startling in the year's debacle of favorites. It left the Rams high and dry with their Rose Bowl hopes in the junk heap and the chances of one of the south's great elevens, not Georgia but either Louisiana State or Alabama, high in the running for the nomination to meet in the post-season classic at Los Angeles New Year's day, probably against the Washington Huskies.

Coach Jimmy Crowley, a master mind who seldom makes a mistake, unwittingly gave the Bulldogs their chance to blast the Ram dream. Keen to save his first-string team in the gruelling battle that sent player after player to the sidelines, Crowley started the third period with his reserves and the Georgians seized their chance. Within three minutes, they rushed over their touchdown, added the extra point and then held the infuriated Rams to a tie.

The breaks came quickly in that thrill-packed third quarter. With the seconds on the field, Fordham took the kick-off but, on the third play, Warren Mulrey fumbled and Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia center, pounced on the leather on the Ram 20. Halted on two line rushes, Maurice Green faded back 10 yards and sailed a high pass to Otis Maffett who hauled it down for a beautiful catch in the Ram end zone for a touchdown. Lewis Young added the extra point with a placement.

As the spectators went wild the first-string Fordhams rushed back on the field to tie the score within five minutes.

With its "seven blocks of granite" opening big gaps in the Georgia line and with Andy Palau, Al Gurske, Frank Mautte and big Joe Dulkie carrying the hod and passing the boys from Dixie dizzy, the Rams went 70 yards for their score, a 30-yard pass from Palau to Mautte putting the ball on the Georgia two-yard line from where Dulkie took it over on two withering blasts at the enemy line. As the spectators held their breath, Palau's kick from placement to tie the score barely skimmed inside the uprights.

It looked like certain curtains for Georgia but hanging on like a bull terrier in the face of defeat, the Georgians halted one Ram threat on their 22 as Maffett tackled Palau viciously and forced him to drop the ball, which was scooped up by Asa Candler on his own 38 to end the rally. Fordham's last hope vanished just before the game ended when Alf Anderson, bruised and battered all afternoon, raced in to intercept Palau's pass on Georgia's 39.

RABBIT'S FOOT WORKS

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A rabbit's foot which "helped" Forrest (Spec) Towns become the world's champion high hurdler tonight was credited by the slim Georgian with the 7-7 tie by which his Alma Mater smashed Fordham's Rose Bowl hopes in New York today.

Towns said he hasn't lost a hurdles race since acquiring the foot.

Resolutions of appreciation for the support of Governor Richard W. Leche and State Superintendent of Education T. H. Harris in the enactment of teacher legislation at the last session of the Louisiana legislature were adopted.

Other resolutions adopted included the association's thanks to retiring President Spencer Phillips of Pelican for his work in bringing about the enactment of the tenure law, the teachers retirement law and the repeal of a portion of the budget law which freed the teachers of the state from political influence, commended the work of the association's new president, L. E. Frazar of Merryville, who is also a member of the state legislature from Beauregard parish, and extended "its deepest thanks for the services he rendered to the progress of education, particularly in behalf of the teacher retirement law."

Commendatory resolutions and thanks were voted the city of Monroe for its hospitality, to Executive Secretary G. O. Houston, Superintendent T. O. Brown, Superintendent E. L. Neville, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, the newspapers of Monroe, KMLB, the transportation companies, the Chamber of Commerce and all civic organizations.

Committees who work on teacher legislation and which included the committee on teacher retirement, the committee on tenure and the legislative committee were also thanked in resolutions adopted yesterday.

The association went on record endorsing the provisions of the Harrison-Fletcher bill providing for an expenditure by the federal government of $300,000,000 in support of education and declared, "We hope that congress will see fit to pass this bill, making available to the various states their portion of the $300,000,000 annually that is provided in this bill. Louisiana would receive about five and a quarter million dollars annually from this source of the bill ever becomes a law."

In a resolution endorsing the suggestion that teachers of the state be paid on a twelve-month basis without a reduction in the amount they receive monthly, the association stated that it would petition the governor and the legislature to give careful consideration to providing pay for the teachers of the state on the basis of twelve months without a reduction in salary.

The association adopted a resolution favoring child labor laws and urged the state of Louisiana to ratify this amendment to the national constitution as soon as possible.

A resolution presented by the department of classroom teachers was also adopted whereby the school boards in the state will be urged to provide some system of definite sick leave for teachers and the association pledged itself to give special attention to the question of studying the problem of sick leave and hospitalization.

DEATH OF BRIDE IN ALASKA UNDER QUIZ

PALMER, Alaska, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Federal authorities went quietly about the Matanuska valley today in their reopened investigation of the death of a bride, Mrs. Zelda King Pilkenton, shot through the heart in her home among the federal colonists the night of November 11.

Assistant United States District Attorney Warren A. Taylor and United States Marshal's Deputy Frank Hoffman came from Anchorage in a taxicab and visited the towns of Matanuska and Wasilla, but refused to comment on what line their investigation was taking.

Mrs. Pilkenton's widower, Alva Pilkenton, who said she killed herself with a .22 caliber rifle, is an accountant in the Matanuska Valley Land Settlement corporation.

DEATH PURSUES

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Dennis Hurson escaped uninjured from an automobile accident today. Later he returned to the scene of the wreck, struck a match to find his hat and was burned to death in a gasoline explosion which followed.

Every Man King And Two Queens, 'Election' Offer

Interest in the highly competitive campaign for mayor and other officials of "Little Chicago"—formerly designated as the region of the Five Points—in which Tom Adams, "super-plutocrat" and advocate of annexation, is opposed by Gus Kokinos, "plutocrat," anti-annexationist and resenting everything that Adams stands for, is gaining momentum every time the clock rings out the passing hours.

Right now the contest is being centered upon the next chief of police. Allan Ritter, owner of the "house of one million parts," is opposed by his neighbor, Bert Mahoney, noted far and wide as proprietor of the "house of three million parts." Being engaged in the same line of business, naturally they are at the outset rivals of no small nature and now they are rivals in politics as well as in business.

Each has a generous display of cards printed to hand out to the impressionable. Ritter, in a gust of generosity, sets forth what he has to offer in this manner:

"VOTE FOR ALLAN RITTER

"I am not a politician but was nominated by my friends, but if elected I pledge: (1) Every man a king, and furnish a queen for him. (2) I will furnish better whisky, in carload lots, not barrels."

But his opponent, with a greater degree of generosity, thundered at the offer of his rival and came out with far more generous offers in the king and queen line. His cards are being distributed in fully 14 parishes as follows:

"VOTE FOR MAHONEY
FOR CHIEF OF POLICE
Of Little Chicago

His platform sets forth: (1) "Will make every man a king and furnish two queens. (2) Will make every lady a queen and furnish two kings; also will furnish new one for either king or queen if so desired by either. (3) I will furnish better whisky, in trainload and shipload lots. (Not just carload lots.)"

The coroner's race is also one that is also being fought out bitterly. An orange-hued handbill was circulated around communities along the east bank of the Ouachita river Saturday by A. B. (Doc) Smelser. And here is his promise conveyed on said handbill:

"I PROMISE:
'To see that you are buried in the best of taste
Not put away with too great haste.
And whatever the cause of your relatives' tears
I'll keep your secret, so have no fears.' "
"A vote for me is a token well spent."

Yellow placards are being nailed on light and telephone polls for many miles round about, giving the names of the candidates and their platforms and each ticket bidding for support at the polls on that fateful November 25.

No dark horses—"black mules"—as Gus is inclined to call 'em, will be permitted in this race, as the candidates say they had enough of that stuff at last year's election. If such a candidate presumes to permit his name on the ballot, the vote will be cancelled, said the Little Chicago executive committee.

Both candidates for mayor, and also others on their respective tickets, are looking with interest to absentee votes to help swell their majorities. Anyone can be given an absentee ballot by calling campaign headquarters. Those at the helm are extremely generous in this matter and they expect to get absentee votes from all parts of north Louisiana.

The most stupendous parade that has ever been staged west of the Mississippi river is now being arranged for, stated Philip Lasotta, executive committeeman, which will cause people in Monroe, Eros, Cheniere, Ruston and Shreveport to sit up and take notice. But more about this parade, its time and general composition is promised later, only the public is asked to be watching out for it like they did for that last circus parade that went through DeSiard street.

LONE QUADRUPLET GAINS WEIGHT FAST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Little Lee Earl Bridges, lone survivor of quadruplets born in a storm-swept cabin at Senath, Mo., three weeks ago, was on the road to becoming a heavyweight today.

She weighed only two pounds at birth, but under expert attention—and encasesd in an incubator—she has gained 12 1-2 ounces.

Until recently she was fed with an eye dropper. But no more of that. She gets her bottle now, one and a half ounces of breast milk every three hours.

Three of the quadruplets born to Mr. and Mrs. James Bridges, sharecroppers, died a few hours after birth.

DUQUESNE, IRISH, GEORGIA TURN IN MAJOR SURPRISES

Yale Held To One-Point Victory And Princeton Ties Dartmouth

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish wrecked Northwestern's dream of an undefeated season in almost exactly the same way the Wildcats had done it to Notre Dame a year ago and provided the foundation for the weekly list of gridiron surprises today in the pre-Thanksgiving climax of the 1936 season.

The final score of 26-6 left no doubt as to the superiority of the "hot and cold" Notre Dame team for this particular afternoon over the Big Ten champions. It was no more surprising, however, than the feat of the Georgia Bulldogs in holding Fordham to a 7-7 tie; Yale's sensational 14-13 triumph over Harvard before 58,000 fans in the battle for the Big Three title; the scoreless tie between Holy Cross and little St. Anselm or Indiana's remarkable rally to tie Purdue at 20-20.

Instead of the rout that had been indicated by the first-half proceedings, Yale and Captain Larry Kelley had all it could do to hold off a Crimson rally and win by the margin of a missed point after touchdown. At the same time Dartmouth, pace-setter in the informal "ivy" league, waged a thrilling 13-13 draw with Princeton as each team had its turn at coming from behind.

Undefeated Fordham, one of the leading candidates for an invitation to the Rose Bowl, found its "seven blocks of granite" weren't enough to beat a scrappy Georgia team. The Bulldogs scored against the Fordham second stringers but the regulars could do no more than knot the count. That, apparently, marked Fordham's definite elimination from the Rose Bowl picture, leaving the field open for two southern teams, Alabama and Louisiana State, to argue it out for the job of representing the east. Alabama was idle today while L. S. U. tuned up its offense with a 93-0 victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

The western side of the Rose Bowl question remained open as Washington, conference leader and the favorite to get the nomination, deferred action until its annual scrap with Washington State Thanksgiving day. There were 80,000 fans on hand, however, to see California display an irresistible attack that defeated Stanford 20-0 in the renewal of their classic rivalry. Oregon State whipped Oregon 18-0 in another traditional scrap while Montana looked impressive in a 24-7 triumph over San Francisco.

Ohio State and Minnesota, who tied for the Western conference crown last season, wound up in a second-place tie as the curtain fell on the Big Ten campaign. The Buckeyes trimmed their old rivals, Michigan's Wolverines, 21-0, while Minnesota overcame a surprisingly sturdy Wisconsin defense to win 24-0. Illinois trimmed Chicago 18-7 in the other Big Ten game.

Santa Clara, idle until tomorrow, was left as the nation's only unbeaten and untied "big" team when Marquette suffered the same fate as Northwestern. The Golden Avalanche found the sturdy Duquesne line too strong a barrier and went down, 13 to 0.

Another intersectional game provided one of the east's big surprises when Iowa routed Temple, 25-0. Other leading eastern games, most of them carrying on traditional rivalries, saw Colgate conquer a stubborn Syracuse team, 13-0; Army, in a "breather" before next Saturday's Navy game, whip previously unbeaten Hobart, 51-7; Penn State beat Bucknell, 14-0; Villanova surprise Manhattan, 12-0; Lehigh beat Lafayette, 18-0, and Boston college and Boston university play a scoreless draw. Georgetown downed Maryland of the Southern conference, 7-6.

Georgia's victory and the Rose Bowl situation rather overshadowed the southern program in which Georgia Tech trimmed Florida, 38-14, Tulane trounced Sewanee, 53-6, Auburn defeated Loyola of New Orleans, 44-0, Mississippi State whipped Mississippi, 26-6, and North Carolina beat South Carolina, 14-0.

Nebraska emphasized its leadership in the Big Six conference by whaling Kansas State, 40-0, while Missouri eked out a 17-10 decision over Washington of St. Louis. Among the midwest's "independents" Michigan State beat Arizona, 7-0, while North Dakota took a 14-13 decision from Detroit.

Slingin' Sam Baugh, Texas Christian's great passer, pitched the Horned Frogs into a tie with idle Arkansas for the Southwest conference lead with a 13-7 victory over Rice. Baylor conquered Southern Methodist, 13-7, in the only other conference game.

While leaders of the Rocky Mountain loop were idle, Brigham-Young walloped Wyoming, 32-7, Greeley State outscored Colorado Mines, 27-20, and Colorado State whipped Colorado college, 19-12.

FARMERVILLE DEFEATS BERNICE TEAM, 19 TO 0

FARMERVILLE, La., Nov. 21.—(Special) — The Farmerville High School Farmers defeated the Bernice High school eleven, 19 to 0, Wednesday in a game featuring Gillum, stellar Farmerville back.

None of Farmerville's touchdowns was scored on plays from scrimmage. Gillum scored two of them when he gathered in a couple of Bernice punts and ran the ball back about 45 yards in each case to score. In a third instance, Gillum intercepted a Bernice pass on the 50-yard line and raced back for a third tally. John Ed Rabun also played a good game of ball for the locals.

It's Really Uncanny How We Learn Things

RUSTON, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Since there is no one else around to make conversation today, this correspondent will try to make his typewriter talk, having heard that people do that with pianos and things. In behalf of the Bulldogs of Louisiana Tech, who will play football with the Titans of Illinois Wesleyan university here Thursday afternoon, the old word machine will help out with another blast of ballyhoo.

"I wouldn't use that word 'ballyhoo' if I were you," says X, which is the typewriter beginning to talk.

"If I can think of a better word, I'll buy you a new ribbon for Christmass," replies Y, who is the correspondent speaking.

"Well, let's get going," X suggests. "The readers will have a name for it."

"Okay," Y agrees. "The main thing is to inform the readers of this newspaper that Tech will tackle the Titans of Bloomington, Ill., here at 2 p.m. on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. What else would they like to know? Would they like to know which team is going to win?"

"Sure, you've got to tell 'em that by all means," X puts in. "There are lots of people, you know, who depend upon such fellows as us for their guidance. It helps them place their better judgment. And furthermore, it helps the players of both teams to know beforehand just what is going to happen."

"Well, I think the Techmen ought to win by—"

"By the skin of their teeth, if any," the typewriter interrupts. "You remember that tied game with Louisiana college here last Friday, which Tech lost, 6-6."

"That's easy. The Pineville Wildcats outplayed the Bulldogs. Your contemporary, Ralph Brewer of Alexandria, saw the game with his own eyes and said so with his own tongue, in effect."

"Alright, alright," Y concedes. "But let's see what Illinois Wesleyan has been doing. For one thing, they were defeated by Centenary college at Shreveport, 20-6, early this season. So, if Tech only ties the Titans, that would mean that Centenary is 14 points better than Tech."

"Of course," X ejaculates, "you wouldn't be admitting that Centenary is 14 points better than Tech, would you?"

"Oh, no, not I," the correspondent concurs. "If I did my rations would be cut off at sunrise and thrown to the proverbial early bird. But if the Bulldogs are as good as the Centenary Gentlemen, why should Tech beat the Titans, too?"

"Maybe the Techmen will win—I'm not saying they won't," X hedges. "But go on with the story. Quote some of that stuff you just received from the Illinois Wesleyan publicity man."

"Certainly. Here's some of it: 'Wesleyan's eleven has been steadily improving game by game, and definitely proved their versatility by their decisive win over the DeKalb Teachers, one of the strongest teams in their league. . . . Public opinion seems to give the Titans an even chance of making a successful second invasion of the sunny southland, when the Green and White men travel to Louisiana Tech. . . . The Titans are going to Ruston with the express purpose of avenging the outcome of their previous visit in Louisiana, at Shreveport. . . . Illinois Wesleyan's lone defeat this season was at the hands of Centenary, and the Illinois boys feel that the heat made them look poor that day. . . . At Ruston they hope to find the weather a bit cooler. . . . The Illinois Wesleyan gridders for years have been powerful in Illinois intercollegiate athletics. . . .'"

"Now, what are you going to say?" X queries.

"Well, I hesitate," Y replies. "Maybe we had better not say."

"You'd better tell the readers you don't know who is going to win. Just tell 'em to come and see," were the last words of the typewriter, as the black hood went over its head.

YALE NOSES OUT HARVARD, 14 TO 13

Crimson Stages Great Rally That Falls Only One Point Short Of Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Yale rode the surging tide of football fortune to victory over Harvard today, 14 to 13, as the luck of Larry Kelley, amazing Eli captain, held good to the end of his gridiron career.

Trailing by 14 points at half-time after Kelley combined with the great Clint Frank to put on a sensational second-period scoring show, Harvard came within a few feet of tying the score with a spectacular last-half comeback.

The game developed a battle that had a crowd of 58,000 in wild excitement, with the outcome determined by the thin margin of Fullback Vernon Struck's failure to placekick the extra point after Harvard's second touchdown.

The kicker, rushed by the furious Elis under Kelley's leadership, missed the uprights by a scant yard or two, ending a gallant rally that saw Harvard parade 80 yards to their first score, and miss their opportunity to tally on a 21-yard pass tossed by Art Oakes to George Ford, the hero of the Crimson's comeback.

Meeting for the second time this year, the Ouachita Parish High school freshman team and the Bonita High school eleven battled to a 6-6 tie at Brown field here yesterday afternoon, Bonita won the first game, 19 to 0.

Ouachita scored soon after the opening kickoff when Thomas Walker returned a Bonita punt 35 yards for a touchdown. Bonita scored in the third quarter on a long pass. Neither team was able to convert the extra point.

Neither team showed a great deal in the way of offense but both played fine defensive games. Coach George Riser used two teams during the game, with Edgar, Funderburk, Corser an Bourgeois, all linemen, showing up to good advantage.

Coach Riser said last night that he was attempting to schedule another game for his Junior Lions. He said he hoped to book a game with the Delhi High school second team.

BOTH COME FROM BEHIND TO WHIP WOOD, MEHLHORN

Shute Favorite In Final Match With Long-Hitting Californian

By Bob Cavagnaro

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—James Wilfred Stevenson Thomson, the husky blasting blond with the terracotta complexion, and Densmore Shute, who has a contrastingly ashen appearance, today shot their way into the finals of the Professional Golfers' association championship.

With styles as different as their appearances, Thomson, the acknowledged longest hitter in the game, and Shute, on the short side off the tees but a deadly player about the greens, staged remarkable Horatio Alger comebacks to have a chance at the crown relinquished earlier in the week by Johnny Revolta of Chicago.

Thomson, matched against his closest rival in the matter of long distance hitting, rallied from a three-hole deficit through the 14th in the morning round to eliminate husky Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., 4 and 3, while Shute, having stretches of hot and cold golf, came from behind after being two down at the 31st to vanquish "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the 38-year-old Louisville veteran, one up on the 36th green.

Thus the 36-hole match for the title tomorrow will be between a hitter and a fellow who is hard to match on short shots and putting.

Discounting past performances which gave Shute the edge by virtue of his victory in the British Open championship three years ago and his advance to the finals of the 1931 P. G. A. final as against Thomson's victory in the Australian Open last year, Denny, so far, is leading Jimmy for shot making honors this week.

Thomson started off quoted variously at from seven to ten to one by local book makers, while Denny, held at 12 to 1, was almost overlooked in the early betting. The final will start at 10 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Thomson clearly earned his victory today over Wood, but he was helped no little by the Jersey giant's collapse after the 14th hole when he was leading three up. Wood, shooting the first six holes in four under 4s, rushed to a three hole lead, going out in 33 to Thomson's 37. They halved the first five incoming holes in par, and then things began to happen to Wood.

He drove into a trap at the 204-yard 15th and left himself a 12-foot putt which he missed by two feet after exploding weakly. They halved the 16th in 5s, and then Wood overshot the short 17th green with his tee shot and lost it with a bogey 4. They halved the 18th and Wood went to lunch one up.

Jimmy won the 19th and they halved the 20th and 21st. Then Jimmy snared birdie 4s on the next two and shot pars on the 24th and 25th to become four up. Thomson halved the 26th and lost the 27th but there wasn't much to the final nine, or, to be exact, the last six holes. The first three were halved in par. Craig hooked his drive into the rough behind a hummock, played a safety shot and lost the 31st. And that was the ball game as they halved the next two.

The new pendulum putter that was Mehlhorn's most reliable weapon in previous rounds, betrayed him repeatedly and he was one down to Shute after the first nine when he easily might have been one up. It let him down on the second nine, where he also missed the green on three approaches and stood three down at the end of the morning round.

Bill's putter behaved on the third nine, and, taking only 12 putts, he went out in 34, two under par, to lead one up, as Shute faltered on the greens. A hooked drive into the rough cost Denny the 29th, but Bill was short on his approach at the 31st and he was only one up again. However, Denny approached short at the 32nd and Mehlhorn now was two up again.

Shute won the short 33rd and the next hole with a birdie four to square the match. Denny chipped stiff from just off the green to win the 36th and the match, as Bill took a bogey 5.

JENA, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—The Jena High school Giants will play their final game of the season Thanksgiving day with the Block High Bears of Jonesville. In this tilt, the Giants will be at their full strength.

They will have Odell "Stinky" Davis and Lavell Ford on the ends. Davis has been troubled with a bad ankle in the past few games but is completely recovered now. Voyle Floyd, 170 pounds, and Allen Fortson, 153, will hold down the tackle positions. Jones Bradford, 154-pound mainstay in the line, and John White, 125, will play guards. James Smith, 165, will play center and is completely recovered from an ankle injury suffered in the recent Olla game.

In the backfield will be Captain Woodie Doshier, 160 pounds of dashing, dazzling and disillusioning power, at quarterback. Doshier is at his best of the season although he played the full Olla game on his crippled knee. At halfbacks will be G. D. Anders, 160 pound kicker and passer, and Wild Bill Hodges, line smashing 135 pounder, who scored both touchdowns against Olla recently. At fullback will be Fred "Chili" Lees, 170 pounds, who has been out for the past two weeks with a back injury.

Here's the latest aerial view of the Louisiana State university stadium, showing the huge end section completed this week by the works progress administration. The new section, seating 26,000 persons, will more than double the capacity of the great horseshoe. The stadium will be dedicated 30 minutes before the kick-off for the L. S. U.-Tulane game, with Administrator Harry L. Hopkins of the WPA, United States Senator John H. Overton, Governor Richard W. Leche, Dr. James M. Smith, president of the university, and James H. Crutcher, state WPA administrator, addressing the 50,000 fans who will attend.

BIFF JONES ENDS COACHING CAREER

Former L. S. U. Mentor Directs Oklahoma In Last Football Game

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—With obvious regret, Major Lawrence McCeney (Biff) Jones closed out a highly successful nine-year career as a football coach tonight to return to full time army duty.

His University of Oklahoma Sooners presented him with a 35 to 13 victory over Oklahoma A. and M. in their final game of the year.

The major's next assignment will be at the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth next year. After that, new army regulations will prevent his taking a coaching job that will interfere with service duties.

"How does it feel to have finished up the last game?" Jones was asked as he walked among his charges after the game, pounding each of them on the back.

"Well, to tell the truth, I haven't had much time to think about that yet," he said.

Later, in the dressing room, he confided, "I hate to give it up."

He revealed that he had turned down an assignment to the Leavenworth school three years ago.

"As much as I hate to give up football," he said, "I can't decline this appointment a second time."

He said he would stay in Norman until June.

During his four years at West Point, three at Louisiana State university and two at Oklahoma, Jones' teams have won 59 games, tied 10 and lost only 19 for a total of 88. They have scored 1,631 points while holding opponents to 568.

The season just closed has been his poorest, with only three victories.

DUQUESNE UPSETS MARQUETTE, 13 TO 0

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The destroying Dukes of little Duquesne university crushed unbeaten Marquette into submission, 13 to 0, in a thrill-filled gridiron spectacle staged before 27,000 fans today, the second time this year the Nightriders have shattered the Rose Bowl aspirations of a major opponent.

Hard running backs behind a rugged line that rushed Marquette's vaunted passing attack into oblivion wrote a sequel to Duquesne's earlier 7-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Big Boyd Brumbaugh tossed a 32-yard pass to End Ernest Hefferle late in the first period today and plunged two yards across the goal line in the final chapter to account for the two touchdowns.

TIGERS PREPARE TO MEET MINDEN ON THANKSGIVING

Neville Plays Wave Here Unless Tilt Is Cancelled For Bolton Game

The Neville High school Tigers conclude their 1936 football compaign here Thanksgiving day against the strong Minden High school eleven at Brown field, unless the tilt is cancelled to permit Neville to meet Bolton in a class A play-off game.

The Bengals enjoyed a rest last week when they lagged through an open date, but Coach Percy Brown will have his charges hitting the high spots again in workouts tomorrow and Tuesday in preparation for the game. For the first time since the opening game of the season, every member of the Tiger squad is expected to be in good shape for the game.

Minden's eleven has piled up a similar record to that of the Bengals during the fall campaign, and a closely fought battle is predicted.

Neville finished its conference campaign without a defeat, and their title chances were not marred by Ruston, who held them to a 6 to 6 tie. The Tigers' schedule also included five intersectional games, other than the one to be played Thursday, and the Bengals will have to wallop Minden to break even in their non-conference battles. A decision on the Neville-Bolton game is expected today.

In conference games, the locals beat Bastrop, 26 to 0; Rayville, 27 to 6; and Oak Grove, 34 to 0. Intersectional skirmishes resulted in a beating, 25 to 0, by Camden, Ark; a 13 to 6 loss to Lake Charles; a victory over Winnfield, 19 to 0; a loss to Haynesville, 20 to 0; and a win from Greenville, Miss., 6 to 0.

Although the locals had two weeks to wait for another engagement, Coach Brown started to work on his charges as usual last Monday and ran them through mild scrimmage sessions most of the week. Ray Spicer, halfback, who suffered a fractured arm in the Haynesville game, is back at his post and may be able to go full time if needed Thursday.

"Red" Brown, the Bengals' ace ball lugger, Jimmy Gray, halfback, and Andy Pappas, fullback, will round out the backfield. Neither of them has failed to appear in the Neville line-up this season.

Notre Dame Knocks Northwestern For Loop

LOOK OUT FOR DIXIE

If yesterday's football developments on the eastern front didn't put a southern team in the Rose Bowl, then somebody on the Pacific coast is getting ready to pull a few shenanigans. Barring a couple of upsets this week, Louisiana State or Alabama looks like a leadpipe cinch to get the call.

Georgia rose to the occasion yesterday and paved the way for Dixie. By battling the apparently over-rated Fordham Rams to a 7-7 deadlock, the Bulldogs gallantly took care of the interests of L. S. U. and 'Bama. All signs pointed to a Rose Bowl invitation for Fordham before the Georgians took the Rams by the horns and tossed 'em out of the picture.

Marquette was bumped by Duquesne, 13 to 0, and ruined what little consideration the Golden Avalanche was getting out California way.

The third "upset" of the day toppled Northwestern from the perch the Wildcats had been occupying since they beat Minnesota and incidentally put the Gophers back where they belong—at the top of the heap. Notre Dame's decisive victory over Northwestern yesterday proved just what everybody has been saying—that a combination of breaks and mud enabled the Wildcats to beat the Gophers on an "off day."

Getting back to the Rose Bowl situation, no team in the east, north or southwest has a claim as strong as Louisiana State's or Alabama's and the Tigers should rate a step or two ahead of the Tide because of the strenuous schedule Coach Bernie Moore's charges have played this year.

In the east, Fordham was listed as the top team, and now the Rams have two ties marked up against them. There's no team in the middle west, outside of the Big Ten, that rates any consideration now. And the Big Ten is out, because of a conference ruling prohibiting post-season games. In the Big Six, Nebraska thought a couple of weeks ago that they might get a nibble, but Pitt took care of that last week-end. The Southwest conference race has become a topsy-turvy affair, with no team boasting a record to gain consideration.

From where we're sitting, it looks like it's strictly an L. S. U.—Alabama battle for the bid. Each has a tie against it, but even with that, the record of each stacks up much better than that of any other team which has been mentioned as Rose Bowl material.

BIERMAN'S RULES

Bernie Bierman, who ought to know, has laid down twelve fundamental rules upon which to build a successful football team. Having used these rules in turning out great grid teams at Minnesota and Tulane, Bierman is well qualified to tell the world, as he does in the current issue of Collier's, just how it should be done.

Bierman's system, he says, is based on the fact that in his section of the country the lads have a potential ability to block powerfully, and so he has emphasized the running game ever since he went to Minneapolis in 1932.

He says his twelve rules are flexible enough to be adapted to any style of attack, circumstances alone listing them behind the running game which he favors for Minnesota. He sets them down this way:

1. No boy will play good football unless he enjoys the game and gives his best on every play.
2. To play his best, a boy must be in good physical condition and have adequate rest before a game.
3. A boy who places personal glory and success above the best interests of the team is a liability rather than an asset.
4. A large, fairly well-developed squad is more desirable than a squad composed of a few stars and a group of mediocre, undeveloped talent.
5. A single wingback formation with appropriate and seasonal variations seems most desirable for our offense needs.
6. We like to shift, but we can and have played from a set formation.
7. We believe in a rather large number of plays and sometimes put in special plays for certain opponents.
8. We believe that certain fundamentals such as blocking, charging, tackling and ball carrying, to mention only a few, are more important than plays themselves.
9. We lean to an aggressive six-man line on defense.
10. We favor a calm, determined team, rather than one keyed up to a hysterical pitch for a game.
11. Speed is an essential component of a sound style of play.
12. Players develop through hard work over a comparatively long period rather than from short intensive drives during the heat of a fall campaign.

"The last maxim," says Coach Bierman, "probably is the heart of major football today, for despite the talk of 'good old days' the game has become infinitely more exacting and precise than it was ten or fifteen years ago. Despite the storybooks, there is no such thing any more as the flash who drives through for the winning touchdown in the first game he enters. Every lad the spectators see successive Saturdays during the season is the product of weeks and months of rigid, painstaking training.

"The football taught by most coaches has the grace of flexibility and can be attuned to the favored type of play in certain localities, the nature of the material at hand, and the foibles and fashions of the day. Under another set of circumstances and blessed with a different type of material, I'd probably be stressing the forward pass or the lateral."

Writing somewhat prophetically of the current season, Bierman says that "there are too many big guns being fired in the fast company of the Western conference to avoid being hit now and then. I'll continue concentrating on the game coming next and let championships and winning streaks take care of themselves."

SPORTS FODDER

Three open tournaments, topped by the Miami Biltmore $10,000 Open, December 4-7, remaining on the professional golfers' 1936 schedule will bring the total prize money to $148,945, an increase of $14,245 over a year ago. Other events are the Augusta Open, November 27-29, and the Nassau Open, December 12-14.

College football authorities, tired of rebuilding new goal posts after every important game, are installing steel ones which can be dismantled in five seconds after the final whistle, thus cheating fans of the honor.

San Francisco, looking forward to a big 1939 celebration, is bidding for the National A. A. U. championships, including track and field.

Fred Perry has notified tennis officials in the Miami area he will play in the professional tournament to be played there this winter.

Barbed wire fences are placed around the bleacher sections in Venezuela to keep fight fans from crashing the high-priced seats, and a powder is sprinkled over invading boxers by way of jinxing them.

Bill Dineen, the American league umpire, would make a great kidnapper. He can carry 19 baseballs in his pockets.

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, owner of the Milky Way farm, will replace Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt this year as the leading money-winning owner, marking the second time in three years a woman has won the distinction. Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane had the honor in 1934.

A move is afoot to rub out the pass interference rule in football, giving the defense an opportunity to break up a forward by any means short of deliberate roughing.

Wiffy Cox, training his guns for the big dough along the winter trail, said "I cleared $7,000 in '31, but the tour cost me $3,000 last year and my prizes were $1,800." With any luck this season Wiffy should be able to pass his former high.

Shipping Sam Byrd to Rochester appears to be the start of a deal that will send Spud Davis from the Cards to the Reds.

At 16, Francis Leary of Manchester (Conn.) High school, has done the mile in 4:33.

Every club in the National league, with the exception of the Dodgers and the Cards, has been mentioned as interested in a deal for Wally Berger of the Bees, and they just haven't gotten around to it yet.

The first 18 holes of the finals will be played this afternoon, with the second 18 slated for Monday afternoon.

Mrs. E. S. Girault defeated Miss Kent Millsaps, 2 and 1.

Mrs. A. B. Clarkson defeated Mrs. C. W. Wallace, 4 and 3.

Pairings for the consolation round in the women's tournament were announced yesterday by Winnie Cole, Lakeside pro. Mrs. Henry Biedenharn meets Mrs. Joe Washburn, Mrs. F. F. Millsaps plays Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mrs. A. T. Shotwell meets Mrs. Marvyn Johnson and Mrs. C. C. Boardman meets Mrs. W. W. Kellogg.

A sweepstakes tournament was held at the Lakeside club yesterday, with W. L. James and Guy Campbell tying for low net score. James posted an 89, which with an 18 handicap, gave him a net 71, the same net Campbell made with his gross 91 and 20 handicap.

BROWNING GETS ACE AT M'GUIRE COURSE

Van Browning, who took up golf only a year ago, realized every golfer's fondest dream yesterday when he made a hole-in-one.

Using a No. 4 iron, Browning sent his tee shot rolling into the cup of the 133-yard No. 17 hole at the McGuire Park Golf club. The ball flew straight as an arrow for the green and headed straight for the cup. The ace helped Browning score an 86 for the 18 holes.

Playing with the sure-shot artist were J. C. Jordan and Robert Broomfield.

The Bayou Tigers, thinking of their old foe, Tulane, whom they meet next week, and of the Rose Bowl, scored almost at will over the S. L. I. Bulldogs. The last quarter was cut by six minutes by mutual consent.

GOOD NEWS!

About 4,000 L. S. U. students yelled and cheered themselves hoarse, and yelled like madmen when the score was announced, considering that the score dropped Fordham down in the list of Rose Bowl eligibles since L. S. U. beat Georgia 47-7 and raised Louisiana State's Pasadena hopes higher.

Louisiana State was swamping Southwestern Louisiana institute in a "breather" game when the announcement came.

Enthusiasm reached an even greater height later when Duquesne's scores on Marquette blared out of the stadium loudspeakers.

Coach Bernie Moore of L. S. U. used practically every man he had, but the scoring continued with the third stringers scoring three touchdowns.

Louisiana State scored on its first play when Morton raced 15 through the line and over the goal. He, Coffee, Milner and Tinsley crossed the goal in the first period.

Crass, sub for Coffee, Rohm, sub for Milner, Reed, sub for Morton, and Mihalich each scored in the second.

Milner, Morton, Reed and Walker, sub for Morton, tallied in the third, and Johnson, sub for Coffee, and Walker, sub for Milner, added two more touchdowns in the shortened fourth.

Tinsley, Rohm, Mihalic and Walker scored on passes.

HORSE WINS RACE AFTER ATTEMPT AT 'SPONGING'

The gelding defeated Must Be by one and a half lengths in the second running of the $1,500 added race for all ages over a mile and a sixteenth. Reminding was third by a nose.

AUBURN WALLOPS LOYOLA, 44 TO 0

Plainsmen Roll Up Impressive Victory Over Wolves At Home-Coming

A home-coming day crowd of 5,000 witnessed the lop-sided victory, in which the Auburn reserves displayed power equal to the regulars. The reserves counted three touchdowns in the first half, and two more in the final quarter, the regulars accounting for two during the third period.

Alert play by the Auburn line completely bottled up Loyola's backs. Two scoring threats were turned back by the victors. One followed a short kick, and the other a fumble on Auburn's 13.

Blake scampered 20 yards for the first marker, following a short kick, and a 45-yard dash off tackle by Tipper set the stage for the second. Tipper was dropped on the Loyola 18, but Blake passed to Williams in the end zone a few plays later.

Ralph O'Gwynne, third string halfback, ran 90 yards for the third score on the first play after he entered the contest.

Auburn's regulars scored in eight plays after going on the field to start the second half. Hitchcock featured the drive with a 45 yard run around his right end, and Fenton went over from the 5, and kicked the extra point.

Gilbert, star Plainsman center, intercepted a Loyola pass on his 5 and ran it back to Loyola's 45. Hitchcock shot a long pass to Eaves, who took the ball on the 5 and ran across to score.

Pelham Sitz, sub fullback, ripped through the line for 45 yards as the final period opened, and went over from the 4 a few plays later.

Loyola's weary ranks were unable to check fresh Auburn third-stringers, and O'Gwynne set the stage for another touchdown with a 30 slash through the line. Kelly scored from the six yard line.

RAMBLERS TAME WILDCATS, 26-6 BEFORE 56,000

Irish Shove Big Ten Champs From Grid Pinnacle In Touchdown Parade

They tamed, beat and caged the mighty Wildcats of Northwestern by the astonishing score of 26 to 6, ending a college football prowl that had not been halted through rain and sunshine for seven straight games, a raid that found them even feasting on the national championship dream of mighty Minnesota.

Notre Dame astonished a capacity crowd of 56,000 thrilled spectators this blustery November afternoon by whipping the champions of the Western conference in one of the biggest upsets of the season. The pop-eyed spectators left the Notre Dame stadium wondering which was now the ranking No. 1 football team of the nation. They knew it was no longer Northwestern.

Notre Dame took advantage of every opportunity to outmaneuver the fagged out, hitherto unbeaten Wildcats to pile up their victory. The size of the score just about indicates the difference between the two teams.

Four touchdowns were scored by Notre Dame, one in each period, before the badly whipped Wildcats found themselves long enough to stage a 77-yard march in the fourth to register their only score.

The hero of Notre Dame's triumph was a 21-year-old youngster, Bob Wilke of Hamilton, O., playing left halfback. In the first period, Wilke bounced away on a 30-yard dash that gave Notre Dame its first score, and in the second he got away on an even more dazzling run, this one for 34 yards for the second touchdown.

In the third it was Wilkie's quick kick which caught Northwestern napping and led to the most disastrous fumble of the afternoon. Wilke's quick punt sailed far over the head of Don Heap, flashy Northwestern halfback. For an instant he stood wondering what to do, then he tried to retrieve the bouncing ball, barely touched it, when Joe O'Neill came tearing along to recover it for Notre Dame on Northwestern's 3. Larry Danbom, Notre Dame fullback, crashed over for the touchdown.

GEORGIA'S VICTORY FEATURES PLAY OF CONFERENCE TEAMS

(By Associated Press)

Fordham's renowned "seven blocks of granite" crumbled before the savage clawing of an underdog Georgia Bulldog Saturday when the southerners battled the Rams to a 7-7 deadlock and eliminated them unceremoniously from the Rose Bowl picture.

Georgia held the highly-touted New Yorkers to a single touchdown after themselves smashing over a score on the Ram's second team before 35,000 awe stricken spectators in the Polo Grounds. Fordham, heretofore was undefeated and tied only by Pittsburgh.

Louisiana State students, forgetting for the moment the carnage of their team's lopsided victory, cheered themselves hoarse over Georgia's tie. With Fordham out of the running they figured the Bayou Tigers had a brighter chance to go to Pasadena on New Year's day.

"Hooray for Georgia and Dixie," the stocky governor, himself a former star on the Crimson Tide, wired the Georgia team. Then he commented:

"That ought to end any doubt about Alabama going to the Rose Bowl."

Alabama, tied by Tennessee, a conference member, was idle today. Louisiana, undefeated in the conference, was tied early in the season by Texas. The Tide's final clash is against Vanderbilt Thanksgiving day and L. S. U. ends its regular season against Tulane next Saturday.

The razzle dazzling Georgia Tech Engineers worked an assortment of pigskin magic to whip Florida 38 to 14. Tulane swamped Sewanee 53 to 6 and Mississippi State trounced Mississippi 26 to 6.

Greenies Score At Will To Win 'Breather' Before L. S. U. Battle

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Filling the air with laterals and forwards, Tulane scalped Sewanee's helpless Tigers, 53 to 6, today before a crowd of 10,000.

Hek Clark's little purple and white team fought gallantly but was utterly unable to cope with the Wave's sharpshooters and the big Green line.

It was apparent after the first five minutes that Tulane could win about as it pleased and "Red" Dawson took advantage of the situation to save his regulars for next week's all-important clash with Louisiana State as well as get a fresh line on his reserves.

Tulane started with a rush, pushing over two touchdowns in the opening period and two more in the second. Little Sewanee braced in the third period after scoring their lone tally just before the half ended, and held the Dawsonmen scoreless. Tulane opened up again in the final quarter for four more markers.

Jerry Friederichs, reserve end, accounted for two of the Wave's eight touchdowns with circus catches of long passes. Captain Bill Moss booted five points after touchdown and played a great game in the line.

Sewanee's touchdown came after a fumble and a 15-yard penalty gave the Tigers the ball on Tulane's 35. Stanphill got 14 around right end and Cochrane passed to Keiser over the goal line.

KELLEY FINISHES STELLAR CAREER

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Larry Kelley, Yale's brilliant football captain, wanted to be "alone" tonight in his greatest hour of triumph.

"I feel sort of funny," said the Williamsport, Pa., youth, "I really can't explain it. Here I have dreamed about this, about my team beating Harvard to win the Big Three title, about leading a Yale team through a successful season, and then when it happens, it seems like a dream.

"I guess I ought to go off somewhere and be by myself, alone. I want to find out if I'm awake. And I sort of feel sad to think it's all over, the day I dreamed about for four years."

But, Kelley, puffing on his first cigarette since last September in the Yale dressing room, wasn't allowed to be "alone."

For one thing, Dick Harlow, Harvard coach, sought the big Yale end out and doffing his hat, said:

"God bless you Larry. You were great. I'll love you always."

Then Ducky Pond, his coach, finally broke away from a crowd of jubilant alumni to tell his brilliant captain how "sorry" he was to see him go, and added:

"Now that the season is over, I can tell you to your face, you are the greatest end I ever saw."

Usually ready with a wisecrack to meet such situations, Kelley merely mumbled:

"Gee, I'm sorry my career is over."

The Yale leader wanted it definitely known he has played his last football game, and isn't interested at all in turning professional.

By scoring a touchdown, Kelley completed three years of play against the Crimson and Princeton during which he has tallied at least once in each contest.

BULLDOGS BLAST RAMS' CHANCES FOR ROSE BOWL

On this November afternoon, there came out of the southland an underrated and much kicked-around Georgia team to shatter Fordham's rasiest dream in football history by holding the renowned Rams, their "seven blocks of granite" and all, to a 7 to 7 tie before an amazed throng of 35,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds.

Coach Jimmy Crowley, a master mind who seldom makes a mistake, unwittingly gave the Bulldogs their chance to blast the Ram dream. Keen to save his first-string team in the gruelling battle that sent player after player to the sidelines, Crowley started the third period with his reserves and the Georgians seized their chance. Within three minutes, they rushed over their touchdown, added the extra point and then held the infuriated Rams to a tie.

The breaks came quickly in that thrill-packed third quarter. With the seconds on the field, Fordham took the kick-off but, on the third play, Warren Mulrey fumbled and Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia center, pounced on the leather on the Ram 20. Halted on two line rushes, Maurice Green faded back 10 yards and sailed a high pass to Otis Maffett who hauled it down for a beautiful catch in the Ram end zone for a touchdown. Lewis Young added the extra point with a placement.

As the spectators went wild the first-string Fordhams rushed back on the field to tie the score within five minutes.

With its "seven blocks of granite" opening big gaps in the Georgia line and with Andy Palau, Al Gurske, Frank Mautte and big Joe Dulkie carrying the hod and passing the boys from Dixie dizzy, the Rams went 70 yards for their score, a 30-yard pass from Palau to Mautte putting the ball on the Georgia two-yard line from where Dulkie took it over on two withering blasts at the enemy line. As the spectators held their breath, Palau's kick from placement to tie the score barely skimmed inside the uprights.

It looked like certain curtains for Georgia but hanging on like a bull terrier in the face of defeat, the Georgians halted one Ram threat on their 22 as Maffett tackled Palau viciously and forced him to drop the ball, which was scooped up by Asa Candler on his own 38 to end the rally. Fordham's last hope vanished just before the game ended when Alf Anderson, bruised and battered all afternoon, raced in to intercept Palau's pass on Georgia's 39.

The line-up and summary:

Georgia.	Pos.	Fordham.

RABBIT'S FOOT WORKS

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A rabbit's foot which "helped" Forrest (Spec) Towns become the world's champion high hurdler tonight was credited by the slim Georgian with the 7-7 tie by which his Alma Mater smashed Fordham's Rose Bowl hopes in New York today.

Walter Podolak, Champion Weight Lifter, Signed For Semi-Final

Two newcomers to Roosevelt stadium, Jim Clinkstock, giant Indian who has gained national prominence in the wrestling wars, and Walter Podolak, Polish strong man who won the world's weight lifting championship before turning his brawn to the mat game, will appear on the stadium's weekly mat card Tuesday, night. Promoter Phil Lisotta announced last night.

Clinkstock will appear in the main event with Dan O'Connor, rugged Irish grappler from Boston, Mass. Podolak will perform in the semi-final against an opponent who is yet to be signed. Promoter Lisotta last night had virtually completed negotiations for signing the opponent but would make no announcement until he had the grappler's name on the dotted line.

Clinkstock for years has slashed a big path for himself through the ranks of the mat warriors. A hulking mountain of man, six feet and six inches in height and weighing 252 pounds, he has in 15 years of wrestling met the best mat performers in the world. He is still going strong and is animated by a strong determination to become champion.

A man whose primeval instincts in the ring have placed him nearly always in the role of villain, Clinkstock will meet in O'Connor a clever grappler who probably will depend on speed and science in the battle.

The big Indian was born and reared in Oklahoma. He matured early and at the age of 16 years was a powerful youth, already a man beyond his years. He could pin to the ground any youth or man who dared wrestle him. In the following year he actively took up wrestling as a profession. He makes his residence now at Houston, Tex.

Podolak, the Polish strong man, is well known to amateur weight lifters and physical culture enthusiasts. Pictures of him have appeared in many strength magazines, as well as publications of bar bell dealers. Podolak, although he retired from weight lifting competition several years ago, still holds the world's record for the two-handed lift—660 pounds. Only 26 years of age at this time, he participated in the 1932 Olympics, at the age of 22 years, against the best weight lifters in the world and made his way into the finals, where he was eliminated by veteran lifters.

Podolak's physical measurements at this time were not readily available last night. However, about two years ago he had a chest measurement of 50 inches as compared with a waist measurement of 30 inches. These measurements are characteristic of weight lifters. Just how Podolak uses his great strength to best advantage, just what tricks he has developed in the mat wars to best suit his physique and limb leverage, should present an interesting evening to the fans Tuesday night. He is generally a scientific performer.

The former weight lifter is five feet, eight and one-half inches in height. He weighs 220 pounds. His favorite hold is a full Nelson and a toe hold.

His ambition is to establish himself in the physical culture business after his wrestling years are finished.

Promoter Lisotta, while withholding the identity of the wrestler whom he hoped to sign as Podolak's opponent, divulged that the grappler is strictly a scientific performer. Either this wrestler, or another who is strictly a scientific grappler, will oppose Podolak. This will give the fans a scientifically waged semi-final bout, and a main event that is certain to be a rough and hectic thriller—because big Jim Clinkstock is one of the main eventers.

ROSE BOWL CHEER SPILLS OVER SOUTH

(By Associated Press)

Rose Bowl cheer spilled over the deep southland today as Georgia's Bulldog, a trampled pup in its own backyard, upset mighty Fordham with a 7-7 tie and little Duquesne erased Marquette's perfect record, 13-0.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Baton Rouge, La., the double shock to eastern gridiron followers was cheered long and lustily. In these respective towns are located the University of Alabama and Louisiana State university—the south's major unbeaten elevens and definitely Rose Bowl timber.

Fordham previously had tied Pittsburgh, which still is given an outside chance for the Rose Bowl bid. Until today the Rams and the Marquette machine were considered by far the brightest bowl hopes of the east.

In Alabama the jubilation was so keenly felt that Governor Bibb Graves wired the Georgia team from Montgomery, "Hooray for Georgia and Dixie." Turning to his office force the chief executive added: "And that ought to end any doubt about Alabama going to Rose Bowl."

Alabama's Crimson Tide has been a Rose Bowl participant for four times, coming back the victor thrice and once with a tie.

This year's team has displayed brilliance and power in smothering all rivals except Tennessee's Volunteers of the Southeastern conference, which fought the Tide to a scoreless deadlock.

Louisiana State has been tied by the University of Texas 6-6, but otherwise has a perfect record and only Tulane stands before the Tigers, Southeastern conference champions last year. Alabama plays Vanderbilt Thanksgiving.

Recent dispatches from Seattle said Alabama was favored in event the University of Washington is the west coast representative, because the northwesterners want to settle an old score with the Tide—the matter of a 20-19 lacing handed Washington in the Rose Bowl of 1926.

Mississippi State Scores Three Touchdowns In Final Period For Victory

By Jack Dale

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 21.—(AP)—With Mississippi's largest football crowd, 20,000, looking on, Mississippi State broke a 10-year jinx here today with a crushing 26 to 6 victory over its fiercest gridiron rival, the University of Mississippi.

Taking advantage of Rebel fumbles in the final period, and utilizing its vaunted passing attack to good advantage, State turned an otherwise nip-and-tuck battle into a rout in the final minutes of play, scoring three touchdowns to add to its early lead.

The Maroons' first touchdown, scored in the first five minutes of play, was sufficient for a victory, but the Sassemen piled it on in the final period by capitalizing on the breaks, Ole Miss fumbles and with a fine passing attack.

Charles "Peewee" Armstrong, State's ace passer, who has been nursing torn shoulder ligaments since the L. S. U. game, got in the game for one brief minute, the last in the final period, and covered himself with glory with a 55 yard pass to Cross to give State its fourth touchdown.

The day's score does not accurately gauge the closeness of the play, as the Oxford Rebels fought the Maroons on even terms for three quarters after getting off to a shaky start.

State chalked up 7 first downs to 5 for Ole Miss.

It was the first time Mississippi State had defeated Ole Miss since 1925. It's closest approach to victory was a 7-7 tie in 1929.

State wasted little time in scoring. Pickle punted out of bounds to the Ole Miss 4, and Peters kicked back weakly to the 34. Hight drew back his strong right arm and passed 18 yards to Gelatka to put the oval on Ole Miss' 10. Hight then blasted through tackle to the 3, and Steadman plunged over for the score in two tries. Pickle kicked the extra point.

Ole Miss drew blood soon after the second half opened. Standing on the State 37, Baumstein passed 20 yards to Bernard, who dodged two tacklers and raced over the goal. And that was all for Ole Miss for the day.

A fumble by Ray Hapes gave State a scoring chance early in the final period, when Gelatka covered the bounding oval on the Rebel 16. A short pass, Ward to Pickle, with the elusive Ike shaking off two tacklers near the goal, netted a score.

A few minutes later, little Hapes fumbled on his 6, and Keenan recovered for State. Aided by an off-side penalty, Hardison bucked it over for the one.

In the dying minutes of the game, Armstrong went in at quarter for State, and on the first play, uncorked a 55 yard pass from his own 35, to Cross, who raced the remaining distance for the score.

The lineups:

Miss. State	Pos.	Ole Miss
Gelatka	LE	Poole
Lott	LT	Kinard
Moak	LG	Wilson
Price	C	Hutson
Reagh	RG	Breyer
Pittman	RT	Dickens
Keenan	RE	Jackson
Stubbs	QB	Baumstein
Hight	LH	Bernard
Pickle	RH	Peters
Steadman	FB	C. Hapes

Score by periods:

Mississippi	0	0	6	0	6
Miss. State	7	0	0	19	26

Scoring: Mississippi, touchdown, Bernard; Miss. State, Steadman, Pickle, Hardson (sub for Steadman), Cross (sub for Stubbs). Points after touchdown, Hardison 2 (place kicks).

TALLULAH AND RAYVILLE PLAY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Tallulah will play Rayville here Wednesday night at 7:30. The game has been moved up on account of the various games in the Class B play-off that will be played Thursday. Many Tallulah fans are anxious to see these games.

Tallulah came out of the Mangham game without any additional injuries, and should be at full strength for the Rayville game. Last year Tallulah beat Rayville 51 to 0, but the score this year is not expected to be anything like that. Rayville beat Mangham but not by as large a score as Tallulah did, but the Hornets will be after the Trojans' scalp. Coach Whatley reports several of his players are injured and may not be able to play in this game.

The Ouachita Parish High school Lions, contender for the northeast Louisiana Class A football title, will play their last regularly scheduled game away from home when they tangle with the powerful Pine Bluff, Ark., Zebras at Pine Bluff on Thanksgiving day.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes eased up on his boys a bit last week as they rested with an open date, but the Lion mentor is ready to shoot the works again tomorrow to have the locals in tip-top shape for their Arkansas invason.

The regular Ouachita lineup is expected to be back in shape for the battle for the first time this month. Wheeler Mitchell, powerful 195-pound guard, the veteran of the Lion forces, who was out three weeks because of illness, is expected to be in charge of his old post again Thursday, while W. B. Stewart, fullback, also out about three weeks with a leg injury, has been performing at his old job during the last few days.

In the Zebras, the Lion aggregation will be facing one of the most dazzling passing offensives of the season, according to reports from the Pine Bluff camp. An assortment of forwards, laterals and forward-laterals have made the Zebras one of the most dangerous opponents for foes this year and they are not expected to be an exception for Ouachita.

Coach Haynes is expected to drill his charges extensively on pass defense this week, along with the probability to grafting a few more tricks onto the present list of yard gainers employed by the Lions.

Although the Lions haven't gone in for any great amount of passing, or depending on an aerial attack to bring them victory, they have a capable group of performers who may be able to "fight fire with fire."

Paul Patterson, Alvin Fleming, Cason Mitchell, Clyde Roye and W. B. Stewart are all backfield regulars, and number one reserves, who are capable passers. All of them, along with Solly Mayer, halfback, and James Bates, Wright Sherrod and J. C. Black, ends, are good receivers. Every member of the backfield is a dependable ball carrier and, should a punting duel ensue, Roye, Cason Mitchell and Patterson, along with Floyd Vann, tackle, are good kickers.

HOWARD BEATS SOUTHERN TO RETAIN DIXIE CROWN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Howard Bulldogs smashed their traditional rivals, Birmingham-Southern, 13 to 0 here today before 11,000 fans to cinch their second straight Dixie conference championship.

Ray Christian, Bulldog fullback, ripped the Southern line to shreds, gaining 259 yards on 33 tries. Birmingham-Southern's lone first down came on a long pass near the end of the second period.

So completely did Howard's line bottle up their opponents that Birmingham-Southern's net gain rushing was three yards.

Score by periods:

Winning Golf

By Lawson Little

Several weeks ago I started an intermittent series of articles on how the snowbound golfer can keep in shape during the winter months when he is not able to get out onto the actual playing course.

In this article I am going to take up putting—and mainly putting on the living room rug.

I believe that every golfer living, at some time or other, has taken his favorite putter and put it to work on the rug in his house. Possibly he did not realize it, but he was doing a form of practice that is very helpful. As a general rule the leg of a chair or that of a small table makes a fine target for a few putts but, after ever so few, the player tires of not seeing a ball go into something. I frequently put an ordinary table glass on the floor and lay it down so that the top is facing me. This makes a sort of home-made cup, but in reality a very effective one. The opening or the top of the glass is only about half the size of a real hole, and this makes one use extra precautions. Then when the player gets onto a regular green he finds that the hole looks large to him because of his practice at such a small target.

The rug is surprisingly like a putting green in that it has a definite nap. If the ball is struck incorrectly it will not run true. In fact the rug is more sensitive than grass so this indoor practice gives one a good chance to learn his most common faults.

Just before I sailed for England in 1934 on the American Walker Cup team, I spent several weeks with my family at Cheyenne, Wyo. The golfing season was still a long way off so I improved my game as well as I could by practicing indoors and putting on the rug every evening after dinner. The result was amazing. Because the rug was so fast, the ball has to be stroked very delicately—and not hit. When I arrived in Britain and got on the fast St. Andrews greens, I found that the delicate stroke I was required to use in my home in Wyoming was the only one to use. The result was that I putted throughout my stay in Britain probably better than ever before.

There are several fundamentals in putting that can be mastered in the home just as well as on the course. These are:

1. The stance should be the same each time and for all putts. It is advisable for the player to adopt a stance that affords him the greatest feeling of confidence and the most comfort. It should put him in a solid, sturdy, but relaxed position.

2. Keeping in mind the stance the player should be sure that his head remains absolutely stationary during the putting stroke—this applies particularly to the shorter putts.

3. The ball should be played toward the left foot so that there will be a tendency to hit slightly upward on the ball. This will give the ball overspin and a true roll.

4. The putter head should be kept close on the ground on the back as well as the forward swings. In addition to keeping the club low, it should be brought back along the line of putt or slightly inside this line if anything; never outside the line of putt.

5. For the shorter putts, many players feel that the putter blade should remain closed, or rather, always exactly square to the line of play. I personally believe in this principle, but it is sometimes hard to master unless you have some one watching you, who can correct you.

6. Always strive for rhythm. The ball is going to be there when the club comes down to it so never hurry the putting stroke.

SOUTHERN WHIPS JARVIS, 74 TO 7

State Negro University Team Too Powerful For Texans At Brown Field

Unleashing a crushing attack of running plays and deceptive forward and lateral pass offensives, the Southern university Cats played their first game before a local crowd by swamping an outclassed team of Jarvis college Tigers, 74 to 7.

Jarvis, however, drew first blood by ripping through the Southern line just after the kickoff for a touchdown. The extra point was good.

On the kickoff, Southern's big end, Chapman, took the ball on his 40 and slipped through the Jarvis team behind great blocking for Southern's first touchdown. The extra point was made.

Although Jarvis put up a plucky fight, with Motherest and Johnson playing well on the defense and H. Walls gaining occasionally through the Southern forward wall, it was soon seen that the Texans were outclassed by the Gold and Blue.

"Cat" Guthrie, Southern's backfield ace, "Fats" Welcome, "Red" Alston and "Step" Walker were the best ground gainers for Southern.

Guthrie was not only a fine ball carrier but also a good blocker and passer. Alston proved to be an adept passer and threw several touchdown aerials. Walker turned in the longest scoring jaunt of the day when he cut through the Jarvis line for gains of 63 and 45 yards.

OUIMET'S GOLF

FRANCIS OUIMET

Each year the Professional Golfers association awards honors to the golfers, who average the lowest number of strokes in at least 40 rounds of competitive golf in qualified events each year. The affair is known as the Radix Cup contest and is comparable to the major league baseball batting and fielding averages.

As a matter of fact it covers a longer period of play than the baseball averages but by no means so much actual competition for the ball players are generally in there every day, trying to bat out base hits from the middle of April to the last of September. Golf tournaments are not so numerous that such a program can be followed by the pro golfers although, there is no doubt that a very large percentage of players would like nothing better than such an opportunity for continuous play.

Pressure On Leaders

The time remaining until the end of the year will see more pressure than ever put on the leaders at this point. MacDonald Smith, Harry Cooper, Ralph Guldahl, Henry Picard closely grouped for low at this writing will be watching their strokes more than ever, if such a thing is possible.

Macdonald Smith's average for instance is somewhere close to 71 strokes per round which is high class scoring over a period of 10 months. Harry Cooper's averages only slightly above this and includes over twice as many rounds as Smith's. It is hard to figure out how one or the other, of these two, has missed winning the National Open championship over a number of years of play but golf is 'an 'umbling game' and a great deal more difficult to figure out than most other sports.

The greatest number of rounds have been played by Ray Mangrum, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson. Their total on qualified rounds for the year played will be somewhere near the 100 mark, a program that keeps them constantly on the go.

Lawson Little entered the competition too late to total 40 rounds of play but his average to date is particularly impressive for a newcomer to the professional ranks.

In glancing over the list of leaders it would seem that the velvet stroking Macdonald Smith is the only veteran this year who has withstood the pressure of youth. Year after year the Carnoustie veteran plays a brand of golf that is the envy of all golfers. It is not yet too late for him to win one of the major open championships of the United States or England but the mental picture of past defeats is quite a hazard to overcome. No one will deny that Smith is one golfer who deserves an honor of this sort to pack away in his record of championships won. It would be a great thing for the game of golf if this could happen.

Gents Upset Favored Texas A. And M. Team In Football Thriller

The Gents' line on several occasions blocked Aggie punts and the backfield smeared pass after pass as the visitors tried desperately to break the jinx which has given them only two victories in their games with Centenary.

Centenary's score came in the second period when Stone heaved a pass to Hooper for a 33-yard gain. With the teams lined up on the Aggies' four yard line, Stokes came out of the line and with Huddleston holding the ball, kicked a field goal.

The Aggies' celebrated running attack failed to function but they worried the Gents with an aerial combination later in the game. They completed several long heaves but three times their advance was stopped by Centenary intercepting the ball.

The Gents took little chances after gaining their three point margin and resorted only to running plays, hanging to the ball until the fourth down. The Texans gambled recklessly and several times passed on the fourth down in a desperate effort to score.

LIONS PLAY CATS AND TIGERS MEET ALEXANDRIA TEAM

Ouachita, Neville, Bolton and Ruston high schools will enter the play-off series for the north Louisiana Class A football championship, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the district athletic committee. Ouachita will play Ruston and Neville will meet Bolton.

Ouachita and Bolton are undefeated in their conference, although both have been beaten by other Class A teams, while Neville and Ruston played to a 6-6 tie here a week ago, but otherwise have perfect records against conference opponents.

Ouachita and Ruston will meet in Monroe on Tuesday night, December 1. The date for the Neville-Bolton game had not been set late yesterday afternoon. Neville has a game scheduled with Minden for next Thursday afternoon but that game may be cancelled to allow the Tigers to play the Bears of Alexandria. The game will go to the city making the largest guarantee.

The championship must be decided by December 6 and if the Neville-Minden game is not cancelled, the winner of the Neville-Bolton tilt will be forced to play two games during the week of November 29. Ouachita or Ruston also will have to play two games during that week. The Lions have a game scheduled at Pine Bluff, Ark, for next Thursday and will fill the engagement, it was announced. If the Ouachita team defeats Ruston on November 1, the Lions must meet either Bolton or Neville on or before December 6.

The method of selecting opponents in the playoff series was by agreement of representatives of the four schools.

Although comparison of scores in previous games mean little when these four schools play, Bolton and Ouachita probably will be favorites to survive the preliminary games. Bolton was barely nosed out by Byrd of Shreveport, and Coach Guy Nesom is conceded to have a strong team at the Alexandria school. Neville, however, probably will be at full trength and it wouldn't be surprising if the Tigers pull an upset. Ouachita is thought to be stronger than Ruston, but the Lincoln parish Bearcats always battle their hardest against Monroe teams, as they showed in fighting Neville to a 6-6 tie.

R. L. Hargis, principal of Rayville high school, is chairman of the district championship committee and presided at yesterday's meeting. Other members of the committee who attended were Principal Glover of Winnsboro and Principal Luckey of Bastrop.

PRINCETON RALLIES TO TIE DARTMOUTH, 13 TO 13

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The badly tamed Princeton Tigers deserted the jungle for the air today, came from the rear and topped off a so-so football season by holding a highly favored Dartmouth team to a 13-13 tie.

The game ended the season for both teams before a crowd of 42,000.

Each team counted a touchdown in the second. Dartmouth forged into the lead with another in the third and then the Tigers put on their spurt to tie things up soon after the fourth got under way.

Yale Held To One-Point Victory And Princeton Ties Dartmouth

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish wrecked Northwestern's dream of an undefeated season in almost exactly the same way the Wildcats had done it to Notre Dame a year ago and provided the foundation for the weekly list of gridiron surprises today in the pre-Thanksgiving climax of the 1936 season.

The final score of 26-6 left no doubt as to the superiority of the "hot and cold" Notre Dame team for this particular afternoon over the Big Ten champions. It was no more surprising, however, than the feat of the Georgia Bulldogs in holding Fordham to a 7-7 tie; Yale's sensational 14-13 triumph over Harvard before 58,000 fans in the battle for the Big Three title; the scoreless tie between Holy Cross and little St. Anselm or Indiana's remarkable rally to tie Purdue at 20-20.

Instead of the rout that had been indicated by the first-half proceedings, Yale and Captain Larry Kelley had all it could do to hold off a Crimson rally and win by the margin of a missed point after touchdown. At the same time Dartmouth, pace-setter in the informal "ivy" league, waged a thrilling 13-13 draw with Princeton as each team had its turn at coming from behind.

Undefeated Fordham, one of the leading candidates for an invitation to the Rose Bowl, found its "seven blocks of granite" weren't enough to beat a scrappy Georgia team. The Bulldogs scored against the Fordham second stringers but the regulars could do no more than knot the count. That, apparently, marked Fordham's definite elimination from the Rose Bowl picture, leaving the field open for two southern teams, Alabama and Louisiana State, to argue it out for the job of representing the east. Alabama was idle today while L. S. U. tuned up its offense with a 93-0 victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

The western side of the Rose Bowl question remained open as Washington, conference leader and the favorite to get the nomination, deferred action until its annual scrap with Washington State Thanksgiving day. There were 80,000 fans on hand, however, to see California display an irresistible attack that defeated Stanford 20-0 in the renewal of their classic rivalry. Oregon State whipped Oregon 18-0 in another traditional scrap while Montana looked impressive in a 24-7 triumph over San Francisco.

Ohio State and Minnesota, who tied for the Western conference crown last season, wound up in a second-place tie as the curtain fell on the Big Ten campaign. The Buckeyes trimmed their old rivals, Michigan's Wolverines, 21-0, while Minnesota overcame a surprisingly sturdy Wisconsin defense to win 24-0. Illinois trimmed Chicago 18-7 in the other Big Ten game.

Santa Clara, idle until tomorrow, was left as the nation's only unbeaten and untied "big" team when Marquette suffered the same fate as Northwestern. The Golden Avalanche found the sturdy Duquesne line too strong a barrier and went down, 13 to 0.

Another intersectional game provided one of the east's big surprises when Iowa routed Temple, 25-0. Other leading eastern games, most of them carrying on traditional rivalries, saw Colgate conquer a stubborn Syracuse team, 13-0; Army, in a "breather" before next Saturday's Navy game, whip previously unbeaten Hobart, 51-7; Penn State beat Bucknell, 14-0; Villanova surprise Manhattan, 12-0; Lehigh beat Lafayette, 18-0, and Boston college and Boston university play a scoreless draw. Georgetown downed Maryland of the Southern conference, 7-6.

Georgia's victory and the Rose Bowl situation rather overshadowed the southern program in which Georgia Tech trimmed Florida, 38-14, Tulane trounced Sewanee, 53-6, Auburn defeated Loyola of New Orleans, 44-0, Mississippi State whipped Mississippi, 26-6, and North Carolina beat South Carolina, 14-0.

Nebraska emphasized its leadership in the Big Six conference by whaling Kansas State, 40-0, while Missouri eked out a 17-10 decision over Washington of St. Louis. Among the midwest's "independents" Michigan State beat Arizona, 7-0, while North Dakota took a 14-13 decision from Detroit.

Slingin' Sam Baugh, Texas Christian's great passer, pitched the Horned Frogs into a tie with idle Arkansas for the Southwest conference lead with a 13-7 victory over Rice. Baylor conquered Southern Methodist, 13-7, in the only other conference game.

While leaders of the Rocky Mountain loop were idle, Brigham-Young walloped Wyoming, 32-7, Greeley State outscored Colorado Mines, 27-20, and Colorado State whipped Colorado college, 19-12.

FARMERVILLE DEFEATS BERNICE TEAM, 19 TO 0

FARMERVILLE, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—The Farmerville High School Farmers defeated the Bernice High school eleven, 19 to 0, Wednesday in a game featuring Gillum, stellar Farmerville back.

None of Farmerville's touchdowns was scored on plays from scrimmage. Gillum scored two of them when he gathered in a couple of Bernice punts and ran the ball back about 45 yards in each case to score. In a third instance, Gillum intercepted a Bernice pass on the 50-yard line and raced back for a third tally. John Ed Rabun also played a good game of ball for the locals.

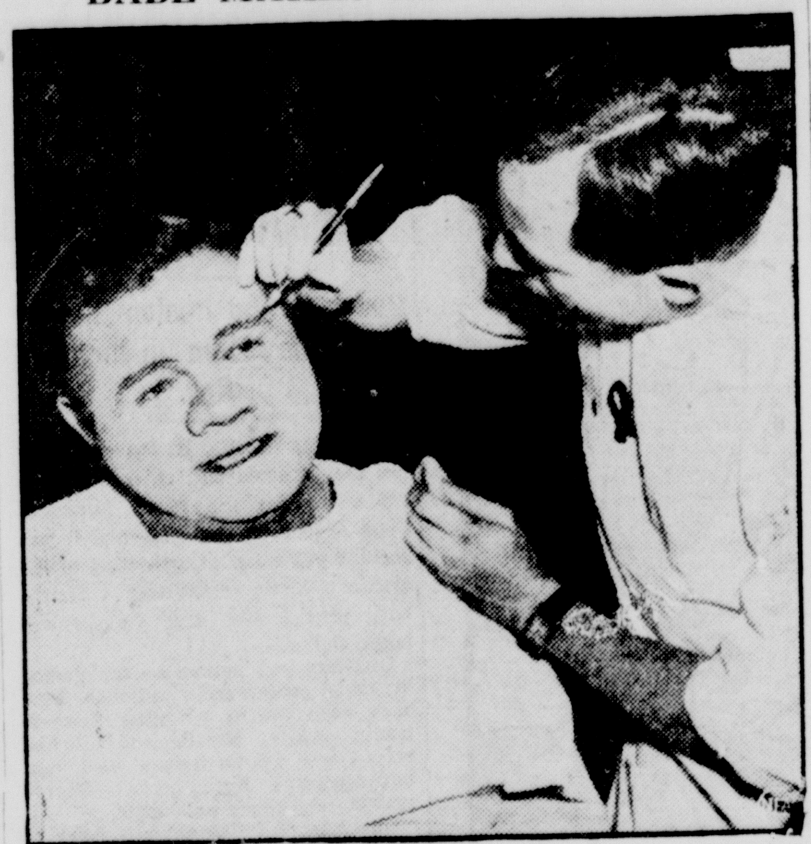
BABE MAKES HIT IN MOVIES



Not even penciled eyebrows and painted lips can disguise the face that is an institution in baseball. It belongs to Babe Ruth, the old Sultan of Swat, who is now busily following a movie career. He is shown being made up for his part in "Home Run on the Keys," a movie short being filmed in Brooklyn.

It's Really Uncanny How We Learn Things

RUSTON, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Since there is no one else around to make conversation today, this correspondent will try to make his typewriter talk, having heard that people do that with pianos and things. In behalf of the Bulldogs of Louisiana Tech, who will play football with the Titans of Illinois Wesleyan university here Thursday afternoon, the old word machine will help out with another blast of ballyhoo.

"I wouldn't use that word 'ballyhoo' if I were you," says X, which is the typewriter beginning to talk.

"If I can think of a better word, I'll buy you a new ribbon for Christmass," replies Y, who is the correspondent speaking.

"Well, let's get going," X suggests. "The readers will have a name for it."

"Okay," Y agrees. "The main thing is to inform the readers of this newspaper that Tech will tackle the Titans of Bloomington, Ill., here at 2 p.m. on the afternoon of Thanksgiving day. What else would they like to know? Would they like to know which team is going to win?"

"Sure, you've got to tell 'em that by all means," X puts in. "There are lots of people, you know, who depend upon such fellows as us for their guidance. It helps them place their better judgment. And furthermore, it helps the players of both teams to know beforehand just what is going to happen."

"Well, I think the Techmen ought to win by—"

"By the skin of their teeth, if any," the typewriter interrupts. "You remember that tied game with Louisiana college here last Friday, which Tech lost, 6-6."

"That's easy. The Pineville Wildcats outplayed the Bulldogs. Your contemporary, Ralph Brewer of Alexandria, saw the game with his own eyes and said so with his own tongue, in effect."

"Alright, alright," Y concedes. "But let's see what Illinois Wesleyan has been doing. For one thing, they were defeated by Centenary college at Shreveport, 20-6, early this season. So, if Tech only ties the Titans, that would mean that Centenary is 14 points better than Tech."

"Of course," X ejaculates, "you wouldn't be admitting that Centenary is 14 points better than Tech, would you?"

"Oh, no, not I," the correspondent concurs. "If I did my rations would be cut off at sunrise and thrown to the proverbial early bird. But if the Bulldogs are as good as the Centenary Gentlemen, why should Tech beat the Titans, too?"

"Maybe the Techmen will win—I'm not saying they won't," X hedges. "But go on with the story. Quote some of that stuff you just received from the Illinois Wesleyan publicity man."

"Certainly. Here's some of it: 'Wesleyan's eleven has been steadily improving game by game, and definitely proved their versatility by their decisive win over the DeKalb Teachers, one of the strongest teams in their league. . . . Public opinion seems to give the Titans an even chance of making a successful second invasion of the sunny southland, when the Green and White men travel to Louisiana Tech. . . . The Titans are going to Ruston with the express purpose of avenging the outcome of their previous visit in Louisiana, at Shreveport. . . . Illinois Wesleyan's lone defeat this season was at the hands of Centenary, and the Illinois boys feel that the heat made them look poor that day. . . . At Ruston they hope to find the weather a bit cooler. . . . The Illinois Wesleyan gridders for years have been powerful in Illinois intercollegiate athletics. . . .'"

"Now, what are you going to say?" X queries.

"Well, I hesitate," Y replies. "Maybe we had better not say."

"You'd better tell the readers you don't know who is going to win. Just tell 'em to come and see," were the last words of the typewriter, as the black hood went over its head.

YALE NOSES OUT HARVARD, 14 TO 13

Crimson Stages Great Rally That Falls Only One Point Short Of Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Yale rode the surging tide of football fortune to victory over Harvard today, 14 to 13, as the luck of Larry Kelley, amazing Eli captain, held good to the end of his gridiron career.

Trailing by 14 points at half-time after Kelley combined with the great Clint Frank to put on a sensational second-period scoring show, Harvard came within a few feet of tying the score with a spectacular last-half comeback.

The game developed a battle that had a crowd of 58,000 in wild excitement, with the outcome determined by the thin margin of Fullback Vernon Struck's failure to placekick the extra point after Harvard's second touchdown.

The kicker, rushed by the furious Elis under Kelley's leadership, missed the uprights by a scant yard or two, ending a gallant rally that saw Harvard parade 80 yards to their first score, and miss their opportunity to tally on a 21-yard pass tossed by Art Oakes to George Ford, the hero of the Crimson's comeback.

Meeting for the second time this year, the Ouachita Parish High school freshman team and the Bonita High school eleven battled to a 6-6 tie at Brown field here yesterday afternoon. Bonita won the first game, 19 to 0.

Ouachita scored soon after the opening kickoff when Thomas Walker returned a Bonita punt 35 yards for a touchdown. Bonita scored in the third quarter on a long pass. Neither team was able to convert the extra point.

Neither team showed a great deal in the way of offense but both played fine defensive games. Coach George Riser used two teams during the game, with Edgar, Funderburk, Corser an Bourgeois, all linemen, showing up to good advantage.

Coach Riser said last night that he was attempting to schedule another game for his Junior Lions. He said he hoped to book a game with the Delhi High school second team.

BOTH COME FROM BEHIND TO WHIP WOOD, MEHLHORN

By Bob Cavagnaro

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—James Wilfred Stevenson Thomson, the husky blasting blond with the terracotta complexion, and Densmore Shute, who has a contrastingly ashen appearance, today shot their way into the finals of the Professional Golfers' association championship.

With styles as different as their appearances, Thomson, the acknowledged longest hitter in the game, and Shute, on the short side off the tees but a deadly player about the greens, staged remarkable Horatio Alger comebacks to have a chance at the crown relinquished earlier in the week by Johnny Revolta of Chicago.

Thomson, matched against his closest rival in the matter of long distance hitting, rallied from a three-hole deficit through the 14th in the morning round to eliminate husky Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., 4 and 3, while Shute, having stretches of hot and cold golf, came from behind after being two down at the 31st to vanquish "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, the 38-year-old Louisville veteran, one up on the 36th green.

Thus the 36-hole match for the title tomorrow will be between a hitter and a fellow who is hard to match on short shots and putting.

Discounting past performances which gave Shute the edge by virtue of his victory in the British Open championship three years ago and his advance to the finals of the 1931 P. G. A. final as against Thomson's victory in the Australian Open last year, Denny, so far, is leading Jimmy for shot making honors this week.

Thomson started off quoted variously at from seven to ten to one by local book makers, while Denny, held at 12 to 1, was almost overlooked in the early betting. The final will start at 10 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Thomson clearly earned his victory today over Wood, but he was helped no little by the Jersey giant's collapse after the 14th hole when he was leading three up. Wood, shooting the first six holes in four under 4s, rushed to a three hole lead, going out in 33 to Thomson's 37. They halved the first five incoming holes in par, and then things began to happen to Wood.

He drove into a trap at the 204-yard 15th and left himself a 12-foot putt which he missed by two feet after exploding weakly. They halved the 16th in 5s, and then Wood overshot the short 17th green with his tee shot and lost it with a bogey 4. They halved the 18th and Wood went to lunch one up.

Jimmy won the 19th and they halved the 20th and 21st. Then Jimmy snared birdie 4s on the next two and shot pars on the 24th and 25th to become four up. Thomson halved the 26th and lost the 27th but there wasn't much to the final nine, or, to be exact, the last six holes. The first three were halved in par. Craig hooked his drive into the rough behind a hummock, played a safety shot and lost the 31st. And that was the ball game as they halved the next two.

The new pendulum putter that was Mehlhorn's most reliable weapon in previous rounds, betrayed him repeatedly and he was one down to Shute after the first nine when he easily might have been one up. It let him down on the second nine, where he also missed the green on three approaches and stood three down at the end of the morning round.

Bill's putter behaved on the third nine, and, taking only 12 putts, he went out in 34, two under par, to lead one up, as Shute faltered on the greens. A hooked drive into the rough cost Denny the 29th, but Bill was short on his approach at the 31st and he was only one up again. However, Denny approached short at the 32nd and Mehlhorn now was two up again.

Shute won the short 33rd and the next hole with a birdie four to square the match. Denny chipped stiff from just off the green to win the 36th and the match, as Bill took a bogey 5.

JENA, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—The Jena High school Giants will play their final game of the season Thanksgiving day with the Block High Bears of Jonesville. In this tilt, the Giants will be at their full strength.

They will have Odell "Stinky" Davis and Lavell Ford on the ends. Davis has been troubled with a bad ankle in the past few games but is completely recovered now. Voyle Floyd, 170 pounds, and Allen Fortson, 153, will hold down the tackle positions. Jones Bradford, 154-pound mainstay in the line, and John White, 125, will play guards. James Smith, 165, will play center and is completely recovered from an ankle injury suffered in the recent Olla game.

In the backfield will be Captain Woodie Doshier, 160 pounds of dashing, dazzling and disillusioning power, at quarterback. Doshier is at his best of the season although he played the full Olla game on his crippled knee. At halfbacks will be G. D. Anders, 160 pound kicker and passer, and Wild Bill Hodges, line smashing 135 pounder, who scored both touchdowns against Olla recently. At fullback will be Fred "Chili" Lees, 170 pounds, who has been out for the past two weeks with a back injury.

Here's the latest aerial view of the Louisiana State university stadium, showing the huge end section completed this week by the works progress administration. The new section, seating 26,000 persons, will more than double the capacity of the great horseshoe. The stadium will be dedicated 30 minutes before the kick-off for the L. S. U.-Tulane game, with Administrator Harry L. Hopkins of the WPA, United States Senator John H. Overton, Governor Richard W. Leche, Dr. James M. Smith, president of the university, and James H. Crutcher, state WPA administrator, addressing the 50,000 fans who will attend.

BIFF JONES ENDS COACHING CAREER

Former L. S. U. Mentor Directs Oklahoma In Last Football Game

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 21.—(AP)—With obvious regret, Major Lawrence McCeney (Biff) Jones closed out a highly successful nine-year career as a football coach tonight to return to full time army duty.

His University of Oklahoma Sooners presented him with a 35 to 13 victory over Oklahoma A. and M. in their final game of the year.

The major's next assignment will be at the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth next year. After that, new army regulations will prevent his taking a coaching job that will interfere with service duties.

"How does it feel to have finished up the last game?" Jones was asked as he walked among his charges after the game, pounding each of them on the back.

"Well, to tell the truth, I haven't had much time to think about that yet," he said.

Later, in the dressing room, he confided, "I hate to give it up."

He revealed that he had turned down an assignment to the Leavenworth school three years ago.

"As much as I hate to give up football," he said, "I can't decline this appointment a second time."

He said he would stay in Norman until June.

During his four years at West Point, three at Louisiana State university and two at Oklahoma, Jones' teams have won 59 games, tied 10 and lost only 19 for a total of 88. They have scored 1,631 points while holding opponents to 568.

The season just closed has been his poorest, with only three victories.

DUQUESNE UPSETS MARQUETTE, 13 TO 0

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The destroying Dukes of little Duquesne university crushed unbeaten Marquette into submission, 13 to 0, in a thrill-filled gridiron spectacle staged before 27,000 fans today, the second time this year the Nightriders have shattered the Rose Bowl aspirations of a major opponent.

Hard running backs behind a rugged line that rushed Marquette's vaunted passing attack into oblivion wrote a sequel to Duquesne's earlier 7-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Big Boyd Brumbaugh tossed a 32-yard pass to End Ernest Hefferle late in the first period today and plunged two yards across the goal line in the final chapter to account for the two touchdowns.

TIGERS PREPARE TO MEET MINDEN ON THANKSGIVING

Neville Plays Wave Here Unless Tilt Is Cancelled For Bolton Game

The Neville High school Tigers conclude their 1936 football compaign here Thanksgiving day against the strong Minden High school eleven at Brown field, unless the tilt is cancelled to permit Neville to meet Bolton in a class A play-off game.

The Bengals enjoyed a rest last week when they lagged through an open date, but Coach Percy Brown will have his charges hitting the high spots again in workouts tomorrow and Tuesday in preparation for the game. For the first time since the opening game of the season, every member of the Tiger squad is expected to be in good shape for the game.

Minden's eleven has piled up a similar record to that of the Bengals during the fall campaign, and a closely fought battle is predicted.

Neville finished its conference campaign without a defeat, and their title chances were not marred by Ruston, who held them to a 6 to 6 tie. The Tigers' schedule also included five intersectional games, other than the one to be played Thursday, and the Bengals will have to wallop Minden to break even in their non-conference battles. A decision on the Neville-Bolton game is expected today.

In conference games, the locals beat Bastrop, 26 to 0; Rayville, 27 to 6; and Oak Grove, 34 to 0. Intersectional skirmishes resulted in a beating, 25 to 0, by Camden, Ark; a 13 to 6 loss to Lake Charles; a victory over Winnfield, 19 to 0; a loss to Haynesville, 20 to 0; and a win from Greenville, Miss., 6 to 0.

Although the locals had two weeks to wait for another engagement, Coach Brown started to work on his charges as usual last Monday and ran them through mild scrimmage sessions most of the week. Ray Spicer, halfback, who suffered a fractured arm in the Haynesville game, is back at his post and may be able to go full time if needed Thursday.

"Red" Brown, the Bengals' ace ball lugger, Jimmy Gray, halfback, and Andy Pappas, fullback, will round out the backfield. Neither of them has failed to appear in the Neville line-up this season.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Prices broke out of their narrow range today on the upside and gained from 25 to 50 cents a bale in active trading on the cotton market here.

Final prices were at the best levels of the day. Good buying pushed December up to 11.78, March to 11.69, July to 11.62 and October to 11.25.

Excellent reports from cloth markets and a ginnings report less bearish than expected aided the upturn.

With only one more full trading day before tenders will be issued against December, this option was bought actively and tended to exert firmness on other options.

There was little hedging in the market and settling of this sort was more than offset by the good trade demand.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Although lacking vigor, the stock market tilted forward today and many of the recently depressed leaders recovered fractions to 2 or more points.

Brokers attributed the reversal partly to lessening tension over European political unsettlement and to more hopefulness for continued progress in domestic business. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Financial quarters were a bit nervous regarding new stock trading rules which are now under consideration by the federal reserve board and the securities and exchange commission.

There were conjectures, too, as to the effect of the general wage-boosting movement on the near-future net incomes.

Washington despatches pointing to the possibility of a balanced federal budget in the next fiscal year, tended to dampen the inflationary spirit which has been evident in Wall Street for some time.

Bonds improved, as did commodities. Foreign currencies displayed no particular trend.

Prominent share gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Consolidated Edison, North American, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Lerner Stores, Boeing, Deere, American Water Works, J. C. Penney, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Standard Oil of N. J., Socony Vacuum, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allied Chemical, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Liggett & Myers "B," Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Stone & Webster, Loew's, Newport Industries, Industrial Rayon, Goodyear, Firestone and Paramount.

Commission houses with connections abroad reported foreign selling of American securities apparently had dried up. A number of overnight buying orders were said to have been received.

A sustaining influence for the steels were the expansion plans announced by Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Rubber company issues were aided by the forecast of President Litchfield of Goodyear of expanding consumption in this field.

Satisfactory earnings statements inspired some support for the rails. It was announced the roads have petitioned the interstate commerce commission for continuance of the emergency freight rates pending settlement of proposed revisions.

Two newcomers to Roosevelt stadium, Jim Clinkstock, giant Indian who has gained national prominence in the wrestling wars, and Walter Podolak, Polish strong man who won the world's weight lifting championship before turning his brawn to the mat game, will appear on the stadium's weekly mat card Tuesday night, Promoter Phil Lisotta announced last night.

Clinkstock will appear in the main event with Dan O'Connor, rugged Irish grappler from Boston, Mass. Podolak will perform in the semi-final against an opponent who is yet to be signed. Promoter Lisotta last night had virtually completed negotiations for signing the opponent but would make no announcement until he had the grappler's name on the dotted line.

Clinkstock for years has slashed a big path for himself through the ranks of the mat warriors. A hulking mountain of man, six feet and six inches in height and weighing 252 pounds, he has in 15 years of wrestling met the best mat performers in the world. He is still going strong and is animated by a strong determination to become champion.

A man whose primeval instincts in the ring have placed him nearly always in the role of villain, Clinkstock will meet in O'Connor a clever grappler who probably will depend on speed and science in the battle.

The big Indian was born and reared in Oklahoma. He matured early and at the age of 16 years was a powerful youth, already a man beyond his years. He could pin to the ground any youth or man who dared wrestle him. In the following year he actively took up wrestling as a profession. He makes his residence now at Houston, Tex.

Podolak, the Polish strong man, is well known to amateur weight lifters and physical culture enthusiasts. Pictures of him have appeared in many strength magazines, as well as publications of bar bell dealers. Podolak, although he retired from weight lifting competition several years ago, still holds the world's record for the two-handed lift—660 pounds. Only 26 years of age at this time, he participated in the 1932 Olympics, at the age of 22 years, against the best weight lifters in the world and made his way into the finals, where he was eliminated by veteran lifters.

Podolak's physical measurements at this time were not readily available last night. However, about two years ago he had a chest measurement of 50 inches as compared with a waist measurement of 30 inches. These measurements are characteristic of weight lifters. Just how Podolak uses his great strength to best advantage, just what tricks he has developed in the mat wars to best suit his physique and limb leverage, should present an interesting evening to the fans Tuesday night. He is generally a scientific performer.

The former weight lifter is five feet, eight and one-half inches in height. He weighs 220 pounds. His favorite hold is a full Nelson and a toe hold.

His ambition is to establish himself in the physical culture business after his wrestling years are finished.

Promoter Lisotta, while withholding the identity of the wrestler whom he hoped to sign as Podolak's opponent, divulged that the grappler is strictly a scientific performer. Either this wrestler, or another who is strictly a scientific grappler, will oppose Podolak. This will give the fans a scientifically waged semi-final bout, and a main event that is certain to be a rough and hectic thriller—because big Jim Clinkstock is one of the main eventers.

ROSE BOWL CHEER SPILLS OVER SOUTH

(By Associated Press)

Rose Bowl cheer spilled over the deep southland today as Georgia's Bulldog, a trampled pup in its own backyard, upset mighty Fordham with a 7-7 tie and little Duquesne erased Marquette's perfect record, 13-0.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Baton Rouge, La., the double shock to eastern gridiron followers was cheered long and lustily. In these respective towns are located the University of Alabama and Louisiana State university—the south's major unbeaten elevens and definitely Rose Bowl timber.

Fordham previously had tied Pittsburgh, which still is given an outside chance for the Rose Bowl bid. Until today the Rams and the Marquette machine were considered by far the brightest bowl hopes of the east.

In Alabama the jubilation was so keenly felt that Governor Bibb Graves wired the Georgia team from Montgomery, "Hooray for Georgia and Dixie." Turning to his office force the chief executive added: "And that ought to end any doubt about Alabama going to Rose Bowl."

Alabama's Crimson Tide has been a Rose Bowl participant for four times, coming back the victor thrice and once with a tie.

This year's team has displayed brilliance and power in smothering all rivals except Tennessee's Volunteers of the Southeastern conference, which fought the Tide to a scoreless deadlock.

Louisiana State has been tied by the University of Texas 6-6, but otherwise has a perfect record and only Tulane stands before the Tigers, Southeastern conference champions last year. Alabama plays Vanderbilt Thanksgiving.

Recent dispatches from Seattle said Alabama was favored in event the University of Washington is the west coast representative, because the northwesterners want to settle an old score with the Tide—the matter of a 20-19 lacing handed Washington in the Rose Bowl of 1926.

Mississippi State Scores Three Touchdowns In Final Period For Victory

By Jack Dale

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 21.—(AP)—With Mississippi's largest football crowd, 20,000, looking on, Mississippi State broke a 10-year jinx here today with a crushing 26 to 6 victory over its fiercest gridiron rival, the University of Mississippi.

Taking advantage of Rebel fumbles in the final period, and utilizing its vaunted passing attack to good advantage, State turned an otherwise nip-and-tuck battle into a rout in the final minutes of play, scoring three touchdowns to add to its early lead.

The Maroons' first touchdown, scored in the first five minutes of play, was sufficient for a victory, but the Sassemen piled it on in the final period by capitalizing on the breaks, Ole Miss fumbles and with a fine passing attack.

Charles "Peewee" Armstrong, State's ace passer, who has been nursing torn shoulder ligaments since the L. S. U. game, got in the game for one brief minute, the last in the final period, and covered himself with glory with a 55 yard pass to Cross to give State its fourth touchdown.

The day's score does not accurately gauge the closeness of the play, as the Oxford Rebels fought the Maroons on even terms for three quarters after getting off to a shaky start.

State chalked up 7 first downs to 5 for Ole Miss.

It was the first time Mississippi State had defeated Ole Miss since 1925. It's closest approach to victory was a 7-7 tie in 1929.

State wasted little time in scoring. Pickle punted out of bounds to the Ole Miss 4, and Peters kicked back weakly to the 34. Hight drew back his strong right arm and passed 18 yards to Gelatka to put the oval on Ole Miss' 10. Hight then blasted through tackle to the 3, and Steadman plunged over for the score in two tries. Pickle kicked the extra point.

Ole Miss drew blood soon after the second half opened. Standing on the State 37, Baumstein passed 20 yards to Bernard, who dodged two tacklers and raced over the goal. And that was all for Ole Miss for the day.

A fumble by Ray Hapes gave State a scoring chance early in the final period, when Gelatka covered the bounding oval on the Rebel 16. A short pass, Ward to Pickle, with the elusive Ike shaking off two tacklers near the goal, netted a score.

A few minutes later, little Hapes fumbled on his 6, and Keenan recovered for State. Aided by an off-side penalty, Hardison bucked it over for the one.

In the dying minutes of the game, Armstrong went in at quarter for State, and on the first play, uncorked a 55 yard pass from his own 35, to Cross, who raced the remaining distance for the score.

The lineups:

Miss. State	Pos.	Ole Miss
Gelatka	LE	Poole
Lott	LT	Kinard
Moak	LG	Wilson
Price	C	Hutson
Reagh	RG	Breyer
Pittman	RT	Dickens
Keenan	RE	Jackson
Stubbs	QB	Baumstein
Hight	LH	Bernard
Steadman	FB	C. Hapes

Score by periods:

Mississippi	0	0	6	0—6
Miss. State	7	0	0	19—26

TALLULAH AND RAYVILLE PLAY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

TALLULAH, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—Tallulah will play Rayville here Wednesday night at 7:30. The game has been moved up on account of the various games in the Class B play-off that will be played Thursday. Many Tallulah fans are anxious to see these games.

Tallulah came out of the Mangham game without any additional injuries, and should be at full strength for the Rayville game. Last year Tallulah beat Rayville 51 to 0, but the score this year is not expected to be anything like that. Rayville beat Mangham but not by as large a score as Tallulah did, but the Hornets will be after the Trojans' scalp. Coach Whatley reports several of his players are injured and may not be able to play in this game.

The Ouachita Parish High school Lions, contender for the northeast Louisiana Class A football title, will play their last regularly scheduled game away from home when they tangle with the powerful Pine Bluff, Ark., Zebras at Pine Bluff on Thanksgiving day.

Coach "Lefty" Haynes eased up on his boys a bit last week as they rested with an open date, but the Lion mentor is ready to shoot the works again tomorrow to have the locals in tip-top shape for their Arkansas invason.

The regular Ouachita lineup is expected to be back in shape for the battle for the first time this month. Wheeler Mitchell, powerful 195-pound guard, the veteran of the Lion forces, who was out three weeks because of illness, is expected to be in charge of his old post again Thursday, while W. B. Stewart, fullback, also out about three weeks with a leg injury, has been performing at his old job during the last few days.

In the Zebras, the Lion aggregation will be facing one of the most dazzling passing offensives of the season, according to reports from the Pine Bluff camp. An assortment of forwards, laterals, and forward-laterals have made the Zebras one of the most dangerous opponents for foes this year and they are not expected to be an exception for Ouachita.

Coach Haynes is expected to drill his charges extensively on pass defense this week, along with the probability to grafting a few more tricks onto the present list of yard gainers employed by the Lions.

Although the Lions haven't gone in for any great amount of passing, or depending on an aerial attack to bring them victory, they have a capable group of performers who may be able to "fight fire with fire."

Paul Patterson, Alvin Fleming, Cason Mitchell, Clyde Roye and W. B. Stewart are all backfield regulars, and number one reserves, who are capable passers. All of them, along with Solly Mayer, halfback, and James Bates, Wright Sherrod and J. C. Black, ends, are good receivers. Every member of the backfield is a dependable ball carrier and, should a punting duel ensue, Roye, Cason Mitchell and Patterson, along with Floyd Vann, tackle, are good kickers.

HOWARD BEATS SOUTHERN TO RETAIN DIXIE CROWN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Howard Bulldogs smashed their traditional rivals, Birmingham-Southern, 13 to 0 here today before 11,000 fans to cinch their second straight Dixie conference championship.

Ray Christian, Bulldog fullback, ripped the Southern line to shreds, gaining 259 yards on 33 tries. Birmingham-Southern's lone first down came on a long pass near the end of the second period.

So completely did Howard's line bottle up their opponents that Birmingham-Southern's net gain rushing was three yards.

Score by periods:

Miami Beach, Fla., officials estimated this season's winter expansion was 30 days ahead of previous years. They predicted a longer tourist season.

Winning Golf

By Lawson Little

Several weeks ago I started an intermittent series of articles on how the snowbound golfer can keep in shape during the winter months when he is not able to get out onto the actual playing course.

In this article I am going to take up putting—and mainly putting on the living room rug.

I believe that every golfer living, at some time or other, has taken his favorite putter and put it to work on the rug in his house. Possibly he did not realize it, but he was doing a form of practice that is very helpful. As a general rule the leg of a chair or that of a small table makes a fine target for a few putts but, after ever so few, the player tires of not seeing a ball go into something. I frequently put an ordinary table glass on the floor and lay it down so that the top is facing me. This makes a sort of home-made cup, but in reality a very effective one. The opening or the top of the glass is only about half the size of a real hole, and this makes one use extra precautions. Then when the player gets onto a regular green he finds that the hole looks large to him because of his practice at such a small target.

The rug is surprisingly like a putting green in that it has a definite nap. If the ball is struck incorrectly it will not run true. In fact the rug is more sensitive than grass so this indoor practice gives one a good chance to learn his most common faults.

Just before I sailed for England in 1934 on the American Walker Cup team, I spent several weeks with my family at Cheyenne, Wyo. The golfing season was still a long way off so I improved my game as well as I could by practicing indoors and putting on the rug every evening after dinner. The result was amazing. Because the rug was so fast, the ball has to be stroked very delicately—and not hit. When I arrived in Britain and got on the fast St. Andrews greens, I found that the delicate stroke I was required to use in my home in Wyoming was the only one to use. The result was that I putted throughout my stay in Britain probably better than ever before.

There are several fundamentals in putting that can be mastered in the home just as well as on the course. These are:

1. The stance should be the same each time and for all putts. It is advisable for the player to adopt a stance that affords him the greatest feeling of confidence and the most comfort. It should put him in a solid, sturdy, but relaxed position.

2. Keeping in mind the stance the player should be sure that his head remains absolutely stationary during the putting stroke—this applies particularly to the shorter putts.

3. The ball should be played toward the left foot so that there will be a tendency to hit slightly upward on the ball. This will give the ball overspin and a true roll.

4. The putter head should be kept close on the ground on the back as well as the forward swings. In addition to keeping the club low, it should be brought back along the line of putt or slightly inside this line if anything; never outside the line of putt.

5. For the shorter putts, many players feel that the putter blade should remain closed, or rather, always exactly square to the line of play. I personally believe in this principle, but it is sometimes hard to master unless you have some one watching you, who can correct you.

6. Always strive for rhythm. The ball is going to be there when the club comes down to it so never hurry the putting stroke.

Unleashing a crushing attack of running plays and deceptive forward and lateral pass offensives, the Southern university Cats played their first game before a local crowd by swamping an outclassed team of Jarvis college Tigers, 74 to 7.

Jarvis, however, drew first blood by ripping through the Southern line just after the kickoff for a touchdown. The extra point was good.

On the kickoff, Southern's big end, Chapman, took the ball on his 40 and slipped through the Jarvis team behind great blocking for Southern's first touchdown. The extra point was made.

Although Jarvis put up a plucky fight, with Motherest and Johnson playing well on the defense and H. Walls gaining occasionally through the Southern forward wall, it was soon seen that the Texans were outclassed by the Gold and Blue.

"Cat" Guthrie, Southern's backfield ace, "Fats" Welcome, "Red" Alston and "Step" Walker were the best ground gainers for Southern.

Guthrie was not only a fine ball carrier but also a good blocker and passer. Alston proved to be an adept passer and threw several touchdown aerials. Walker turned in the longest scoring jaunt of the day when he cut through the Jarvis line for gains of 63 and 45 yards.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Each year the Professional Golfers association awards honors to the golfers, who average the lowest number of strokes in at least 40 rounds of competitive golf in qualified events each year. The affair is known as the Radix Cup contest and is comparable to the major league baseball batting and fielding averages.

As a matter of fact it covers a longer period of play than the baseball averages but by no means so much actual competition for the ball players are generally in there every day, trying to bat out base hits from the middle of April to the last of September. Golf tournaments are not so numerous that such a program can be followed by the pro golfers although, there is no doubt that a very large percentage of players would like nothing better than such an opportunity for continuous play.

Pressure On Leaders

The time remaining until the end of the year will see more pressure than ever put on the leaders at this point. MacDonald Smith, Harry Cooper, Ralph Guldahl, Henry Picard closely grouped for low at this writing will be watching their strokes more than ever, if such a thing is possible.

Macdonald Smith's average for instance is somewhere close to 71 strokes per round which is high class scoring over a period of 10 months. Harry Cooper's averages only slightly above this and includes over twice as many rounds as Smith's. It is hard to figure out how one or the other, of these two, has missed winning the National Open championship over a number of years of play but golf is 'an 'umbling game' and a great deal more difficult to figure out than most other sports.

The greatest number of rounds have been played by Ray Mangrum, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson. Their total on qualified rounds for the year played will be somewhere near the 100 mark, a program that keeps them constantly on the go.

Lawson Little entered the competition too late to total 40 rounds of play but his average to date is particularly impressive for a newcomer to the professional ranks.

In glancing over the list of leaders it would seem that the velvet stroking Macdonald Smith is the only veteran this year who has withstood the pressure of youth. Year after year the Carnoustie veteran plays a brand of golf that is the envy of all golfers. It is not yet too late for him to win one of the major open championships of the United States or England but the mental picture of past defeats is quite a hazard to overcome. No one will deny that Smith is one golfer who deserves an honor of this sort to pack away in his record of championships won. It would be a great thing for the game of golf if this could happen.

Gents Upset Favored Texas A. And M. Team In Football Thriller

The Gents' line on several occasions blocked Aggie punts and the backfield smeared pass after pass as the visitors tried desperately to break the jinx which has given them only two victories in their games with Centenary.

Centenary's score came in the second period when Stone heaved a pass to Hooper for a 33-yard gain. With the teams lined up on the Aggies' four yard line, Stokes came out of the line and with Huddleston holding the ball, kicked a field goal.

The Aggies' celebrated running attack failed to function but they worried the Gents with an aerial combination later in the game. They completed several long heaves but three times their advance was stopped by Centenary intercepting the ball.

The Gents took little chances after gaining their three point margin and resorted only to running plays, hanging to the ball until the fourth down. The Texans gambled recklessly and several times passed on the fourth down in a desperate effort to score.

Both teams displayed good defensive powers.

The lineups:

Texas A and M	Pos	Centenary

Ouachita, Neville, Bolton and Ruston high schools will enter the play-off series for the north Louisiana Class A football championship, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the district athletic committee. Ouachita will play Ruston and Neville will meet Bolton.

Ouachita and Bolton are undefeated in their conference, although both have been beaten by other Class A teams, while Neville and Ruston played to a 6-6 tie here a week ago, but otherwise have perfect records against conference opponents.

Ouachita and Ruston will meet in Monroe on Tuesday night, December 1. The date for the Neville-Bolton game had not been set late yesterday afternoon. Neville has a game scheduled with Minden for next Thursday afternoon but that game may be cancelled to allow the Tigers to play the Bears of Alexandria. The game will go to the city making the largest guarantee.

The championship must be decided by December 6 and if the Neville-Minden game is not cancelled, the winner of the Neville-Bolton tilt will be forced to play two games during the week of November 29. Ouachita or Ruston also will have to play two games during that week. The Lions have a game scheduled at Pine Bluff, Ark, for next Thursday and will fill the engagement, it was announced. If the Ouachita team defeats Ruston on November 1, the Lions must meet either Bolton or Neville on or before December 6.

The method of selecting opponents in the playoff series was by agreement of representatives of the four schools.

Although comparison of scores in previous games mean little when these four schools play, Bolton and Ouachita probably will be favorites to survive the preliminary games. Bolton was barely nosed out by Byrd of Shreveport, and Coach Guy Nesom is conceded to have a strong team at the Alexandria school. Neville, however, probably will be at full trength and it wouldn't be surprising if the Tigers pull an upset. Ouachita is thought to be stronger than Ruston, but the Lincoln parish Bearcats always battle their hardest against Monroe teams, as they showed in fighting Neville to a 6-6 tie.

R. L. Hargis, principal of Rayville high school, is chairman of the district championship committee and presided at yesterday's meeting. Other members of the committee who attended were Principal Glover of Winnsboro and Principal Luckey of Bastrop.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The badly tamed Princeton Tigers deserted the jungle for the air today, came from the rear and topped off a so-so football season by holding a highly favored Dartmouth team to a 13-13 tie.

The game ended the season for both teams before a crowd of 42,000.

Each team counted a touchdown in the second. Dartmouth forged into the lead with another in the third and then the Tigers put on their spurt to tie things up soon after the fourth got under way.

Score by periods:

Dartmouth	0	6	7	0—13

California growers received $81,615 more in nine months of this year than they would have otherwise if the state division of market enforcement had not been existent, officials say.

Blind Daughter Of Monroe Woman Regains Her Vision

Unexplained Recovery Of Miss Jane Borsch Mystifies Physicians

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Twenty-two years of darkness which gave way to light in an unexplained manner for Miss Jane Borsch, 24, totally blind since the age of two, left her gasping, "it's wonderful," today.

Partial sight returned to her two weeks ago whle she was attending class at Arkansas State college, Jonesboro, but she did not realize what had happened until three days later. Since then her vision has improved steadily until she can see objects and distinguish between colors.

Her returning sight amazed physicians at a Jonesboro hospital, she said, who could give no explanation. She will go to Memphis next week to receive treatment from an eye specialist in an attempt to regain normal vision.

With no clear recollection of ever having been able to see, Miss Borsch was described by her aunt, Mrs. Leo Oenning, of Helena, as temporarily more handicapped than helped by returning vision.

A student at Arkansas State college at Jonesboro, where she was preparing herself to be a teacher of the blind after graduating two years ago from the state school for the blind, Miss Borsch said she thought she had become ill two weeks ago when she began to experience flashes of light, accompanied by extreme dizziness.

Alarmed by her condition, she went to a hospital, where examination disclosed no other symptoms of illness, and then returned to the home of her aunt here.

Her relatives emphasized that her vision now was by no means perfect, but that she could see her face in the mirror, distinguish between the faces of members of the family and distinguish between colors.

"Her eyes do not focus properly and she is unable to judge distances," said Mrs. Oenning, "and she is yet in a more or less confused state when she tries to rely upon sight rather than the sense of touch, as she has done virtually all her life. Of course we are trying not to be buoyed up unduly."

She was to go to Memphis next week to determine if glasses could be helpfully fitted at this stage.

GIRL WANTS TO SEE MOTHER

"I want to see what my mother looks like," said Miss Borsch in a long distance telephone conversation with the mother, Mrs. Jennie Keenan, 321 Malvern street, soon after it was definitely decided that her sight was returning. She also has a brother, Walter Borsch, living here, whom she has never seen.

Mrs. Keenan was about as excited here yesterday over the prospect of her daughter being able to see after so many years of darkness, as the young woman must have been when she first began to experience "flashes of light."

An attack of infantile paralysis when she was seven months old impaired Miss Borsch's sight to such an extent that she was totally blind at two years of age, her mother said, and never knew what it was to see.

For the past six or seven years Miss Borsch has been living with her aunt in Helena, where she could be nearer the school for blind at Little Rock, which she attended until recently, when she entered Arkansas State college. She usually spent her summer vacations here with her mother.

TAKEN TO PEN

Four negroes who had been sentenced in district court here to terms in the state penitentiary at Angola were taken to the penitentiary yesterday by Ouachita parish deputy sheriffs. The negroes and their sentences were: Willie Gates, manslaughter, 4 to 12 years; Frank Kelly and Jimmie Richardson, breaking and entering, 10 years; Solomon Gray, breaking and entering, 6 years.

Veteran Former Municipal Employe Served City Many Years

A well known and highly regarded resident of Monroe and former municipal employe for many years, passed with the death here of Y. A. Roberts, 80, last week.

The funeral was held November 17, at the Mulhearn funeral home. Rev. Ira L. Yeager, pastor of the Stone Avenue Methodist Protestant church, assisted by Rev. J. W. Lee of Grayson, president of the annual conference of the church of that denomination, officiated. Interment was in the city cemetery.

Mr. Roberts was born in Alcorn, Miss., March 31, 1856, and came to Monroe 54 years ago. Since which time he has resided here continuously. For 30 years he was connected with the old V. S. and P. railway and after years as a trusted employe he entered the employ of the city of Monroe as machinist and operator of the municipal water supply machines. He served in this capacity for 21 years, when he was retired with compensation.

He was an active member of the Methodist Protestant church of which he was a charter member.

The Universal Car Broadens Its Field with New Economy and THE LOWEST PRICE IN YEARS

For more than thirty years Ford has been "The Universal Car." And the name takes on a new meaning for 1937, with the addition of a 60-horsepower V-8 engine to the Ford line.

The new "60" makes possible the lowest Ford price in years, and brings smooth, dependable V-8 performance within the reach of more people than ever before. It means also a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engine sizes. 85 horsepower for maximum performance. 60 horsepower for maximum economy. Both engines are built into the same big body size.

The "60" is a replica of its brilliant older brother, except in size, weight and power. It was first developed for England and France, where fuel costs are high. Two years in service there have proved that it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can own with pride and drive with pleasure—ask the nearest Ford dealer to show you the new car with the new engine.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Prices broke out of their narrow range today on the upside and gained from 25 to 50 cents a bale in active trading on the cotton market here.

Final prices were at the best levels of the day. Good buying pushed December up to 11.78, March to 11.69, July to 11.62 and October to 11.25.

Excellent reports from cloth markets and a ginnings report less bearish than expected aided the upturn.

With only one more full trading day before tenders will be issued against December, this option was bought actively and tended to exert firmness on other options.

There was little hedging in the market and settling of this sort was more than offset by the good trade demand.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Although lacking vigor, the stock market tilted forward today and many of the recently depressed leaders recovered fractions to 2 or more points.

Brokers attributed the reversal partly to lessening tension over European political unsettlement and to more hopefulness for continued progress in domestic business. Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Financial quarters were a bit nervous regarding new stock trading rules which are now under consideration by the federal reserve board and the securities and exchange commission.

There were conjectures, too, as to the effect of the general wage-boosting movement on the near-future net incomes.

Washington despatches pointing to the possibility of a balanced federal budget in the next fiscal year, tended to dampen the inflationary spirit which has been evident in Wall Street for some time.

Bonds improved, as did commodities. Foreign currencies displayed no particular trend.

Prominent share gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Consolidated Edison, North American, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Lerner Stores, Boeing, Deere, American Water Works, J. C. Penney, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Standard Oil of N. J., Socony Vacuum, Westinghouse, General Electric, Allied Chemical, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Liggett & Myers "B." Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Stone & Webster, Loew's, Newport Industries, Industrial Rayon, Goodyear, Firestone and Paramount .

Commission houses with connections abroad reported foreign selling of American securities apparently had dried up. A number of overnight buying orders were said to have been received.

A sustaining influence for the steels were the expansion plans announced by Youngstown Sheet & Tube. Rubber company issues were aided by the forecast of President Litchfield of Goodyear of expanding consumption in this field.

Satisfactory earnings statements inspired some support for the rails. It was announced the roads have petitioned the interstate commerce commission for continuance of the emergency freight rates pending settlement of proposed revisions.

J. LESTER WHITE ACCORDED HONOR

Named Chairman Of State Planning Commission By Governor Leche

The naming of J. Lester White of Bastrop as chairman of the state planning commission by Governor Richard W. Leche in the past week has been received with wide interest. The purpose of the group is to coordinate and promote the state's physical development. Mr. White is the only appointive and salaried member. The commission was created by the state legislature.

There are six ex-officio members: Chairman L. P. Abernathy, of the state highway commission; Dr. Paul Hebert, of Louisiana State university; W. G. Rankin, state conservation commissioner; Dr. J. A. O'Hara, president of the state board of health, and Harry Jacobs, chief of Louisiana state engineers.

Offices of the new group will be established at once in the capitol building at Baton Rouge.

Mr. White graduated from Louisiana State university, in the college of engineering, in 1913. His elementary education was obtained in the Jennings public schools.

Blind Daughter Of Monroe Woman Regains Her Vision

Unexplained Recovery Of Miss Jane Borsch Mystifies Physicians

HELENA, Ark., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Twenty-two years of darkness which gave way to light in an unexplained manner for Miss Jane Borsch, 24, totally blind since the age of two, left her gasping, "it's wonderful," today.

Partial sight returned to her two weeks ago whle she was attending class at Arkansas State college, Jonesboro, but she did not realize what had happened until three days later. Since then her vision has improved steadily until she can see objects and distinguish between colors.

Her returning sight amazed physicians at a Jonesboro hospital, she said, who could give no explanation. She will go to Memphis next week to receive treatment from an eye specialist in an attempt to regain normal vision.

With no clear recollection of ever having been able to see, Miss Borsch was described by her aunt, Mrs. Leo Oenning, of Helena, as temporarily more handicapped than helped by returning vision.

A student at Arkansas State college at Jonesboro, where she was preparing herself to be a teacher of the blind after graduating two years ago from the state school for the blind, Miss Borsch said she thought she had become ill two weeks ago when she began to experience flashes of light, accompanied by extreme dizziness.

Alarmed by her condition, she went to a hospital, where examination disclosed no other symptoms of illness, and then returned to the home of her aunt here.

Her relatives emphasized that her vision now was by no means perfect, but that she could see her face in the mirror, distinguish between the faces of members of the family and distinguish between colors.

"Her eyes do not focus properly and she is unable to judge distances," said Mrs. Oenning, "and she is yet in a more or less confused state when she tries to rely upon sight rather than the sense of touch, as she has done virtually all her life. Of course we are trying not to be buoyed up unduly."

She was to go to Memphis next week to determine if glasses could be helpfully fitted at this stage.

GIRL WANTS TO SEE MOTHER

"I want to see what my mother looks like," said Miss Borsch in a long distance telephone conversation with the mother, Mrs. Jennie Keenan, 321 Malvern street, soon after it was definitely decided that her sight was returning. She also has a brother, Walter Borsch, living here, whom she has never seen.

Mrs. Keenan was about as excited here yesterday over the prospect of her daughter being able to see after so many years of darkness, as the young woman must have been when she first began to experience "flashes of light."

An attack of infantile paralysis when she was seven months old impaired Miss Borsch's sight to such an extent that she was totally blind at two years of age, her mother said, and never knew what it was to see.

For the past six or seven years Miss Borsch has been living with her aunt in Helena, where she could be nearer the school for blind at Little Rock, which she attended until recently, when she entered Arkansas State college. She usually spent her summer vacations here with her mother.

The Universal Car Broadens Its Field with New Economy and THE LOWEST PRICE IN YEARS

For more than thirty years Ford has been "The Universal Car." And the name takes on a new meaning for 1937, with the addition of a 60-horsepower V-8 engine to the Ford line.

The new "60" makes possible the lowest Ford price in years, and brings smooth, dependable V-8 performance within the reach of more people than ever before. It means also a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engine sizes. 85 horsepower for maximum performance. 60 horsepower for maximum economy. Both engines are built into the same big body size.

The "60" is a replica of its brilliant older brother, except in size, weight and power. It was first developed for England and France, where fuel costs are high. Two years in service there have proved that it creates an entirely new standard of modern motoring economy.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can own with pride and drive with pleasure—ask the nearest Ford dealer to show you the new car with the new engine.

Social Activities Increase As Christmas Days Draw Near Shoppers Commence Annual Buying Rush

Phi Kappas Plan Ball December 29; Numerous Other Parties Herald Yuletide Season

By Eve Bradford

ORION, glorious constellation of winter, is now sweeping across the sky, reminding us that cold weather is at hand. There is grandeur and majesty in this procession of stars across the November sky which gives us a better understanding of the beauties of the world in which we live.

The bright stars, however are not the only reminders of the approaching holidays with the traditional tinsel and glamour and joy and merriment. Dates, now being announced for the Yuletide balls serve to remind us we will soon be caught up in the whirl of events, without which the Christmas season would be barren indeed.

Members of Eta chapter Phi Kappa can always be depended on to select at an early date the time and place for their annual Yuletide ball. True to form they announced yesterday that December 29 will be the night of nights. Another reminder of the approaching holidays is the glittering baubles and silver sprinkled trees in the department stores where Christmas shopping is already under way. If you are one of those perspicacious shoppers who take a delight in a calm procedure; one of those persons who make the rest of us gnash our teeth the week before Christmas with their exasperating remarks of "O, I had mine wrapped days ago," then you can start right in making your purchases and enjoy also the Yuletide atmosphere, as everything is in readiness for the big rush. You can wait and go completely mad with the crowd the last few days before Christmas and even wait until excitement is at its height on Christmas eve. We're just trying to arouse your attention to one important fact—that the holidays are very close at hand.

Sally Hodges has already received her Christmas gift from her son-in-law, Vernon Maish. Last week when she started on an automobile trip to Atlanta he had a dandy little heater installed in her car as a protection against cold weather.

If all the requests for fur coats for Christmas gifts are granted, all the fur bearing animals in the country will have to be corralled. The most ingenious method of fighting back at biting winter winds is to wear a fur coat. Almost every woman we know, is muffled in a big warm one and those who are not already in possession, are expecting Santa to bring one. Mat Hirsch is wearing one of the smartest short capes of black galyak we have seen this winter. Lottie Breard is wearing a sealskin coat and Eola Rogers is wearing a swanky, full length black fur cape. Suzanne Kellogg is wearing a grey squirrel coat and Doris Beaman is openly defying old man winter in a Japanese mink, full length coat. Lida Oliver enjoys the warmth of her moleskin cape on cold days and Suzanne Hirsch is the very essence of charm in her handsome grey mole coat. Bertha Marie Masur is still another who will meet the biting wind of winter in a beautiful mink coat.

Don't forget the fripperies! You don't know what is a "frippery?" The little feather on your hat, the initial on your guest towel, that dab of polish on your nails, the little curl over your ear and the perfumed bath salts. It's the same in food—parsley on the potatoes, mint in the iced tea, designs on the cake frosting, a cherry in your cocktail, a dab of whipped cream on your dessert. No, they are not necessary. You can wear untrimmed dresses, you can live in pictureless rooms, you can eat boiled carrots every day—but it won't be much fun. All the fripperies in cooking were brought into play last week when breakfast parties, luncheons, afternoon teas and dinners kept hostesses and maitre d'hotels on the qui vive. Seeking for something different, Mrs. Wood Thompson, Mrs. Carey Thompson and Mrs. Elizabeth King arranged for the serving of a cafe brulot as a climax to their luncheon for Sue Graves at the Frances hotel. It was a real ceremony with the bowl rubbed with orange and lemon peel, spices dropped into the burning brandy and then mixed with the coffee and served in demi tasse cups. New also was the cooking of turkey in wine and served at the Virginia hotel when Dr. Prentice Gray acted as host at dinner.

We have been reminded over and over again that "life begins at forty." Mary Pickford is the living proof of the truth of Einstein's law about the relativity of time. For she defies the years and embalms her youthful ways. The age-old question about the wisdom of feminine age marrying masculine youth is again the subject discussed over the tea cups. Then there is Mrs. Simpson—her example should be a great encouragement to middle-aged women. Looking at the achievement of one who may be England's future queen, they can take heart to cultivate their own self-assurance. We overheard a conversation the other day between several high school girls. One of them said that "Mrs. Simpson is a downright smart woman. She knows how to look out for No. 1. Twenty-five dollars worth of flowers every day. Millions of dollars worth of jewels. Marrying a real king! Gee! Wouldn't you love to have a few lessons from her?" What effect will her example have on young girls of today is the question mothers are asking.

Speaking of young girls, it was a sight for tired eyes to watch those beautiful young things dancing at Lakeside Country club Friday night when the sub-deb daughters of the Charles McKenzies and the James A. Noes took the spotlight. Trust these young things to don black. Barbara was wearing a robe de style black taffeta, dramatized with a touch of brilliant color. Gay was wearing a silvery looking evening gown, dazzling enough to attract every member of the stag line. In fact every young thing who danced past the stag line was a vision. Not until you see the really young set in action and garbed in glorious raiment do you fully realize that another generation is forging ahead ready to take a bow.

Sue Graves, as a bride, quite lived up to the expectations of friends. Simplicity, that elusive something that stands for elegance, was skillfully woven into the scheme of things and stood out like a golden thread in a piece of rare tapestry. To trim a wedding gown of luminous satin is almost like trying to gild the lily. Sue's gown was divinely simple and clung to her figure in heavy, rich folds. The white rose-point lace fashioned into the quaint Mary Queen of Scots cap was a real inspiration—nothing else could have been quite so satisfying. Alda Graves, Sue's mother, was almost as youthful looking as her daughters in her handsome Burgundy velvet gown with smart little velvet turban. In fact the whole Graves family was worthy of special mention on this memorable occasion with handsome Jim Graves in the background but very much in the foreground insofar as personality and force of character are concerned.

Miss Ingledue Delivers Talk

Miss Ingledue's talk was instructive as well as intensely interesting. She said in part: "I think I love and reverence all arts equally, only putting my own just above the others, for in it I see the union and culmination of them all. It seems to me that when God created the world, that was poetry; He colored it and that was painting; He formed it and that was sculpture; He peopled it with human beings and that was the grand, divine, eternal drama."

"We cannot fully appreciate the present without some knowledge of the past and, hence I must tell of the beginnings of the Little Theater movement in France in the free theater directed by Anton Antoine. She stated that the term "free," meant freedom from dictation as to the type of play that might be given.

She traced the development further through Germany, Russia, Ireland, England and later in America, pointing out distinct contributions to the field of drama in each country. She said she knew of no record of the first Little Theater play ever produced in America. However she spoke of Gorboduc by Sackville and Norton, the first English tragedy produced in 1562, of Ralph Roister Doister, by Nicholas Udall: Fashion, by Anna Cora Mowett, the first play written by an American woman and produced in America.

In discussing problems common to any amateur theater group. Miss Ingledue presented many factors which might point toward greater success in our own Little Theater.

Referring to the fact that in the beginning of the Little Theater movement most of the plays presented were one-act plays, and many of an experimental nature, she illustrated this and climaxed her lecture recital with the presentation of a one-character, one-act play.

Mr. And Mrs. Beasley Observe Anniversary

An event claiming prominence in social circles and of charming sentiment was the silver wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. B. Beasley at their hospitable home in West Monroe on November 16.

Mrs. Beasley, wearing a beautiful evening model of blue moire, shading into purple with corsage of white roses and valley lilies stood with Mr. Beasley in the reception suite banked with gift flowers and radiant with candlelight. Tapers in silver candelabra gleamed in the midst of white roses, white chrysanthemums on mantels and low tables.

The coffee table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome Mosaic lace over white satin and florally adorned with a mound of white roses, valley lilies and shaggy white chrysanthemums. White tapers in silver candlesticks encircled the blossoms.

A handsome coffee service at one end of the table was presided over by Mrs. F. C. Allison wearing a white crepe evening model and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf wearing a smart black satin evening model with short black sequin jacket. Luscious sandwiches, a variety of silver embossed cakes and other confections were passed among the guests on immense silver trays by Miss Jean Hebert, Miss Sally Breard, Miss Mary Wigley, Mrs. Ernest Whitfield, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Jack Carpenter, Mrs. Alfred Reid, Mrs. Russell Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Beasley were assisted in the courtesies by Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McDonald. Mrs. McDonald was a lovely figure in black chiffon and lace evening model with corsage of Talisman roses.

Handsome gifts of silver were showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Beasley, conspicuous among them being the beautiful silver tray presented to Mrs. Beasley by her husband. Telegrams of a congratulatory nature were received throughout the day.

A beautiful three-tiered wedding cake embossed with silver, was one of the outstanding gifts and claimed prominence from its place of vantage on the buffet.

Camp Fire Girls Face Busy Week

Three days of unalloyed pleasure are in store for Camp Fire girls, with a supper party Monday night at the Methodist church annex as the initial event. A "pep" meeting Tuesday night at Camp Fire headquarters on St. John street is being eagerly anticipated. The tea on Wednesday between the hours of 4 and 5 with guardians, council members and Camp Fire girls acting as hostesses will complete the activities. The committee in charge of the week's activities comprises Mrs. Parker McComb, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Mrs. D. I. Garrett, Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Miss May Faulk, Mrs. J. G. Cobb, Mrs. F. B. Neeley and the council president, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

The presence in the city of Miss Eldora DeMot, national executive of New York City, is the inspiration for the three-day program. Miss DeMot will be the guest of honor at the dinner Monday night and the tea Wednesday afternoon. Her message to the Camp Fire girls and members of the council will be the highlight of each affair.

Miss DeMot received her B. A. degree from Fresno college, California. She was president of the student body and prominent in athletics and dramatics. To help defray he rexpenses she worked on the Fresno playgrounds directing athletics and club programs, and it was through this work that she began her professional connections with the department of recreations and playgrounds at Fresno where she worked three years. Then she went to Bakersfield, Calif., and joined the staff of the Kern County High school and junior college, first as a teacher in the department of physical education and later as head of the department. Her work brought her in touch with all the girls and the direction of the school's social and club activities came under her supervision. Her enthusiasm, sincerity, vivid personality and sympathetic understanding made her a real friend of all the girls in school. She became very much interested in Camp Fire, was a Camp Fire guardian herself and served as a member of the committee of awards. The Camp Fire program is so popular in Kern county that it is the outstanding club activity for girls, and school credit is given for membership.

Summer was a time of enriching experiences for Eldora DeMot. She attended the Sierra summer sessions of the Fresno college, University of California at Los Angeles, at Huntington Lake, Calif., and one summer session at Columbia university in New York, and the University of Hawaii in Honolulu. For four years she directed the camp of the Kern county Camp Fire girls. She loves outdoor life and hiking and has some rather exceptional achievements to her credit. "She has scaled the top of Half Dome (Yosemite Valley) a feat not often accomplished by a woman. This accomplishment required a good many miles of rough hiking to reach the base of this barren, unfissured glacier polished granite rock, where her hiking shoes were exchanged for shoes with rubber soles for the final climb of more than 1,000 feet at an angle of 45 degrees. This granite cliff has had eye bolts driven into it, and through these bolts a cable of rope is passed so the climbers may have assistance. When Eldora DeMot scaled Half Dome, the first woman of that season, the cable was down, making her feat the more remarkable. She has also swum, more than once, further than a half mile across an icy mountain lake, at an elevation of 7,200 feet, and has killed rattle snakes with a revolver."

So, you see, she is resourceful, quick-witted and courageous, and she has staying qualities as well as enthusiasm.

Dr. Tiebout Gives Lecture

The first lecture of a series of nine on the subject of the "Understanding and Training of the Child," was delivered at the Central Grammar school by Dr. Carolyn Tiebout, child specialist who is associated with the extension department of Louisiana State university. The course is being sponsored by the Twin City council of the P.-T. A.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the council, introduced the speaker, who gave a highly instructive talk on the child of pre-school age showing his development year by year through the various physical, emotional and intellectual stages.

Later lectures will have to do with the school age leading up through the various grades and giving consideration to the various problems that confront teachers and parents.

For two years after receiving the Ph.D degree, Dr. Tiebout remained at the University of Iowa as research associate in the psychology department, working under the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. In this capacity she conducted studies on the artistic abilities of children in the Iowa pre-school laboratories and elementary school; in the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, and in the public schools of Des Moines and Milwaukee.

Book Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. E. C. Gibson entertained members of the Welcome branch of the Twentieth Century Book club, with Mrs. M. R. Hausher as co-hostess, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. D. M. Moore gave an interesting and descriptive talk on France. Mrs. Moore said that to the average tourist France means Paris or the Riviera, but to the thoughtful student the smaller cities, the pleasant rural sections, and the beautiful mountains are hardly less attractive. The great figures of history live again as upon a stage that is set for them in the medieval castles and chateaux.

Mrs. Marvyn Johnson reviewed in a capable manner the biography of Lonis Hemon, a French novelist. She said, in part, "Lonis Hemon was the son of Felix Hemon, an inspector general of the University of Brest. The son showed little interest in the literary work of his country, so while still a young man, he migrated to London. It was there that two novels of London life, along with eight other novels came from the pen of Louis Hemon. His last book, on the French Canadian farm life, gained much popularity in 1920.

Mrs. George Marsh read two original poems, "Be Still," and "Give Thanks," which added a distinctive note to the afternoon's program.

Members present were Mesdames J. Norman Coon, Frank E. Black, Henson Coon, H. H. Douglas, C. A. Dunaway, K. S. Elliott, W. C. Faulk, H. J. Fernandez, V. S. Garnett, Marvin Johnson, George Marsh, D. M. Moore, J. D. Petty, Dean Selig, Don Shattuck, Dudley Stone, J. W. Treadwell, J. R. White, C. E. Woodham, Warren W. Gregory and S. A. Caldwell.

Two Weddings Claim Interest Of Society In Local Area

Impressive Ceremony At Grace Episcopal Church Unites Two Prominent Monroe Families

Grace Episcopal church was the scene of one of the most brilliant and most prominent weddings of recent years on Thursday night, November 19, when Miss Sue Graves, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Quintus Graves, and Mr. King Stubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guyton Palmer Stubbs, were united in marriage in the presence of a fashionable concourse of friends and relatives.

Simplicity and solemnity characterized every detail of the impressive ceremony performed by Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church. Cascades of cathedral tapers burned in the shadowy recesses of the altar where drifts of snowy chrysanthemums overflowed from white pedestal baskets and formed a lane down which the bride and bridegroom walked to receive the benediction received on bended knee before a shining cross symbolical of the Episcopal service.

Southern smilax, studded with white chrysanthemums, festooned the stately white columns and the circular chandeliers high overhead. Sprays of white chrysanthemums and bridal tulle marked the pews set aside for members of the two families and intimate friends. A white carpeted aisle led from the rear of the church to the chrysanthemum-banked nave where Dr. Hayward and Mr. Stubbs awaited the bride.

While the wedding guests were being seated Mr. Roger Frisbie, organist, rendered a brilliant nuptial concert and accompanied Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., who sang impressively and beautifully, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy," an old German love song by Cantor. Mr. Kendall Hearne of Ruston sang in splendid voice "Until." Mrs. Trousdale was a charming figure in white evening model with corsage of Talisman roses.

At the appointed hour, 7 o'clock, the groomsmen, in immaculate evening attire and boutonieres of valley lilies, walked down the aisle two abreast to the strains of Lohengrin. They were Mr. John Theus, Jr., Mr. James Trousdale, Mr. Benjamin Dawkins, of Shreveport, Dr. Prentice Gray, Jr., Mr. Victor Davis, and Mr. Kenneth Brown. Mr. G. P. Stubbs, Jr., acted in the capacity of best man.

The maid of honor, Miss Ella Jesse of Arlington, Va., wore a willow leaf green transparent velvet model entrain, with short puffed sleeves and cowl neck and low decolletage to the waistline in the back. A halo velvet turban with tulle, off-the-face brim was most flattering. An arm bouquet of superb white chrysanthemums tied with leaf green satin ribbons was carried.

The two flower girls, Joan Snelling, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Snelling, and Helen Reeves Hardwick of Tuscaloosa, Ala., wore taffeta, floor length frocks of willow leaf taffeta with chaplets of white chrysanthemums and carried colonial bouquets of white pom-pom chrysanthemums and valley lilies.

Miss Graves, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, was the ideal bride in her Emily gown of heavy white Duchess satin of elegant simplicity. It was molded to the figure and buttoned to the neck from the waistline with self covered satin buttons. The flaring collar framed the face and the sleeves were long and tight fitting. The sweeping skirt ended in a long court train. Most becoming to the bride's cameo-like features was the Mary Queen of Scots cap of rose point lace attached to the misty veil of illusion that billowed far beyond the train. The master stroke was the arm bouquet of waxen calla lilies tied with lengths of white satin ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Graves home on Riverside drive, where the wedding party stood in the handsome drawing room to receive the guests. The entire party was reflected in the superb gold framed floor length mirrors placed at either end of the drawing room. Dr. and Mrs. Graves and their daughter, Miss Jean Graves, in blue taffeta evening gown, assisted in receiving. Mrs. Graves wore a beautiful Burgundy colored velvet model with close-fitting velvet hat of the same color. Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Sr., mother and father of the bridegroom, also assisted. Mrs. Stubbs wore a lovely black net model, with bands of velvet edging the floor length skirt.

The gifts, with handsome silver, china and crystal predominating, were on display in the music room. Claiming interest was the cablegram from London, England, expressing the well wishes of Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn.

The bride, one of the most attractive members of the younger set, was graduated from Sweet Briar college in Virginia, rnd studied for one year abroad at the Villa Collina Ridente in Florence, Italy. Her paternal grandfather, the late Mr. J. Q. Graves, was a prominent planter and extensive land owner of Caldwell parish. Her maternal grandfather was Mr. William Harrison Holloman of Harrisonburg, La., one of the most influential and prominent men in this section of the state.

Mr. Stubbs was graduated from Tulane university, and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is a promising young architect, associated with the firm of J. W. Smith and Associates. Mr. Stubbs is the grandson of the late Colonel Frank P. Stubbs, outstanding member of the Louisiana bar and one of the most prominent men in this section of Louisiana. The Stubbs family has long been identified with the civic, cultural and social life of this city. The ancestral home, the "Cedars," a landmark, will be the home for the time being of Mr. Stubbs and his bride. Mr. Stubbs on his maternal side is the grandson of the late Judge W. W. King of San Antonio, Tex.

The wedding of Miss Graves and Mr. Stubbs took place on the wedding anniversary of Mr. Stubbs' parents.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, Jr., and Mr. Clarence W. King of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chumney of San Antonio, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith of Shreveport, and Miss Ella Jesse of Arlington, Va. Many friends from Columbia were also present, including Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Sherman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Bridger, Mrs. Roy Lee Adams, Mrs. C. O. Hopkins, Mrs. L. C. Mums, Mrs. A. D. Bridger, Miss Roberta Rridger, Miss Evelyn Jarrell, Miss Lucille Jarrell, Miss Ruth Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, Mr. and Mrs. McClanahan, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Blanks, Miss Lily Blanks, Judge and Mrs. G. A. Barnett of Ruston, Mr. T. J. Matthews, of Extension, La., Mrs. Leo Read of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miss Charlotte Davis And Dr. Parrot Wed

Baptist Church At Ruston Is Scene Of One Of Most Beautiful Marriages Of Year

Cathedral tapers gleaming beneath the vaulted, stained glass windows and flaming high on the altar of the First Baptist church of Ruston formed the luminous background for the impressive double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis, daughter of Mrs. Robert Wesley Davis and the late Mr. R. W. Davis, and Dr. Robert Upshaw Parrot, son of Mrs. John L. Parrot and the late Mr. Parrot of Smithville, Tex., Sunday evening, November 15, at 8 eight o'clock, with Rev. H. L. Johns of Monroe and Rev. W. J. Bolin of Ruston officiating.

A bridal theme was beautifully portrayed in the picturesque sheaves of superb white chrysanthemums placed against a curtain of southern smilax in the background of the altar and overflowing from tall white floor pedestals linked together with clouds of misty tulle. A triple peer glass mirror surmounted with calla lilies and loops of silvery illusion reflected the flaming tapers and the lily banked altar. In each window was placed a white, pyramid shaped, candelabrum supporting tapers that burned steadily during the ceremony. In the radiance of the candles' gleam and bride and her lovely attendants walked down the white carpeted aisle to the altar where Dr. Parrot and his best man, his brother, Lieutenant John Hurston Parrot of Annapolis, Md., awaited.

A concert of exceptional charm was rendered while the guests were being seated in the pews adorned with white chrysanthemums and white bridal tulle. Mrs. E. S. Kidd, organist, accompaned Mrs. Erin McKean, who sang in beautiful voice "Calm is the Night" by Bohn and "L'Amour Toujour L'Amour" by Rudolph Friml. Mr. Garland Shell, a former pupil of the bride, sang impressively Cadman's "At Dawning" and "Because" by D'Hardelot. During the ceremony Mrs. Kidd rendered, pianissimo, "Meditation," from Thais, by Massanet.

The bride's attendants were her cousins, Miss Lucille Long of Shreveport Miss Rose Long of New Orleans, Mrs. Jack Ducaunau of New Orleans, her aunt, Mrs. Stewart Hunt of Ruston, and Misses Mary Ellen Stebbins and Dorothy Stebbins of Garyville, La., Miss Frances Davidson, Miss Alene Thurman, Mrs. Drew Hayes and Mrs. Moore Decker. Her sister, Mrs. Felton Greene, served as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids wore empire models of beauty velvet with drop shoulders edged with pleated ruffles and high monk collars clasped with handsome rhinestone pins. The sleeves of net in the same shade were long and the decolletage was low to the waistline in the back. They carried artistic muffs of horizon blue velvet adorned with sprays of American Beauty roses and valley lilies tied with long fluttering lengths of horizon blue and American Beauty reversible satin ribbon. A casual finishing touch was the two-toned velvet halo turbans with nose length veils of tulle fastened with rhinestone clips.

The bridegroom and his best man an attendants, Mr. Donald Hale of Vicksburg, Mr. F. E. DePriest of Shreveport, Mr. N. Linenbark of New Orleans, Dr. Scott Hamilton of Monroe, Dr. Ragan Green, Mr. Warren Davis, Mr. Moore Decker, Mr. Jack Ducaunau, M. Merrill Goodwyn and Mr. William Gray were in immaculate evening attire, de rigueur of a formal wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. Felton Greene wore the traditional wedding gown of heavy white Duchess satin fashioned along the graceful lines of the Empire era. The neckline was high and the sleeves long and tight fitting. The skirt swept the floor and ended in a long court train. A halo cap of rose point lace was fastened with a chaplet of orange blossoms. The billowy veil of bridal illusion, sweeping beyond the train of her wedding gown, was overlaid with a shorter veil of Brussell's lace. She carried a superb sheaf of calla lilies and valley lilies in her arms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The spacious hall and drawing room with its handsome furnishings supplied a dignified background for the bride and brideroom, who stood with the wedding party to receive the guests who pressed forward to offer their well wishes and congratulations. Mrs. Davis, in the receiving line, wore a Napoleon blue velvet evening model with corsage of Briercliff roses. Mrs. Parrot, the bridegroom's mother wore a handsome Burgundy lace model with corsage of Pernet roses.

Iced fruit frappe and individual wedding cakes were served by a coterie of beautifully gowned matrons, intimate friends of the bride. The cutting of the three-tiered wedding cake surmounted with a valley lily embossed arch and wedding bell, was a beautiful ceremony. The bride's table was overlaid with handsome Point Venise lace over white satin with antique silver candelabra supporting tall white tapers. Silver compotes held wedding ring mints and other confections embossed in valley lilies. The individual wedding cakes were embossed in miniature bride's bouquets.

The bride changed her wedding raimant for a smart tailleur of Hunter's green wool with red fox furs and all accessories of green. A corsage of orchids added a distinctive note.

Following the honeymoon, Dr. Parrot and his bride will take up residence in Ansley, La., where he is engaged in the practice of medicine.

This wedding was of considerable social import due to the prominence of the bride's family, members of which have taken an active part in the civic, professional and cultural life of this state for generations. The bride is the daughter of one of the most prominent lumbermen in this section of the state, the late Mr. R. W. Davis. Her mother, the former Miss Charlotte Long, a recognized belle and sister of the late Senator Huey P. Long, is a prominent figure in the social life of this section of the state. Mrs. Parrot attended Brenau college, Gainesville, Ga., and received her degree as bachelor of music from the Louisiana State university. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Delta Gamma Delta and Sigma Alpha musical sororities. For the past two years Mrs. Parrot has been a member of the faculty of Northeast Center of L. S. U.

Dr. Parrot attended Rice institute, the University of Texas and was graduated from the L. S. U. school of medicine.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Julius Long, Mr. James Long of Shreveport; Mr. Laurin Dana of Waldo, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. Don McLure of Alexandria; Miss Naomie Parrot of Smithville, Tex.; Mrs. Cecil Calvin of Texas; Dr. and Mrs. McGinty McBride of Hodge; Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert, Mrs. Florence Powers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Dr. and Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. Clyde Mitchell, Mrs. DeWitt Milam, Mrs. Harold Mouk, Mrs. D. A. Bradford, Miss Eve Bradford, Miss Maible Hood, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie and daughter, Miss Nibby McKenzie and Mr. John Hunt, of Monroe.

Phi Kappas Plan Ball December 29; Numerous Other Parties Herald Yuletide Season

By Eve Bradford

ORION, glorious constellation of winter, is now sweeping across the sky, reminding us that cold weather is at hand. There is grandeur and majesty in this procession of stars across the November sky which gives us a better understanding of the beauties of the world in which we live.

The bright stars, however are not the only reminders of the approaching holidays with the traditional tinsel and glamour and joy and merriment. Dates, now being announced for the Yuletide balls serve to remind us we will soon be caught up in the whirl of events, without which the Christmas season would be barren indeed.

Members of Eta chapter Phi Kappa can always be depended on to select at an early date the time and place for their annual Yuletide ball. True to form they announced yesterday that December 29 will be the night of nights. Another reminder of the approaching holidays is the glittering baubles and silver sprinkled trees in the department stores where Christmas shopping is already under way. If you are one of those perspicacious shoppers who take a delight in a calm procedure; one of those persons who make the rest of us gnash our teeth the week before Christmas with their exasperating remarks of "O, I had mine wrapped days ago," then you can start right in making your purchases and enjoy also the Yuletide atmosphere, as everything is in readiness for the big rush. You can wait and go completely mad with the crowd the last few days before Christmas and even wait until excitement is at its height on Christmas eve. We're just trying to arouse your attention to one important fact—that the holidays are very close at hand.

Sally Hodges has already received her Christmas gift from her son-in-law, Vernon Maish. Last week when she started on an automobile trip to Atlanta he had a dandy little heater installed in her car as a protection against cold weather.

If all the requests for fur coats for Christmas gifts are granted, all the fur bearing animals in the country will have to be corralled. The most ingenious method of fighting back at biting winter winds is to wear a fur coat. Almost every woman we know, is muffled in a big warm one and those who are not already in possession, are expecting Santa to bring one. Mat Hirsch is wearing one of the smartest short capes of black galyak we have seen this winter. Lottie Breard is wearing a sealskin coat and Eola Rogers is wearing a swanky, full length black fur cape. Suzanne Kellogg is wearing a grey squirrel coat and Doris Beaman is openly defying old man winter in a Japanese mink, full length coat. Lida Oliver enjoys the warmth of her moleskin cape on cold days and Suzanne Hirsch is the very essence of charm in her handsome grey mole coat. Bertha Marie Masur is still another who will meet the biting wind of winter in a beautiful mink coat.

Don't forget the fripperies! You don't know what is a "frippery?" The little feather on your hat, the initial on your guest towel, that dab of polish on your nails, the little curl over your ear and the perfumed bath salts. It's the same in food—parsley on the potatoes, mint in the iced tea, designs on the cake frosting, a cherry in your cocktail, a dab of whipped cream on your dessert. No, they are not necessary. You can wear untrimmed dresses, you can live in pictureless rooms, you can eat boiled carrots every day—but it won't be much fun. All the fripperies in cooking were brought into play last week when breakfast parties, luncheons, afternoon teas and dinners kept hostesses and maitre d'hotels on the qui vive. Seeking for something different, Mrs. Wood Thompson, Mrs. Carey Thompson and Mrs. Elizabeth King arranged for the serving of a cafe brulot as a climax to their luncheon for Sue Graves at the Frances hotel. It was a real ceremony with the bowl rubbed with orange and lemon peel, spices dropped into the burning brandy and then mixed with the coffee and served in demi tasse cups. New also was the cooking of turkey in wine and served at the Virginia hotel when Dr. Prentice Gray acted as host at dinner.

We have been reminded over and over again that "life begins at forty." Mary Pickford is the living proof of the truth of Einstein's law about the relativity of time. For she defies the years and embalms her youthful ways. The age-old question about the wisdom of feminine age marrying masculine youth is again the subject discussed over the tea cups. Then there is Mrs. Simpson—her example should be a great encouragement to middle-aged women. Looking at the achievement of one who may be England's future queen, they can take heart to cultivate their own self-assurance. We overheard a conversation the other day between several high school girls. One of them said that "Mrs. Simpson is a downright smart woman. She knows how to look out for No. 1. Twenty-five dollars worth of flowers every day. Millions of dollars worth of jewels. Marrying a real king! Gee! Wouldn't you love to have a few lessons from her?" What effect will her example have on young girls of today is the question mothers are asking.

Speaking of young girls, it was a sight for tired eyes to watch those beautiful young things dancing at Lakeside Country club Friday night when the sub-deb daughters of the Charles McKenzies and the James A. Noes took the spotlight. Trust these young things to don black. Barbara was wearing a robe de style black taffeta, dramatized with a touch of brilliant color. Gay was wearing a silvery looking evening gown, dazzling enough to attract every member of the stag line. In fact every young thing who danced past the stag line was a vision. Not until you see the really young set in action and garbed in glorious raiment do you fully realize that another generation is forging ahead ready to take a bow.

Sue Graves, as a bride, quite lived up to the expectations of friends. Simplicity, that elusive something that stands for elegance, was skillfully woven into the scheme of things and stood out like a golden thread in a piece of rare tapestry. To trim a wedding gown of luminous satin is almost like trying to gild the lily. Sue's gown was divinely simple and clung to her figure in heavy, rich folds. The white rose-point lace fashioned into the quaint Mary Queen of Scots cap was a real inspiration—nothing else could have been quite so satisfying. Alda Graves, Sue's mother, was almost as youthful looking as her daughters in her handsome Burgundy velvet gown with smart little velvet turban. In fact the whole Graves family was worthy of special mention on this memorable occasion with handsome Jim Graves in the background but very much in the foreground insofar as personality and force of character are concerned.

Miss Ingledue's talk was instructive as well as intensely interesting. She said in part: "I think I love and reverence all arts equally, only putting my own just above the others, for in it I see the union and culmination of them all. It seems to me that when God created the world, that was poetry: He colored it and that was painting; He formed it and that was sculpture; He peopled it with human beings and that was the grand, divine, eternal drama."

"We cannot fully appreciate the present without some knowledge of the past and, hence I must tell of the beginnings of the Little Theater movement in France in the free theater directed by Anton Antoine. She stated that the term "free," meant freedom from dictation as to the type of play that might be given.

She traced the development further through Germany, Russia, Ireland, England and later in America, pointing out distinct contributions to the field of drama in each country. She said she knew of no record of the first Little Theater play ever produced in America. However she spoke of Gorboduc by Sackville and Norton, the first English tragedy produced in 1562, of Ralph Roister Doister, by Nicholas Udall: Fashion, by Anna Cora Mowett, the first play written by an American woman and produced in America.

In discussing problems common to any amateur theater group. Miss Ingledue presented many factors which might point toward greater success in our own Little Theater.

Referring to the fact that in the beginning of the Little Theater movement most of the plays presented were one-act plays, and many of an experimental nature, she illustrated this and climaxed her lecture recital with the presentation of a one-character, one-act play.

Mr. And Mrs. Beasley Observe Anniversary

An event claiming prominence in social circles and of charming sentiment was the silver wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. B. Beasley at their hospitable home in West Monroe on November 16.

Mrs. Beasley, wearing a beautiful evening model of blue moire, shading into purple with corsage of white roses and valley lilies stood with Mr. Beasley in the reception suite banked with gift flowers and radiant with candlelight. Tapers in silver candelabra gleamed in the midst of white roses, white chrysanthemums on mantels and low tables.

The coffee table in the dining room was overlaid with handsome Mosaic lace over white satin and florally adorned with a mound of white roses, valley lilies and shaggy white chrysanthemums. White tapers in silver candlesticks encircled the blossoms.

A handsome coffee service at one end of the table was presided over by Mrs. F. C. Allison wearing a white crepe evening model and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf wearing a smart black satin evening model with short black sequin jacket. Luscious sandwiches, a variety of silver embossed cakes and other confections were passed among the guests on immense silver trays by Miss Jean Hebert, Miss Sally Breard, Miss Mary Wigley, Mrs. Ernest Whitfield, Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Jack Carpenter, Mrs. Alfred Reid, Mrs. Russell Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Beasley were assisted in the courtesies by Mr. and Mrs. M. C. McDonald. Mrs. McDonald was a lovely figure in black chiffon and lace evening model with corsage of Talisman roses.

Handsome gifts of silver were showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Beasley, conspicuous among them being the beautiful silver tray presented to Mrs. Beasley by her husband. Telegrams of a congratulatory nature were received throughout the day.

A beautiful three-tiered wedding cake embossed with silver, was one of the outstanding gifts and claimed prominence from its place of vantage on the buffet.

Camp Fire Girls Face Busy Week

Three days of unalloyed pleasure are in store for Camp Fire girls, with a supper party Monday night at the Methodist church annex as the initial event. A "pep" meeting Tuesday night at Camp Fire headquarters on St. John street is being eagerly anticipated. The tea on Wednesday between the hours of 4 and 5 with guardians, council members and Camp Fire girls acting as hostesses will complete the activities. The committee in charge of the week's activities comprises Mrs. Parker McComb, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Mrs. D. I. Garrett, Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Miss May Faulk, Mrs. J. G. Cobb, Mrs. F. B. Neeley and the council president, Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

The presence in the city of Miss Eldora DeMot, national executive of New York City, is the inspiration for the three-day program. Miss DeMot will be the guest of honor at the dinner Monday night and the tea Wednesday afternoon. Her message to the Camp Fire girls and members of the council will be the highlight of each affair.

Miss DeMot received her B. A. degree from Fresno college, California. She was president of the student body and prominent in athletics and dramatics. To help defray he rexpenses she worked on the Fresno playgrounds directing athletics and club programs, and it was through this work that she began her professional connections with the department of recreations and playgrounds at Fresno where she worked three years. Then she went to Bakersfield, Calif., and joined the staff of the Kern County High school and junior college, first as a teacher in the department of physical education and later as head of the department. Her work brought her in touch with all the girls and the direction of the school's social and club activities came under her supervision. Her enthusiasm, sincerity, vivid personality and sympathetic understanding made her a real friend of all the girls in school. She became very much interested in Camp Fire, was a Camp Fire guardian herself and served as a member of the committee of awards. The Camp Fire program is so popular in Kern county that it is the outstanding club activity for girls, and school credit is given for membership.

Summer was a time of enriching experiences for Eldora DeMot. She attended the Sierra summer sessions of the Fresno college, University of California at Los Angeles, at Huntington Lake, Calif., and one summer session at Columbia university in New York, and the University of Hawaii in Honolulu. For four years she directed the camp of the Kern county Camp Fire girls. She loves outdoor life and hiking and has some rather exceptional achievements to her credit. "She has scaled the top of Half Dome (Yosemite Valley) a feat not often accomplished by a woman. This accomplishment required a good many miles of rough hiking to reach the base of this barren, unfissured glacier polished granite rock, where her hiking shoes were exchanged for shoes with rubber soles for the final climb of more than 1,000 feet at an angle of 45 degrees. This granite cliff has had eye bolts driven into it, and through these bolts a cable of rope is passed so the climbers may have assistance. When Eldora DeMot scaled Half Dome, the first woman of that season, the cable was down, making her feat the more remarkable. She has also swum, more than once, further than a half mile across an icy mountain lake, at an elevation of 7,200 feet, and has killed rattle snakes with a revolver."

So, you see, she is resourceful, quick-witted and courageous, and she has staying qualities as well as enthusiasm.

Dr. Tiebout Gives Lecture

The first lecture of a series of nine on the subject of the "Understanding and Training of the Child," was delivered at the Central Grammar school by Dr. Carolyn Tiebout, child specialist who is associated with the extension department of Louisiana State university. The course is being sponsored by the Twin City council of the P.-T. A.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, president of the council, introduced the speaker, who gave a highly instructive talk on the child of pre-school age showing his development year by year through the various physical, emotional and intellectual stages.

Later lectures will have to do with the school age leading up through the various grades and giving consideration to the various problems that confront teachers and parents.

For two years after receiving the Ph.D degree, Dr. Tiebout remained at the University of Iowa as research associate in the psychology department, working under the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. In this capacity she conducted studies on the artistic abilities of children in the Iowa pre-school laboratories and elementary school; in the Merrill-Palmer school in Detroit, and in the public schools of Des Moines and Milwaukee.

Book Club Holds Meeting

Mrs. E. C. Gibson entertained members of the Welcome branch of the Twentieth Century Book club, with Mrs. M. R. Hausher as co-hostess, Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. D. M. Moore gave an interesting and descriptive talk on France. Mrs. Moore said that to the average tourist France means Paris or the Riviera, but to the thoughtful student the smaller cities, the pleasant rural sections, and the beautiful mountains are hardly less attractive. The great figures of history live again as upon a stage that is set for them in the medieval castles and chateaux.

Mrs. Marvyn Johnson reviewed in a capable manner the biography of Lonis Hemon, a French novelist. She said, in part, "Lonis Hemon was the son of Felix Hemon, an inspector general of the University of Brest. The son showed little interest in the literary work of his country, so while still a young man, he migrated to London. It was there that two novels of London life, along with eight other novels came from the pen of Louis Hemon. His last book, on the French Canadian farm life, gained much popularity in 1920.

Mrs. George Marsh read two original poems, "Be Still," and "Give Thanks," which added a distinctive note to the afternoon's program.

Members present were Mesdames J. Norman Coon, Frank E. Black, Henson Coon, H. H. Douglas, C. A. Dunaway, K. S. Elliott, W. C. Faulk, H. J. Fernandez, V. S. Garnett, Marvin Johnson, George Marsh, D. M. Moore, J. D. Petty, Dean Selig, Don Shattuck, Dudley Stone, J. W. Treadwell, J. R. White, C. E. Woodham, Warren W. Gregory and S. A. Caldwell.

Miss Bertha Marie Masur Center Of Many Social Events

Popular Girl Will Wed During Holidays

Prominent Among Activities Is Reception-Tea Given By Mrs. Leibreich And Mrs. Weil

Society at the present moment is revolving around Miss Bertha Marie Masur, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur, whose marriage to Mr. Milton Gorn of New York City, will be a brilliant event of the Christmas holidays.

Prominent among the interesting events of the past week was the reception-tea with Mrs. Isadore Leibreich and Mrs. Daniel Weil as the gracious hostesses.

Orchid colored tapers in antique silver candelabra flamed at the four corners. Mrs. Sigmund Masur in a distinctive black lace model presided over the silver coffee urns and Mrs. Sylvian Masur, wearing a picturesque black marquisette model, presided over the tea service.

A luscious variety of edibles, including French and Swedish pastries, beautifully embossed petit fours, salted nuts and bon-bons, were passed among the guests on silver trays.

Miss Masur was again honored on Wednesday, when Mrs. Henry Haas and Mrs. Simon Friedlander were hostesses at luncheon.

Guests upon arrival in the Haas home were served refreshing aperitifs and a variety of hors d'oeuvres before luncheon was announced.

The lace draped luncheon table was developed in shades of yellow with the plaque of glorious, golden-hued chrysanthemums for central ornamentation. Crystal candelabra held yellow silhouette tapers. The yellow theme was charmingly portrayed in every detail of the faultlessly served five-course luncheon with demi-tasse served later in the living room.

Guests accepting this gracious hospitality, including Miss Masur, were Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Mrs. Percy Sandman, Mrs. Lee Kuhn, Mrs. Evelyn Reims, Mrs. Sylvian Masur, Mrs. Paula Erdman, Miss Mildred Cohen, Miss Gertrude Feazel and Miss Suzanne Hirsch.

Dancing Party At Country Club

Last week's social activities were not confined to the older crowd by any means. Youth played a most important part in the gayety that enveloped the city with the dancing party at Lakeside Country club, attracting the younger beau-monde en masse, one of the highlights of a crowded calendar.

Gay Noe and Barbara McKenzie, attractive sub-deb daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Noe and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, were the honor guests on this occasion with their parents in the role of hosts.

The spacious ballroom was in woodland attire with great branches of crimson, yellow and russet autumn leaves forming a canopy overhead. Shaggy chrysanthemums in the autumnal shades created additional color.

Miss Noe wore a shimmering frock of silver and silver sandals and Miss McKenzie wore a bouffant gown of black taffeta with drop shoulders. Both were the center of interest during the evening and were sought after sufficiently to have their lovely heads turned providing they were not placed squarely on their young shoulders.

Iced fruit frappe and confections were served throughout the evening, especially luscious being the mints in every imaginable color inscribed with "Gay" and "Babs."

Literary Guild Holds Meeting

"The Literary Play" was the topic of discussion for the afternoon. Mrs. T. J. Sandridge's paper, "Literature Returns to the Theater," was exceptionally interesting. Mrs. O. A. Easterling held the members of the club in rapt attention with a splendid review of "Winterset," by Maxwell Anderson. Mrs. J. G. Durrett in her inimitable fashion, gave a clever review of "Rain from Heaven," by S. N. Behram.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served a delicious salad course to the following members: Mrs. Herbert Breard, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. S. L. Digby, Mrs. J. G. Durrett, Mrs. O. A. Easterling, Mrs J. R. Humble, Mrs. E. M. McKoin, Mrs. T. J. Sandridge, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. Ned Wilson and Mrs. E. Holloway.

Columbia Residents Fete Miss Graves

Miss Sue Graves and a company of intimates enjoyed a motor trip to Columbia last week, where a beautiful reception complimentary to Miss Graves brought friends together in the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Sherman with Mrs. Hartley C. Bridger as co-hostess.

The decorations, reminiscent of the harvest season, were unusually colorful. Picturesque clusters of Japanese persimmons and purple grapes, and branches of crimson and gold autumn leaves banked the mantel in the dining room, where tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. L. C. Munn and Mrs. A. D. Bridger from handsome silver urns gracing either end of the lace covered table. A silver basket overflowing with purple and white grapes, pomegranates and persimmons formed the central decoration. Delicacies were served by a coterie of beautifully frocked young ladies: Misses Roberta Bridger, Evelyn Jarrell, Lucille Jarrell and Mary Ruth Miller.

The high moment of the afternoon was the presentation of handsome gifts to Miss Graves, who received them with characteristic charm.

Guests present were Dr. and Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. John Theus, Jr., Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis, Mrs. C. P. Jarrell, Mrs. Sallie Meredith, Mrs. W. S. Shafto and Miss Ella Jesse of Monroe, Mrs. J. J. Luncheon Held For Miss Sue Graves

Cafe brule was a fitting climax to a beautifully appointed luncheon in the private dining room of the Frances hotel complimentary to Miss Sue Graves with Mrs. Cary Thompson, Mrs. Wood Thompson and Mrs. Elizabeth King as hostesses.

A delectable array of appetizers accompanied the cocktails served the guests before the luncheon hour. Miss Graves wore one of her distinctive trousseau gowns, a navy wool tailleur with accessories of dubonnet on this occasion. A corsage, the gift of her hostesses, was also worn.

The luncheon table overlaid with Italian cut work was developed in the glowing shades of autumn with brilliant blue crystal used exclusively in the appointments. A flaring Venetian bowl held russet and golden chrysanthemums with fern fronds extending to the four corners. The unique place cards tied with sprays of valley lilies were of bridal significance. Five delicious courses were served with the blue flame of the burning liquer in the broad brimmed bowl engaging the attention of the guests who awaited their serving of cafe brule, following the ices and pastries.

In addition to Miss Graves the following guests enjoyed this distinctive affair: Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Earl Chumney, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Lee Read, Mrs. C. A. Barnette, Mrs. James Hardwick, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Miss Ella Jesse, Miss Dorothy Graves, Mrs. John Snelling and the three hostesses.

Miss Rozelle Caruso of Monroe and Mr. R. C. Johnson of Fort Worth were married Thursday afternoon at the First Christian church of Fort Worth.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home temporarily at 3310½ University drive, Fort Worth.

Preceding the ceremony the couple were honored at a luncheon at which Mrs. Fulton was hostess at her home, 2105 Hill Crest.

The interest of friends is centered in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Embanato of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose Embanato, to Mr. Leo Paul Ticheli, son of Mrs. Frank Ticheli, Sr., on December 15, at St. Matthew's Catholic church.

Normal Alumni Banquet Held

Claiming prominence among the events in connection with the convention in this city of the Louisiana Teachers association was the State Normal alumni banquet luncheon on Friday in the private dining room of the Frances hotel with the president of the Ouachita Normal Alumni association, Miss Kate Perkins, presiding.

The table appointments were of marked beauty from a floral standpoint and most ingenious from an educational standpoint. Miniature oil derricks encircled with miniature pine trees were placed at intervals along the chrysanthemum strewn board fringed with autumn leaves of brilliant hue. Clusters of Japanese persimmons added a colorful note.

The delectable five-course luncheon was interspersed with the following program:

Doxology—Led by Mr. D. M. Doughty.
Ouachita welcome—Kate E. Perkins.
Selection—Normal college boys' glee club.

Turkey Plays Important Role

If women had been doing the naming, no doubt the turkey and not the eagle would have become the national bird. Certainly it would have been more logical, for the turkey is native only to America, while species of the eagle are found in most parts of the world.

However, we women have no quarrel with the men on that subject. For, while the eagle is symbolic of strength and courage among nations, the turkey has become the symbol of hospitality and good fellowship in the American home.

Just why this all-American bird should have been given the misnomer "turkey" never has been clearly traced, for no part of Europe knew them until after 1530, when they were imported from America. Perhaps the plumage and strutting walk of some proud cock reminded a whimsical early settler of tales of a Turkish potentate. Or maybe some early exporter found the sale easier in Europe by telling that they came from that romantic land, rather than from poor, unimportant colonial America.

At any rate the turkey came into its own with the first Thanksgiving in 1621, and its popularity has increased with the years. In fact today the flawless perfection of the Thanksgiving dinner may be attributed in large part to the succulent tenderness of that fowl.

For the benefit of all the young brides who are preparing their first Thanksgiving dinner, a few hints on the baking of a turkey will not be amiss at this time.

After the turkey has been prepared for cooking stuff loosely with dressing. Draw the thigh close to the body and insert a steel skewer through the middle joint, running it through the body and out under the middle joint on the other side. Cross drumsticks, tie firmly with a long cord and fasten to the tail. Place wings close to the body and insert second skewer through the wings and body. Draw neck skin under back and fasten with small wooden skewer. Cross string attached to tail and wind it around each end of upper skewer, tie string in knots and cut off ends.

Place on back in roasting pan and rub entire surface with salt. Roast 20 minutes to the pound in a 350-degree oven, basting frequently. If you have chosen a tender young turkey, there will be plenty of fat for basting.

In a later article we will suggest a Thanksgiving day menu. However, just to get the turkey question thoroughly settled now, we are including the dressing recipe herewith.

Make a gash in each of two pounds of chestnuts and place in pan in hot oven for 10 minutes. Then remove shells and skins. Cook gently 20 minutes in enough boiling water to cover. Drain and chop fine. Add one cup cracker crumbs, one-fourth cup cream three-fourths cup hot milk, four tablespoons melted butter, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well and stuff loosely in turkey. Be sure to follow the "loosely" instruction carefully because dressing swells with roasting.

The K. B. S. enjoyed an al fresco affair in the gardens of Miss Elizabeth Reynolds' home Thursday night. The following members, pledges, and guests were there to participate in the evening's enjoyment: Frances Hood, Bob Hayward, Jack Lanham, Flossielee Doty, William Bowles, Jessie Kelly, Marie Arnold, Marie Pine, "Pug" Pierce, George Vaughan, Vaughn Payne. An interesting development of the youth of the Daughters of the American Revolution comes from the Boudinot chapter of Elizabeth, N. J.

There, according to a report received yesterday by local chapters, winners of the D. A. R. good citizenship medals in the schools are enthusiastically continuing their patriotic good work as the "Boudinot Citizenship club." Similar clubs, it is believed, will be organized by other chapters throughout the country.

The winners of the good citizenship medals organized because they "wanted to do things themselves." The club meets twice a month. A report from the Boudinot chapter national defense chairman, Mrs. Lena A. Hill, states:

"Results already show. Sixty young people in different walks of life, of different nationalities, of different abilities, of different opportunities, all realize more and more the duties and privileges of patriotism.

"The club discussions are exceedingly interesting and the members show a grasp of subjects, a knowledge of contributing factors and an ability and desire for research.

"Club members have taken part in several patriotic parades and have been active in flag presentations. They have helped in various schools in the good citizenship contests and have welcomed the new members into the club with an elaborate induction service. They are intensely interested in anything pertaining to the D. A. R."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McHenry and Mrs. C. C. Boardman were to return home today from a week's visit in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ivy will motor to Lebanon, Tenn., today to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with kinfolks.

Mrs. B. D. Hodges and daughter, Mrs. Vernon Maish, and Mrs. Janet Powell returned home Friday from a motor trip to Atlanta, Ga., where they were delightfully entertained in the new home of Mrs. Hodges' daughter, Mrs. Winston Craig, and Mr. Craig.

Mrs. Thomas Staples of Alexandria was a guest in the city last week and in attendance at the Stubbs-Graves wedding Thursday night.

Among the students arriving home for the Thanksgiving holidays with their parents will be Thomas Sullivan, Jr., who will arrive on Wednesday from the University of Texas.

Of interest to the many friends of Mrs. Carol Ketteringham is the announcement of her marriage to Mr. Walter Brown of Choudrant, on November 5, at 6:45 p.m., at the Methodist parsonage at Haughton, La. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Otis W. Spinks. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown.

Mrs. Arnold Bernstein, who has been under the care of a specialist in New Orleans for the past week is expected to return home today. Mrs. Bernstein's condition, friends will be glad to know, is greatly improved.

Two Weddings Claim Interest Of Society In Local Area

Impressive Ceremony At Grace Episcopal Church Unites Two Prominent Monroe Families

Grace Episcopal church was the scene of one of the most brilliant and most prominent weddings of recent years on Thursday night, November 19, when Miss Sue Graves, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Quintus Graves, and Mr. King Stubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guyton Palmer Stubbs, were united in marriage in the presence of a fashionable concourse of friends and relatives.

Simplicity and solemnity characterized every detail of the impressive ceremony performed by Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church. Cascades of cathedral tapers burned in the shadowy recesses of the altar where drifts of snowy chrysanthemums overflowed from white pedestal baskets and formed a lane down which the bride and bridegroom walked to receive the benediction received on bended knee before a shining cross symbolical of the Episcopal service.

Southern smilax, studded with white chrysanthemums, festooned the stately white columns and the circular chandeliers high overhead. Sprays of white chrysanthemums and bridal tulle marked the pews set aside for members of the two families and intimate friends. A white carpeted aisle led from the rear of the church to the chrysanthemum-banked nave where Dr. Hayward and Mr. Stubbs awaited the bride.

While the wedding guests were being seated Mr. Roger Frisbie, organist, rendered a brilliant nuptial concert and accompanied Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., who sang impressively and beautifully, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy," an old German love song by Cantor. Mr. Kendall Hearne of Ruston sang in splendid voice "Until." Mrs. Trousdale was a charming figure in white evening model with corsage of Talisman roses.

At the appointed hour, 7 o'clock, the groomsmen, in immaculate evening attire and bouttonieres of valley lilies, walked down the aisle two abreast to the strains of Lohengrin. They were Mr. John Theus, Jr., Mr. James Trousdale, Mr. Benjamin Dawkins, of Shreveport, Dr. Prentice Gray, Jr., Mr. Victor Davis, and Mr. Kenneth Brown. Mr. G. P. Stubbs, Jr., acted in the capacity of best man.

The maid of honor, Miss Ella Jesse of Arlington, Va., wore a willow leaf green transparent velvet model entrain, with short puffed sleeves and cowl neck and low decolletage to the waistline in the back. A halo velvet turban with tulle, off-the-face brim was most flattering. An arm bouquet of superb white chrysanthemums tied with leaf green satin ribbons was carried.

Miss Graves, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, was the ideal bride in her Emily gown of heavy white Duchess satin of elegant simplicity. It was molded to the figure and buttoned to the neck from the waistline with self covered satin buttons. The flaring collar framed the face and the sleeves were long and tight fitting. The sweeping skirt ended in a long court train. Most becoming to the bride's cameo-like features was the Mary Queen of Scots cap of rose point lace attached to the misty veil of illusion that billowed far beyond the train. The master stroke was the arm bouquet of waxen calla lilies tied with lengths of white satin ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Graves home on Riverside drive, where the wedding party stood in the handsome drawing room to receive the guests. The entire party was reflected in the superb gold framed floor length mirrors placed at either end of the drawing room. Dr. and Mrs. Graves and their daughter, Miss Jean Graves, in blue taffeta evening gown, assisted in receiving. Mrs. Graves wore a beautiful Burgundy colored velvet model with close-fitting velvet hat of the same color. Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Sr., mother and father of the bridegroom, also assisted. Mrs. Stubbs wore a lovely black net model, with bands of velvet edging the floor length skirt.

The gifts, with handsome silver, china and crystal predominating, were on display in the music room. Claiming interest was the cablegram from London, England, expressing the well wishes of Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn.

The bride, one of the most attractive members of the younger set, was graduated from Sweet Briar college in Virginia, and studied for one year abroad at the Villa Collina Ridente in Florence, Italy. Her paternal grandfather, the late Mr. J. Q. Graves, was a prominent planter and extensive land owner of Caldwell parish. Her maternal grandfather was Mr. William Harrison Holloman of Harrisonburg, La., one of the most influential and prominent men in this section of the state.

Mr. Stubbs was graduated from Tulane university, and is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He is a promising young architect, associated with the firm of J. W. Smith and Associates. Mr. Stubbs is the grandson of the late Colonel Frank P. Stubbs, outstanding member of the Louisiana bar and one of the most prominent men in this section of Louisiana. The Stubbs family has long been identified with the civic, cultural and social life of this city. The ancestral home, the "Cedars," a landmark, will be the home for the time being of Mr. Stubbs and his bride. Mr. Stubbs on his maternal side is the grandson of the late Judge W. W. King of San Antonio, Tex.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, Jr., and Mr. Clarence W. King of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chumney of San Antonio, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith of Shreveport, and Miss Ella Jesse of Arlington, Va. Many friends from Columbia were also present, including Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Sherman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Bridger, Mrs. Roy Lee Adams, Mrs. C. O. Hopkins, Mrs. L. C. Mums, Mrs. A. D. Bridger, Miss Roberta Rridger, Miss Evelyn Jarrell, Miss Lucille Jarrell, Miss Ruth Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke, Mr. and Mrs. McClanahan, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Blanks, Miss Lily Blanks, Judge and Mrs. G. A. Barnett of Ruston, Mr. T. J. Matthews, of Extension, La., Mrs. Leo Read of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miss Charlotte Davis And Dr. Parrot Wed

Cathedral tapers gleaming beneath the vaulted, stained glass windows and flaming high on the altar of the First Baptist church of Ruston formed the luminous background for the impressive double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Davis, daughter of Mrs. Robert Wesley Davis and the late Mr. R. W. Davis, and Dr. Robert Upshaw Parrot, son of Mrs. John L. Parrot and the late Mr. Parrot of Smithville, Tex., Sunday evening, November 15, at 8 eight o'clock, with Rev. H. L. Johns of Monroe and Rev. W. J. Bolin of Ruston officiating.

A bridal theme was beautifully portrayed in the picturesque sheaves of superb white chrysanthemums placed against a curtain of southern smilax in the background of the altar and overflowing from tall white floor pedestals linked together with clouds of misty tulle. A triple peer glass mirror surmounted with calla lilies and loops of silvery illusion reflected the flaming tapers and the lily banked altar. In each window was placed a white, pyramid shaped, candelabrum supporting tapers that burned steadily during the ceremony. In the radiance of the candles' gleam and bride and her lovely attendants walked down the white carpeted aisle to the altar where Dr. Parrot and his best man, his brother, Lieutenant John Hurston Parrot of Annapolis, Md., awaited.

A concert of exceptional charm was rendered while the guests were being seated in the pews adorned with white chrysanthemums and white bridal tulle. Mrs. E. S. Kidd, organist, accompaned Mrs. Erin McKean, who sang in beautiful voice "Calm is the Night" by Bohn and "L'Amour Toujour L'Amour" by Rudolph Friml. Mr. Garland Shell, a former pupil of the bride, sang impressively Cadman's "At Dawning" and "Because" by D'Hardelot. During the ceremony Mrs. Kidd rendered, pianissimo, "Meditation," from Thais, by Massanet.

The bride's attendants were her cousins, Miss Lucille Long of Shreveport Miss Rose Long of New Orleans, Mrs. Jack Ducaunau of New Orleans, her aunt, Mrs. Stewart Hunt of Ruston, and Misses Mary Ellen Stebbins and Dorothy Stebbins of Garyville, La., Miss Frances Davidson, Miss Alene Thurman, Mrs. Drew Hayes and Mrs. Moore Decker. Her sister, Mrs. Felton Greene, served as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids wore empire models of beauty velvet with drop shoulders edged with pleated ruffles and high monk collars clasped with handsome rhinestone pins. The sleeves of net in the same shade were long and the decolletage was low to the waistline in the back. They carried artistic muffs of horizon blue velvet adorned with sprays of American Beauty roses and valley lilies tied with long fluttering lengths of horizon blue and American Beauty reversible satin ribbon. A casual finishing touch was the two-toned velvet halo turbans with nose length veils of tulle fastened with rhinestone clips.

The bridegroom and his best man an attendants, Mr. Donald Hale of Vicksburg, Mr. F. E. DePriest of Shreveport. Mr. N. Linenbark of New Orleans, Dr. Scott Hamilton of Monroe, Dr. Ragan Green, Mr. Warren Davis, Mr. Moore Decker, Mr. Jack Ducaunau, M. Merrill Goodwyn and Mr. William Gray were in immaculate evening attire, de rigueur of a formal wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. Felton Greene wore the traditional wedding gown of heavy white Duchess satin fashioned along the graceful lines of the Empire era. The neckline was high and the sleeves long and tight fitting. The skirt swept the floor and ended in a long court train. A halo cap of rose point lace was fastened with a chaplet of orange blossoms. The billowy veil of bridal illusion, sweeping beyond the train of her wedding gown, was overlaid with a shorter veil of Brussell's lace. She carried a superb sheaf of calla lilies and valley lilies in her arms.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The spacious hall and drawing room with its handsome furnishings supplied a dignified background for the bride and brideroom, who stood with the wedding party to receive the guests who pressed forward to offer their well wishes and congratulations. Mrs. Davis, in the receiving line, wore a Napoleon blue velvet evening model with corsage of Briercliff roses. Mrs. Parrot, the bridegroom's mother wore a handsome Burgundy lace model with corsage of Pernet roses.

Iced fruit frappe and individual wedding cakes were served by a coterie of beautifully gowned matrons, intimate friends of the bride. The cutting of the three-tiered wedding cake surmounted with a valley lily embossed arch and wedding bell, was a beautiful ceremony. The bride's table was overlaid with handsome Point Venise lace over white satin with antique silver candelabra supporting tall white tapers. Silver compotes held wedding ring mints and other confections embossed in valley lilies. The individual wedding cakes were embossed in miniature bride's bouquets.

The bride changed her wedding raimant for a smart tailleur of Hunter's green wool with red fox furs and all accessories of green. A corsage of orchids added a distinctive note.

This wedding was of considerable social import due to the prominence of the bride's family, members of which have taken an active part in the civic, professional and cultural life of this state for generations. The bride is the daughter of one of the most prominent lumbermen in this section of the state, the late Mr. R. W. Davis. Her mother, the former Miss Charlotte Long, a recognized belle and sister of the late Senator Huey P. Long, is a prominent figure in the social life of this section of the state. Mrs. Parrot attended Brenau college, Gainesville, Ga., and received her degree as bachelor of music from the Louisiana State university. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Delta Gamma Delta and Sigma Alpha musical sororities. For the past two years Mrs. Parrot has been a member of the faculty of Northeast Center of L. S. U.

Dr. Parrot attended Rice institute, the University of Texas and was graduated from the L. S. U. school of medicine.

CHAPTER XIII

The day after the Chenault dance found Kate at home again and strangely restless. She said to the old servant in the middle of the afternoon, "Go rest yourself, Athy, and let me do the ironing!"

But Kate was not sleepy, in spite of the fact that she and her sister had risen quietly at 9 and driven home before the rest of the house-party was awake. She said to Althy, "I'm anything but sleepy. I'm not hungry today either. Just jittery."

Kate laughed. "He was for a while Althy, but afterward things were all right. That is—" she hesitated, "things were almost all right. Althy, what would you do if some woman tried to take Zeke away from you?"

The old woman's strong brown face took on a menacing look. "I'd make a little wax figure of 'er an' throw it in the fire and melt it down, dat's what I'd do! Or else I'd slash her with a sharp razor blade. I'd tend to 'er!"

"But that sort of stuffs not civilized," Kate said reprovingly. Actually she was not as horrified as Caroline would have been. Kate often prodded Althy and Zeke to glimpse the primitive Africa that lay just under the crust. Something primitive and reckless in her own nature responded, even while she scolded them.

Kate, as she worked, thought of the electric iron and sweeper and refrigerator that had been theirs at Meed Meadows. Those things that had lightened their housework. The mountaineer's property now, she remembered resentfully. Jeff Howard's. The Major had sold them to him, along with the lamps, because "Rickety House" was not wired. Had he set up housekeeping decently, she wondered. Or was he merely living there with his dogs, like a camper in a shack? She recalled his big, loose-knit frame, his narrowed eyes and disdainful smile, his drawling mountain voic that seemed to say more than it uttered, less than it meant. How she hated him! For days the hatred would lie dormant; then it would come seething up to leave her wild and shaken with its force.

She whispered now, in honest dismay, "I hate him more than I love Morgan. How can that be?" The mountaineer had become a giant in her path. At times she could not see around him.

Caroline came into the kitchen in kimono and bedroom slippers. The smooth ash-colored hair that she usually wore in a knot was now plaited in two childish braids. Kate was struck anew by the calmness and sweetness of this little sister who was two years her senior, yet seemed infinitely younger.

Kate said, "No help. Just sit. I think Althy's killing a snake. The chickens were making an awful stir, and after she went out I heard a lot of pounding and muttering. What was it you wanted to be reminded of today? Something about old Mrs. Dodd Chenault and a teapot—"

"Oh yes!" Caroline said. "The old lady's visiting the Chenaults, you know. She came from Lexington last week. Well, she came downstairs last night just before supper to look the party over. Didn't you see her, by the way?"

"No," Kate answered, not looking up, "I was outside with Morgan. Wasn't it sort of late for her to be up?"

"It was, of course, but everybody thought it was awfully cute of her. Going on 90, and coming down in a lace collar and false curls to look things over! The nurse was with her and she used a cane, but it was a risk on account of the slippery floors. We were all presented to her, and when she heard my name she began to talk about Meed Meadows. It seems she used to visit there when she was young. Before the Civil war—can you imagine that? Well, she wanted to know if the family'd ever recovered the tea service, and when I asked her what tea service, she said, 'Why, the big sterling silver one they used for General Lafayette, of course!'"

"Maybe not," Caroline said. "Old Mrs. Chenault seemed to be clear about it in her mind. She said the Meeds buried it during the Civil war, and when they went to look for it afterward, they couldn't find it. She said Mrs. Crutcher Meed—that's Grandad's mother—was so sensitive over losing it that she never would let anyone talk about it afterward."

"You mean," asked Kate slowly, "that it's supposed to be still buried? They never found it at all?"

Kate began to pace the floor. "It's prob'ly true," she said bitterly. "It's just our luck to have it be true. To hear about it too late."

Caroline nodded. "If we'd known sooner, we'd have had the whole yard dug up looking for it. We might have found it."

Kate paused in her pacing and pounded the table with her hands. "Yes," she said violently. "It's still there! It's on Jeff Howard's land! Our silver—!"

Caroline realized her excitement. "Don't take it that way, Kate I only told you because I thought it was a good story. I'd never have repeated it if I'd known you'd go to pieces like this—"

"I'm not going to pieces!" Kate stormed, which proved to Caroline that she was. "Where's Gran'dad? Where's Zeke? I'll find out if this thing's true or not—"

Althy entered the kitchen with an air of importance. "Done kilt a snake a yard long," she pronounced. "Hung 'im up head downwards fer luck, devilish thing. He was in the chicken house doah. I fix 'im!"

"He's daid all right," Althy assured her. She was about to go into gruesome details when Kate interrupted her impatiently. "Never mind that, Althy. Where's Gran'dad?"

Althy was resentful. It was not every day that she killed a snake. "Major Sam's jus' went in de front door," she said sullenly. "I reckon he went to get hisself a nap in de parlor. Leave 'm 'lone."

"He'll have to talk to me first," Kate replied. Caroline followed her, genuinely alarmed over the bitter excitement her story had aroused in Kate. She felt that her grandfather would be upset, too.

Major Meed stopped swishing and looked at her. "I thought I told Zeke to keep his mouth shut about that dream. I'd like to whack his black hide for him! That silver's gone forever."

"Oh," replied Kate thoughtfully. "So there really is some lost silver. And you've had a dream about it too! That makes it an omen."

"Omen, my foot!" exclaimed the Major, untieing his black string tie, and loosening his collar. "Omens ain't civilized. I told Zeke not to get you stirred up about that old silver—"

Caroline interrupted hastily. "Zeke didn't do it, Gran'dad. It was I. It's just a coincidence. I've been telling Kate the story old Mrs. Dodd Chenault told me last night at the party. She's Cynthia's great-great aunt, you know, from Lexington. Well, it seems she used to visit at Meed Meadows when she was young, and she was recalling a big silver tea service that was used for LaFayette. She said it was buried for safe keeping during the Civil war and never found again. Kate and I would like to know if it's true."

"It's true," Major Meed replied "but I'm right sorry it's come up. Things like that just prey on the mind and do no good. I reckon it was intended for that silver to stay under ground. My mother had every tree in the back yard and orchard dug around, but never a sign of it."

"Well," said Major Meed, "it was this way. Ma had a sick child to tend. My father was off at war and most of the slaves had left. One day—one August morning, it happened—she heard a raiding party was coming through, so she wrapped the silver in some old velvety curtains and told Pompey, the butler, to bury it quick. She pointed out a spade to him in the flower-bed and told him to bury the stuff under a tree either in the back yard or orchard. 'Dig deep,' she said 'and put the sod back carefully!' She went upstairs then to see the sick child, and that's the last she thought of it for a month, for little John died of typhoid, and she just gave herself up to her grief. Pompey himself left the day the soldiers came through. He just laid down some pans he was scouring, they said, took off his apron and walked off with the troops. But they don't think he ever betrayed the family about the silver. He was honest and loyal. Pompey's only fault was being lazy—"

The girls listened to their grandfather intently. To Caroline it was merely a sweet old romance, colored with sadness. To Kate it was a tale "to be continued." Already she was plotting.

Famous scientists and nutrition experts recently completed a series of laboratory tests to find out the true facts about Bread. The fact that Bread is nearly 100% digestible was established beyond a doubt in these experiments. In this respect it ranks with milk. Also both bread and milk come close to being complete foods.

Miss Bertha Marie Masur Center Of Many Social Events

Popular Girl Will Wed During Holidays

Society at the present moment is revolving around Miss Bertha Marie Masur, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur, whose marriage to Mr. Milton Gorn of New York City, will be a brilliant event of the Christmas holidays.

Prominent among the interesting events of the past week was the reception-tea with Mrs. Isadore Leibreich and Mrs. Daniel Weil as the gracious hostesses.

Orchid colored tapers in antique silver candelabra flamed at the four corners. Mrs. Sigmund Masur in a distinctive black lace model presided over the silver coffee urns and Mrs. Sylvian Masur, wearing a picturesque black marquisette model, presided over the tea service.

A luscious variety of edibles, including French and Swedish pastries, beautifully embossed petit fours, salted nuts and bon-bons, were passed among the guests on silver trays.

Miss Masur was again honored on Wednesday, when Mrs. Henry Haas and Mrs. Simon Friedlander were hostesses at luncheon.

Guests upon arrival in the Haas home were served refreshing aperitifs and a variety of hors d'oeuvres before luncheon was announced.

The lace draped luncheon table was developed in shades of yellow with the plaque of glorious, golden-hued chrysanthemums for central ornamentation. Crystal candelabra held yellow silhouette tapers. The yellow theme was charmingly portrayed in every detail of the faultlessly served five-course luncheon with demi-tasse served later in the living room.

Guests accepting this gracious hospitality, including Miss Masur, were Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Mrs. Percy Sandman, Mrs. Lee Kuhn, Mrs. Evelyn Reims, Mrs. Sylvian Masur, Mrs. Paula Erdman, Miss Mildred Cohen, Miss Gertrude Feazel and Miss Suzanne Hirsch.

Dancing Party At Country Club

Last week's social activities were not confined to the older crowd by any means. Youth played a most important part in the gayety that enveloped the city with the dancing party at Lakeside Country club, attracting the younger beau-monde en masse, one of the highlights of a crowded calendar.

Gay Noe and Barbara McKenzie, attractive sub-deb daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Noe and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, were the honor guests on this occasion with their parents in the role of hosts.

The spacious ballroom was in woodland attire with great branches of crimson, yellow and russet autumn leaves forming a canopy overhead. Shaggy chrysanthemums in the autumnal shades created additional color.

Miss Noe wore a shimmering frock of silver and silver sandals and Miss McKenzie wore a bouffant gown of black taffeta with drop shoulders. Both were the center of interest during the evening and were sought after sufficiently to have their lovely heads turned providing they were not placed squarely on their young shoulders.

Iced fruit frappe and confections were served throughout the evening, especially luscious being the mints in every imaginable color inscribed with "Gay" and "Babs."

Literary Guild Holds Meeting

"The Literary Play" was the topic of discussion for the afternoon. Mrs. T. J. Sandridge's paper, "Literature Returns to the Theater," was exceptionally interesting. Mrs. O. A. Easterling held the members of the club in rapt attention with a splendid review of "Winterset," by Maxwell Anderson. Mrs. J. G. Durrett in her inimitable fashion, gave a clever review of "Rain from Heaven," by S. N. Behram.

At the conclusion of the program the hostess served a delicious salad course to the following members: Mrs. Herbert Breard, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Duncan Cook, Mrs. S. L. Digby, Mrs. J. G. Durrett, Mrs. O. A. Easterling, Mrs. J. R. Humble, Mrs. B. M. McKoin, Mrs. T. J. Sandridge, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. Ned Wilson and Mrs. E. Holloway.

Columbia Residents Fete Miss Graves

Miss Sue Graves and a company of intimates enjoyed a motor trip to Columbia last week, where a beautiful reception complimentary to Miss Graves brought friends together in the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Sherman with Mrs. Hartley C. Bridger as co-hostess.

The decorations, reminiscent of the harvest season, were unusually colorful. Picturesque clusters of Japanese persimmons and purple grapes, and branches of crimson and gold autumn leaves banked the mantel in the dining room, where tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. L. C. Munn and Mrs. A. D. Bridger from handsome silver urns gracing either end of the lace covered table. A silver basket overflowing with purple and white grapes, pomegranates and persimmons formed the central decoration. Delicacies were served by a coterie of beautifully frocked young ladies: Misses Roberta Bridger, Evelyn Jarrell, Lucille Jarrell and Mary Ruth Miller.

The high moment of the afternoon was the presentation of handsome gifts to Miss Graves, who received them with characteristic charm.

Luncheon Held For Miss Sue Graves

Cafe brule was a fitting climax to a beautifully appointed luncheon in the private dining room of the Frances hotel complimentary to Miss Sue Graves with Mrs. Cary Thompson, Mrs. Wood Thompson and Mrs. Elizabeth King as hostesses.

A delectable array of appetizers accompanied the cocktails served the guests before the luncheon hour. Miss Graves wore one of her distinctive trousseau gowns, a navy wool tailleur with accessories of dubonnet on this occasion. A corsage, the gift of her hostesses, was also worn.

The luncheon table overlaid with Italian cut work was developed in the glowing shades of autumn with brilliant blue crystal used exclusively in the appointments. A flaring Venetian bowl held russet and golden chrysanthemums with fern fronds extending to the four corners. The unique place cards tied with sprays of valley lilies were of bridal significance. Five delicious courses were served with the blue flame of the burning liquer in the broad brimmed bowl engaging the attention of the guests who awaited their serving of cafe brule, following the ices and pastries.

In addition to Miss Graves the following guests enjoyed this distinctive affair: Mrs. J. Q. Graves, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Earl Chumney, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mrs. Lee Read, Mrs. C. A. Barnette, Mrs. James Hardwick, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Miss Ella Jesse, Miss Dorothy Graves, Mrs. John Snelling and the three hostesses.

Miss Rozelle Caruso of Monroe and Mr. R. C. Johnson of Fort Worth were married Thursday afternoon at the First Christian church of Fort Worth.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home temporarily at 3310½ University drive, Fort Worth.

Preceding the ceremony the couple were honored at a luncheon at which Mrs. Fulton was hostess at her home, 2105 Hill Crest.

The interest of friends is centered in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Embanato of the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose Embanato, to Mr. Leo Paul Ticheli, son of Mrs. Frank Ticheli, Sr., on December 15, at St. Matthew's Catholic church.

Normal Alumni Banquet Held

Claiming prominence among the events in connection with the convention in this city of the Louisiana Teachers association was the State Normal alumni banquet luncheon on Friday in the private dining room of the Frances hotel with the president of the Ouachita Normal Alumni association, Miss Kate Perkins, presiding.

The table appointments were of marked beauty from a floral standpoint and most ingenious from an educational standpoint. Miniature oil derricks encircled with miniature pine trees were placed at intervals along the chrysanthemum strewn board fringed with autumn leaves of brilliant hue. Clusters of Japanese persimmons added a colorful note.

Turkey Plays Important Role

If women had been doing the naming, no doubt the turkey and not the eagle would have become the national bird. Certainly it would have been more logical, for the turkey is native only to America, while species of the eagle are found in most parts of the world.

However, we women have no quarrel with the men on that subject. For, while the eagle is symbolic of strength and courage among nations, the turkey has become the symbol of hospitality and good fellowship in the American home.

Just why this all-American bird should have been given the misnomer "turkey" never has been clearly traced, for no part of Europe knew them until after 1530, when they were imported from America. Perhaps the plumage and strutting walk of some proud cock reminded a whimsical early settler of tales of a Turkish potentate. Or maybe some early exporter found the sale easier in Europe by telling that they came from that romantic land, rather than from poor, unimportant colonial America.

At any rate the turkey came into its own with the first Thanksgiving in 1621, and its popularity has increased with the years. In fact today the flawless perfection of the Thanksgiving dinner may be attributed in large part to the succulent tenderness of that fowl.

For the benefit of all the young brides who are preparing their first Thanksgiving dinner, a few hints on the baking of a turkey will not be amiss at this time.

After the turkey has been prepared for cooking stuff loosely with dressing. Draw the thigh close to the body and insert a steel skewer through the middle joint, running it through the body and out under the middle joint on the other side. Cross drumsticks, tie firmly with a long cord and fasten to the tail. Place wings close to the body and insert second skewer through the wings and body. Draw neck skin under back and fasten with small wooden skewer. Cross string attached to tail and wind it around each end of upper skewer, tie string in knots and cut off ends.

Place on back in roasting pan and rub entire surface with salt. Roast 20 minutes to the pound in a 350-degree oven, basting frequently. If you have chosen a tender young turkey, there will be plenty of fat for basting.

In a later article we will suggest a Thanksgiving day menu. However, just to get the turkey question thoroughly settled now, we are including the dressing recipe herewith.

Make a gash in each of two pounds of chestnuts and place in pan in hot oven for 10 minutes. Then remove shells and skins. Cook gently 20 minutes in enough boiling water to cover. Drain and chop fine. Add one cup cracker crumbs, one-fourth cup cream three-fourths cup hot milk, four tablespoons melted butter, one and one-fourth teaspoons salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well and stuff loosely in turkey. Be sure to follow the "loosely" instruction carefully because dressing swells with roasting.

The K. B. S. enjoyed an al fresco affair in the gardens of Miss Elizabeth Reynolds' home Thursday night. The following members, pledges, and guests were there to participate in the evening's enjoyment: Frances Hood, Bob Hayward, Jack Lanham, Flossielee Doty, William Bowles, Jessie Kelly, Marie Arnold, Marie Pine, "Pug" Pierce, George Vaughan, Vaughn Payne, Florent Hammonds, Margery Herbert, Beverly Jones, Margaret Koppe, Euda Mae Kosorok, Doris Dietriech, Frances Reitzell, Claude McMullen, Novis Roye, Hortense Reagan, John T. An interesting development of the youth of the Daughters of the American Revolution comes from the Boudinot chapter of Elizabeth, N. J.

There, according to a report received yesterday by local chapters, winners of the D. A. R. good citizenship medals in the schools are enthusiastically continuing their patriotic good work as the "Boudinot Citizenship club." Similar clubs, it is believed, will be organized by other chapters throughout the country.

The winners of the good citizenship medals organized because they "wanted to do things themselves." The club meets twice a month. A report from the Boudinot chapter national defense chairman, Mrs. Lena A. Hill, states:

"Results already show. Sixty young people in different walks of life, of different nationalities, of different abilities, of different opportunities, all realize more and more the duties and privileges of patriotism.

"The club discussions are exceedingly interesting and the members show a grasp of subjects, a knowledge of contributing factors and an ability and desire for research.

"Club members have taken part in several patriotic parades and have been active in flag presentations. They have helped in various schools in the good citizenship contests and have welcomed the new members into the club with an elaborate induction service. They are intensely interested in anything pertaining to the D. A. R."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl McHenry and Mrs. C. C. Boardman were to return home today from a week's visit in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ivy will motor to Lebanon, Tenn., today to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with kinfolks.

Mrs. B. D. Hodges and daughter, Mrs. Vernon Maish, and Mrs. Janet Powell returned home Friday from a motor trip to Atlanta, Ga., where they were delightfully entertained in the new home of Mrs. Hodges' daughter, Mrs. Winston Craig, and Mr. Craig.

Mrs. Thomas Staples of Alexandria was a guest in the city last week and in attendance at the Stubbs-Graves wedding Thursday night.

Among the students arriving home for the Thanksgiving holidays with their parents will be Thomas Sullivan, Jr., who will arrive on Wednesday from the University of Texas.

Of interest to the many friends of Mrs. Carol Ketteringham is the announcement of her marriage to Mr. Walter Brown of Choudrant, on November 5, at 6:45 p.m., at the Methodist parsonage at Haughton, La. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Otis W. Spinks. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown.

Mrs. Arnold Bernstein, who has been under the care of a specialist in New Orleans for the past week is expected to return home today. Mrs. Bernstein's condition, friends will be glad to know, is greatly improved.

Fine Cast Supports Child Star

Shirley Plays Part Of Little Minstrel In Singing, Dancing Film

SINGING, dancing, dimples flashing even when tears are clinging to her lashes, Shirley Temple opened at the Paramount theater yesterday in her new Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, "Dimples," the grandest story Shirley has ever had and the outstanding hit in her parade of successes.

As a little minstrel, harmonizing with street singers, playing every role in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" single-handed, starring in a minstrel show and mothering and caring for her irrepressible and incorrigible guardian, Frank Morgan, Shirley shares with you her love and laughter, tears and thrills, trials and triumphs.

There is laughter, romance and drama in "Dimples" in addition to Shirley's songs and dances. With Morgan as her mentor, Shirley ekes out a precarious living for them both by leading a group of young minstrels in impromptu shows on the streets.

Morgan, however, has a penchant for other people's valuables and his nimble fingers are always attaching themselves—quite unconsciously, of course!—to some object or other.

Shirley, meanwhile, with her charms and smiles, captivates a wealthy woman, Helen Westley, who wants to adopt her. Miss Westley offers Morgan $5,000 if he will permit Shirley to come and live with her. Morgan indignantly refuses—but one of his escapades forces him to accept the offer, although Shirley's heart is breaking.

Shirley is better than ever before and her new musical numbers literally stop the show. Morgan and Stepin Fetchit furnish abundant and hilarious laughter, while Robert Kent, Astrid Allwyn and Delma Byron provide exciting romantic interest. Helen Westley is superb in her role, and the Hall Johnson choir provides unparalleled music.

Arthur Sheekman and Nat Perrin wrote the screen play, while the music and lyrics were composed by Jimmy McHugh and Ted Koehler.

"Down the Stretch" will be seen on the Capitol theater's screen Monday, starring Mickey Rooney, Patricia Ellis and Dennis Moore.

Coming to the Paramount theater next Thursday, Constance Bennett in "Everything Is Thunder," with Douglass Montgomery.

'Wild Brian Kent' Now At Capitol

A thundering drama of the west with a brand new kind of he-man hero who tears into the great outdoors like a twister, creating a havoc of excitement, action and romance is the new Twentieth Century-Fox punch-packed release, "Wild Brian Kent," playing today only at the Capitol theater.

Easy-going, pleasure-loving, then branded "yellow" by the girl he loves, Ralph Bellamy is starred in the title role as the playboy turned cowboy who, with trip-hammer fists and hair-trigger wits, blazes a flaming trail to a thrilling comeback.

The merciless attempts of the desert crooks who would stop at nothing to seize the ranch, serve to shake Ralph out of his lethargy. Life was a laugh to him before, then he goes wild!

With single-handed daring, Ralph blasts a bandit band out of the bad lands to win through to a glorious romance with the attractive Mae Clarke, who, as the owner of the valuable Circle V ranch, is threatened by the unscrupulous villains with whom Ralph has innocently become friendly.

When Ralph wins a large cash prize by a tremendous mad dash in a cross-country horse race that had been "fixed" by the gang, his attempt to save the ranch is imperiled by a roaring prairie fire set by the desperate crooks, and it takes a fever-pitched denouement to close the story of "Wild Brian Kent."

CHAPTER XIII

The day after the Chenault dance found Kate at home again and strangely restless. She said to the old servant in the middle of the afternoon, "Go rest yourself, Athy, and let me do the ironing!"

"No, ma'am" came the reply. "I's perticuler 'bout my ironin'. You go take a nap."

But Kate was not sleepy, in spite of the fact that she and her sister had risen quietly at 9 and driven home before the rest of the house-party was awake. She said to Althy, "I'm anything but sleepy. I'm not hungry today either. Just jittery."

"I reckon somethin' went wrong at the party dance," Althy commented shrewdly. "Was Mr. Morgan Prentiss actin' up, maybe?"

Kate laughed. "He was for a while Althy, but afterward things were all right. That is—" she hesitated, "things were almost all right. Althy, what would you do if some woman tried to take Zeke away from you?"

The old woman's strong brown face took on a menacing look. "I'd make a little wax figure of 'er an' throw it in the fire and melt it down, dat's what I'd do! Or else I'd slash her with a sharp razor blade. I'd tend to 'er!"

"But that sort of stuffs not civilized," Kate said reprovingly. Actually she was not as horrified as Caroline would have been. Kate often prodded Althy and Zeke to glimpse the primitive Africa that lay just under the crust. Something primitive and reckless in her own nature responded, even while she scolded them.

Kate, as she worked, thought of the electric iron and sweeper and refrigerator that had been theirs at Meed Meadows. Those things that had lightened their housework. The mountaineer's property now, she remembered resentfully. Jeff Howard's. The Major had sold them to him, along with the lamps, because "Rickety House" was not wired. Had he set up housekeeping decently, she wondered. Or was he merely living there with his dogs, like a camper in a shack? She recalled his big, loose-knit frame, his narrowed eyes and disdainful smile, his drawling mountain voice that seemed to say more than it uttered, less than it meant. How she hated him! For days the hatred would lie dormant; then it would come seething up to leave her wild and shaken with its force.

She whispered now, in honest dismay, "I hate him more than I love Morgan. How can that be?" The mountaineer had become a giant in her path. At times she could not see around him.

Caroline came into the kitchen in kimono and bedroom slippers. The smooth ash-colored hair that she usually wore in a knot was now plaited in two childish braids. Kate was struck anew by the calmness and sweetness of this little sister who was two years her senior, yet seemed infinitely younger.

Kate said, "No help. Just sit. I think Althy's killing a snake. The chickens were making an awful stir, and after she went out I heard a lot of pounding and muttering. What was it you wanted to be reminded of today? Something about old Mrs. Dodd Chenault and a teapot—"

"Oh yes!" Caroline said. "The old lady's visiting the Chenaults, you know. She came from Lexington last week. Well, she came downstairs last night just before supper to look the party over. Didn't you see her, by the way?"

"No," Kate answered, not looking up, "I was outside with Morgan. Wasn't it sort of late for her to be up?"

"It was, of course, but everybody thought it was awfully cute of her. Going on 90, and coming down in a lace collar and false curls to look things over! The nurse was with her and she used a cane, but it was a risk on account of the slippery floors. We were all presented to her, and when she heard my name she began to talk about Meed Meadows. It seems she used to visit there when she was young. Before the Civil war—can you imagine that? Well, she wanted to know if the family'd ever recovered the tea service, and when I asked her what tea service, she said, 'Why, the big sterling silver one they used for General Lafayette, of course!'"

* * *

"Bosh!" Kate remarked, nursing a burn on her palm. She's dreaming. If there'd been anything like that in the family, we'd have known about it—"

"Maybe not," Caroline said. "Old Mrs. Chenault seemed to be clear about it in her mind. She said the Meeds buried it during the Civil war, and when they went to look for it afterward, they couldn't find it. She said Mrs. Crutcher Meed—that's Grandad's mother—was so sensitive over losing it that she never would let anyone talk about it afterward."

"You mean," asked Kate slowly, "that it's supposed to be still buried? They never found it at all?"

"It seems that way," Caroline answered.

Kate began to pace the floor. "It's prob'ly true," she said bitterly. "It's just our luck to have it be true. To hear about it too late."

Caroline nodded. "If we'd known sooner, we'd have had the whole yard dug up looking for it. We might have found it."

Kate paused in her pacing and pounded the table with her hands. "Yes," she said violently. "It's still there! It's on Jeff Howard's land! Our silver—!"

Caroline realized her excitement. "Don't take it that way, Kate I only told you because I thought it was a good story. I'd never have repeated it if I'd known you'd go to pieces like this—"

"I'm not going to pieces!" Kate stormed, which proved to Caroline that she was. "Where's Gran'dad? Where's Zeke? I'll find out if this thing's true or not—"

Althy entered the kitchen with an air of importance. "Done kilt a snake a yard long," she pronounced. "Hung 'im up head downwards fer luck, devilish thing. He was in the chicken house doah. I fix 'im!"

"Are you sure the thing's dead," Caroline asked with a shudder. "I hate having even a snake die by inches."

"He's daid all right," Althy assured her. She was about to go into gruesome details when Kate interrupted her impatiently. "Never mind that, Althy. Where's Gran'dad?"

Althy was resentful. It was not every day that she killed a snake. "Major Sam's jus' went in de front door," she said sullenly. "I reckon he went to get hisself a nap in de parlor. Leave 'm 'lone."

"He'll have to talk to me first," Kate replied. Caroline followed her, genuinely alarmed over the bitter excitement her story had aroused in Kate. She felt that her grandfather would be upset, too.

* * *

Major Meed stopped swishing and looked at her. "I thought I told Zeke to keep his mouth shut about that dream. I'd like to whack his black hide for him! That silver's gone forever."

"Oh," replied Kate thoughtfully. "So there really is some lost silver. And you've had a dream about it too! That makes it an omen."

"Omen, my foot!" exclaimed the Major, untieing his black string tie, and loosening his collar. "Omens ain't civilized. I told Zeke not to get you stirred up about that old silver—"

Caroline interrupted hastily. "Zeke didn't do it, Gran'dad. It was I. It's just a coincidence. I've been telling Kate the story old Mrs. Dodd Chenault told me last night at the party. She's Cynthia's great-great aunt, you know, from Lexington. Well, it seems she used to visit at Meed Meadows when she was young, and she was recalling a big silver tea service that was used for LaFayette. She said it was buried for safe keeping during the Civil war and never found again. Kate and I would like to know if it's true."

"It's true," Major Meed replied "but I'm right sorry it's come up. Things like that just prey on the mind and do no good. I reckon it was intended for that silver to stay under ground. My mother had every tree in the back yard and orchard dug around, but never a sign of it."

"Well," said Major Meed, "it was this way. Ma had a sick child to tend. My father was off at war and most of the slaves had left. One day—one August morning, it happened—she heard a raiding party was coming through, so she wrapped the silver in some old velvety curtains and told Pompey, the butler, to bury it quick. She pointed out a spade to him in the flower-bed and told him to bury the stuff under a tree either in the back yard or orchard. 'Dig deep,' she said 'and put the sod back carefully!' She went upstairs then to see the sick child, and that's the last she thought of it for a month, for little John died of typhoid, and she just gave herself up to her grief. Pompey himself left the day the soldiers came through. He just laid down some pans he was scouring, they said, took off his apron and walked off with the troops. But they don't think he ever betrayed the family about the silver. He was honest and loyal. Pompey's only fault was being lazy—"

The girls listened to their grandfather intently. To Caroline it was merely a sweet old romance, colored with sadness. To Kate it was a tale "to be continued." Already she was plotting.

Famous scientists and nutrition experts recently completed a series of laboratory tests to find out the true facts about Bread. The fact that Bread is nearly 100% digestible was established beyond a doubt in these experiments. In this respect it ranks with milk. Also both bread and milk come close to being complete foods.

WOMEN PLANNING BENEFIT SHOW

Minstrel Will Be Produced To Aid Good Fellows Fund

Well pleased with the result of their efforts last year in the raising of funds for the Good Fellows' fund, the Missouri Pacific Women's club, headed by Mrs. Paul Newman, is planning a "larger and better benefit" for the same cause this year.

Decision has been reached to stage what will be known as the Good Fellows' Benefit minstrel which, according to present plans, will be held at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium on the night of December 10.

Mrs. W. H. Daly, of Palestine, Tex., who has relatives in Monroe and who has already obtained an enviable reputation by directing minstrel shows of superior excellence, will come to Monroe to stage the show.

The very best talent in Monroe and surrounding cities and towns will be drawn upon and already some have been secured but still more are desired. Those who are experienced in minstrelsy are invited to get in touch with Mrs. Newman so that the very best may be secured.

Indications Saturday were that the show will be a highly successful one in which unusual talent will be shown.

Only two more Sundays in the conference year! Our church year ends December 1. Our pastor will leave on December 2 for the meeting of the annual conference, which convenes in Minden on the night of December 2. Having been with us for five years, we want our pastor to go to conference with the best report that he has ever been privileged to give and efforts are being made to that end. We appeal to the loyalty and cooperation of every member in the completion of that report. On Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour, the pastor will use for the subject of his sermon, "The Lord's Song." He will also preach at the evening hour, which begins at 7:15. All members are urged to attend these services and the public is cordially invited to worship with us. Do you attend church? Don't miss this opportunity of fellowship and Bible study. There are well organized classes for every age group. Join your group next Sunday. The classes in the children's division begins promptly at 9:30 a.m.; in all other departments, at 9:45 a.m. The Woman's Missionary society will meet in circles on Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Services for the Sunday next before Advent are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Church school will meet at 9:30 a.m. Rector's Bible class at 9:50 a.m. Morning service and sermon at 11 o'clock. The only services this week are on Thursday (Thanksgiving day) and on Friday. On Thanksgiving day, the service will be at 9 a.m., and will consist of a choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist and sermon. On Friday the weekly requiem will be celebrated at 9 a.m. This is the last Sunday in the Christian year; the following Sunday (Advent Sunday), we begin another and a new church year. In thinking of the last Sunday in the Christian year, and in fact the services of the entire year, seems like the grand oratorio of the "Messiah." The mere stranger who comes for a single service is like him who listens to a recitative or trio, and goes his way, knowing nothing of the magnificent whole of the music, its choruses, and its sublime Hallelujah at the close. Happy are they, who year after year, enjoy this foretaste of the music of Heaven. The Messiah is its Alpha and Omega; it begins with its "Hosanna to the Son of David," and ends with "the Lord our Righteousness." The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

'BREAD DAY' TO BE HELD IN CITY

Event Sponsored Tuesday By Northeast Louisiana Bakers Association

Acting Mayor R. D. Swayze Saturday issued a proclamation designating Tuesday, November 24, as "Bread day" and calling on the citizens of Monroe to "serve bread at every meal in tasteful variety" on that date.

"Bread day" is sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Bakers association, which includes Bond's Bakery, Inc., City Bakery, Hanson's Pastry shop, Iron Mountain bakery, Ouachita Baking company, Primos bakery, Royal confectionery, Surebest bakery and Traina's bakery.

A parade will be staged through Monroe and West Monroe Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock commencing at the Missouri-Pacific vacant lot and going west on Texas avenue to Grand street, thence north to DeSiard street, thence east to Five Points, thence north to Louisville avenue, where the parade will turn west and cross the new bridge over the Ouachita river, then south on Cotton street to the old bridge, and back to Monroe.

A decorated float will be included in the parade and Christine Galloway, noted young dancer, will ride as "Bread Princess." Miss Galloway has danced in various parts of the country and declares that she has eaten as many as seven slices of bread before dancing in order to give her energy for her strenuous task.

Open house will be held Tuesday night from 7 o'clock till 10 o'clock at the City Bakery, Iron Mountain bakery, Ouachita Baking company, Surebest bakery and Traina's bakery, and the public is cordially invited to visit these places and witness the way in which bread is manufactured.

Shirley Temple's New Picture, 'Dimples,' At Paramount

Shirley Plays Part Of Little Minstrel In Singing, Dancing Film

SINGING, dancing, dimples flashing even when tears are clinging to her lashes, Shirley Temple opened at the Paramount theater yesterday in her new Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, "Dimples," the grandest story Shirley has ever had and the outstanding hit in her parade of successes.

As a little minstrel, harmonizing with street singers, playing every role in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" single-handed, starring in a minstrel show and mothering and caring for her irrepressible and incorrigible guardian, Frank Morgan, Shirley shares with you her love and laughter, tears and thrills, trials and triumphs.

There is laughter, romance and drama in "Dimples" in addition to Shirley's songs and dances. With Morgan as her mentor, Shirley ekes out a precarious living for them both by leading a group of young minstrels in impromptu shows on the streets.

Morgan, however, has a penchant for other people's valuables and his nimble fingers are always attaching themselves—quite unconsciously, of course!—to some object or other.

Shirley, meanwhile, with her charms and smiles, captivates a wealthy woman, Helen Westley, who wants to adopt her. Miss Westley offers Morgan $5,000 if he will permit Shirley to come and live with her. Morgan indignantly refuses—but one of his escapades forces him to accept the offer, although Shirley's heart is breaking.

Before the conclusion, however, Shirley, with her songs, smiles and dances, straightens matters out, scores a triumphant success on the stage, and brings happiness to two young lovers.

Shirley is better than ever before and her new musical numbers literally stop the show. Morgan and Stepin Fetchit furnish abundant and hilarious laughter, while Robert Kent, Astrid Allwyn and Delma Byron provide exciting romantic interest. Helen Westley is superb in her role, and the Hall Johnson choir provides unparalleled music.

Arthur Sheekman and Nat Perrin wrote the screen play, while the music and lyrics were composed by Jimmy McHugh and Ted Koehler.

"Down the Stretch" will be seen on the Capitol theater's screen Monday, starring Mickey Rooney, Patricia Ellis and Dennis Moore.

David Niven, Virginia Field and Arthur Treacher are featured in "Thank You, Jeeves," playing the Capitol next Friday.

'Wild Brian Kent' Now At Capitol

A thundering drama of the west with a brand new kind of he-man hero who tears into the great outdoors like a twister, creating a havoc of excitement, action and romance is the new Twentieth Century-Fox punch-packed release, "Wild Brian Kent," playing today only at the Capitol theater.

Easy-going, pleasure-loving, then branded "yellow" by the girl he loves, Ralph Bellamy is starred in the title role as the playboy turned cowboy who, with trip-hammer fists and hair-trigger wits, blazes a flaming trail to a thrilling comeback.

The merciless attempts of the desert crooks who would stop at nothing to seize the ranch, serve to shake Ralph out of his lethargy. Life was a laugh to him before, then he goes wild!

With single-handed daring, Ralph blasts a bandit band out of the bad lands to win through to a glorious romance with the attractive Mae Clarke, who, as the owner of the valuable Circle V ranch, is threatened by the unscrupulous villains with whom Ralph has innocently become friendly.

When Ralph wins a large cash prize by a tremendous mad dash in a cross-country horse race that had been "fixed" by the gang, his attempt to save the ranch is imperiled by a roaring prairie fire set by the desperate crooks, and it takes a fever-pitched denouement to close the story of "Wild Brian Kent."

COUNTESS WILL SPEAK AT TECH

Member Of Russian Nobility To Talk At College Monday

RUSTON, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—As the first lyceum attraction of the year at Louisiana Tech, Irina Skariatina, Russian countess and authority on Russian affairs, will talk in the Wigwam Monday, November 23, at 10 a.m.

Countess Skariatina is an authoress as well as a lecturer, having written "A World Can End," and "A World Begins," in which she vividly described the revolution in a day-to-day diary of the events that shook the world.

Born to wealth and luxury, related to Russia's most powerful families, she is a direct descendant of Rurik, first prince of Russia. Her mother was Princess Mary Dobanov of Rostov, her father General Vladimir Skariatina.

Countess Skariatina was maid of honor to Empress Marie Feodorovana and the ill-fated Alexandria. She served as nurse and medical student during the World war, and was decorated by the Tsar for Red Cross work under fire at the front. In 1922 she was imprisoned by the Bolsheviks and sentenced to death for resisting the desecration of churches. She was saved by members of the American relief administration, who were able to obtain a passport for her to leave the country. She succeeded in reaching England and later came to America, where she married Victor P. Blageslee, lieutenant, U. S. navy, retired.

She returned to Russia in 1932, after 10 years' absence, to note the changes that had taken place. Because of her past experience her impressions of the U. S. S. R., are valuable, it is pointed out.

A small admission fee will be charged those other than students who attend the lecture.

Life Moves Serenely Along For Confederate Veteran

John C. McClendon Pursues Tranquil Existence In West Monroe

Life moves serenely along these days for John C. McClendon, 92 years of age, of West Monroe.

He lives in that pleasant late twilight of life that is enriched by memories of a life well spent.

He has lived through several economic depressions and revivals. He lived through four years of violence and hunger and want, wearing the soldier's uniform of his beloved Dixie in the War Between the States.

As a lad of 16 years he came from the soil, from a Ouachita parish farm, to join a Confederate regiment, and after the stark realities of the struggle he returned to the peace and quiet of the soil.

He reared a large family and has lived to see some of his grandchildren reach maturity.

John C. McClendon has never lost his faith in man or communion with nature. One of his greatest pleasures is his rambles about the vicinity of the home of his son, Jack McClendon, with whom he resides. The home is located at 1305 Parnell street, West Monroe, two blocks east of Trenton street and about two blocks south of the Millsaps school. The area is a new residential section, sparsely populated, with numerous meadows and roads and lanes over which little traffic travels. A short distance away some woods are located.

He moves about with the aid of a walking stick. With the stick he occasionally breaks clods of dirt. This carries his memories back, he says, to the days when communities of Ouachita parish held public road working days. Every able bodied man and youth of the communities joined in the work, and each worked hard from daylight to dark. They performed so much work in one day that it was necessary to work the roads only once a month, Mr. McClendon relates.

He likes to compare the past with the present, to show that although living in the latter half of the last century cannot compare with the conveniences and luxuries of today, people in the past nevertheless enjoyed life just as much, and even more, he declares, than life is enjoyed today.

The automobiles whizzing up and down Trenton street remind him of the seasonal trips to Monroe that his parents and their children made in wagons from their home at Forksville, east of Calhoun. The trips were made after the cotton and corn were harvested, at the beginning of the planting season, shortly before Christmas and occasionally at other times. Because the trip was a "long" one, two days were required for journeying to Monroe, and the same time was required for the return journey. Overnight stops were made between Monroe and Forksville.

The children, looking forward to each trip to Monroe as a momentous event, enjoyed anticipation and realization just as much as children of today enjoy them in connection with an automobile trip of several hundred or a thousand miles, Mr. McClendon says. The barrels of flour and big sacks of sugar and salt that were carried home from Monroe gave the children and their parents as much satisfaction as the finest foods give people today when they are delivered to their homes.

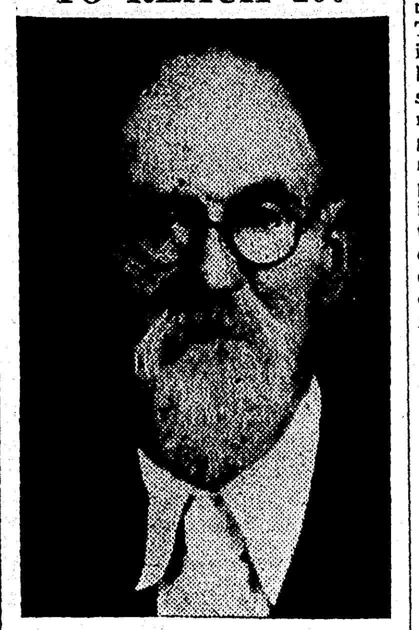
He was born in 1845, on October 17, in Macon county, Ala. His father was Dennis McClendon and his mother before her marriage was Leta Burrows, daughter of a Methodist minister.

'TO REACH 100'



John C. McClendon, 92-year-old Civil war veteran, enjoys good health, an active life and is looking forward to starting on his second 100 years. He says that when he reaches the century mark he will surpass all known longevity records of his forebears, several of whom lived nearly a century.

When John C. McClendon was 10 years old his parents moved to Louisiana and settled at Forksville. The trip to that community was made via Mobile, Ala., where the family boarded a boat for New Orleans. From New Orleans the family traveled by river boats to Monroe.

During the Civil war Mr. McClendon served with a regiment stationed in the Indian Territory to protect property and women and children from Indians and marauders. In the latter part of the war his regiment served in south Louisiana at forts and other strategic points.

After the war he settled on a farm at Indian Village and married Miss Fannye Bryant, who died some years ago. Seven sons, of whom five survive, were born to the couple. The surviving sons are: W. B. McClendon, plantation overseer of Transylvania, in East Carroll parish; B. B. McClendon, Monroe business man; R. E McClendon, wholesale gasoline dealer of Lake Providence; H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish veterans' service officer; and Jack McClendon, furniture salesman, of West Monroe. Jack McClendon is the youngest son.

John C. McClendon enjoys good health and is active for his age. His eyes and hearing are weakened by age, but he reads newspapers and carries on conversations with his friends. Until seven years ago, when he was 85, he rode horseback on the plantation managed by his son at Transylvania.

Several of his forebears have lived well past 90 years of age, but none of them, as far as has been learned, reached the century mark. He says that he will establish a record for the McClendon family by living to exceed 100 years in age.

A clean, temperate life, wholesome food that is not too rich, plenty of hard work and adequate sleep are among his principal rules for long life.

The schedule of daily activities that he follows now is simple, with few variations. He gets up at 5:30 a.m., before other occupants of the house awake. When he has finished reading the daily paper his breakfast is ready. Every morning he eats a bowl of oatmeal with a pint of milk, and drinks a cup of coffee.

During the morning Mr. McClendon takes a leisurely walk about the vicinity of his residence. At noon he eats soft foods, such as peas, beans and cornbread. An hour's nap after dinner, another walk or an automobile ride with his daughter-in-law and grandchildren, carries his day's schedule up to late afternoon. He eats supper at 5:30 p.m. and retires to bed with the coming of night.

That schedule of activities may seem monotonous, but is interspersed with various other activities. For instance, he thoroughly enjoys watching over the three grandchildren of the home while they are at play. The children are Jack, Jr., five years of age, Lenora, 3, and Margaret, 22 months old. The latter, known as "Little Sister," is his favorite. A bright-eyed, tow-headed child full of playful energy, she asks her 92-year-old grandfather no questions when she wants him to go with her out into the yard. She merely takes him by the hand and pulls in the direction of a door leading outside. Inwardly pleased with the mastery of the child, Mr. McClendon is always ready to accede to her demands. The child has learned, however, not to disturb him when he is reading or taking a nap.

To "Little Sister" is accorded the privilege of being the grandfather's page. She summons him to meals, notifies him when an automobile ride is awaiting, and gets his hat and coat for him.

Mr. McClendon recalls that the happiest days of his life were those when his own children were small, living under the paternal roof at Indian Village. His working day was long and hard, but in the evening when he returned home and his children rushed to meet him and shouted and jumped for joy, his own happiness was complete.

Other contacts outside his regular daily schedule which add to the variety of life include the meeting of people who are guests at his son's home, or people whom he meets on the afternoon automobile rides.

Sometimes he is reticent to admit before a stranger that he is not the physical man that he once was. Or, perhaps it should be said that means to imply that he is a better physical man than he is in reality. At any rate, he will manifest that independent spirit that has characterized him as a self-reliant planter man.

A visitor at the McClendon home six weeks ago, thinking to engage the 92-year-old retired planter in conversation, observed to him that a good cotton crop was being produced, but that the shortage of cotton pickers was so acute, especially in Mississippi, that Mexicans were being imported to pick the cotton.

Now, for a man whose fortunes during life were large associated with the success of the cotton crops, Mr. McClendon gave a terse and decidedly uninterested reply. "I don't care how many cotton pickers they need," he declared. "I picked my share and quit years ago. And I'm not going to pick any more."

The visitor had not intimated that a state or national government or any person was going to force Mr. McClendon to pick cotton, but in replying as though such an intimation had been made he spoke upon the premise that he was an able-bodied man capable of picking cotton if he was so minded.

Sometimes he resents his daughter-in-law's apprehensions for his safety and well being. For instance, one afternoon when he had prolonged a rambling walk until dusk, she became worried by fear he would not find his way home in the dark. Finally, when he did return home and learned of her anxiety, he said: "Don't you worry about me. Any time I don't get back here by bed time you will know that I have rented me a room somewhere for the night."

In that statement his intimation was that he was fully capable of doing with himself just whatever he pleased.

But in a broad sense, he is a man of placid disposition, a man in whom the milk of human kindness flows in goodly measure.

Winter is coming, now, and there will be cold days and rainy days when he cannot go outside for rambles about the meadows and fields. He will sit inside beside the fire in peace and tranquility that younger men struggling for place and power in the welter of the world's work cannot know until they, too, reach the twilight of life. He will dream of the past. He will dream of the coming of spring—spring, when he and all of his children and grandchildren again will gather at the old farm home at Indian Village where the ties of so many years of his life are interwoven.

Was Fortunate In Finding One Real Medicine—Gly-Cas

Mrs. Bush Given Lasting Relief By New Herbal Remedy After All Else Failed; Stomach and Bowels Regulated; Entire System Toned.

"Never before have I ever experienced such a feeling of complete and permanent relief through the use of any one medicine as I have after only a short trial of this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. L. L. Bush, 606 E. Monroe street, Harlingen, Texas. "A stubborn case of constipation had seemingly always been a source of distress for me. My system was so clogged with the poisons that had accumulated from improper bowel elimination that soon I was affected with a number of other ailments. My stomach became disordered until gas and bloating bothered me to the extent that I was always in discomfort. I lost my appetite, foods lost all their appeal to me for to eat meant only suffering. Then too, severe headaches seemed to be constantly with me and the suffering I endured from them at times became almost unbearable. Try as I might I could find nothing to give me any relief and I became terribly discouraged as I was steadily growing worse. Then I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas that I decided it must be at least worthy of a trial—it was wonderful."

"Gly-Cas has made a 100% change in my condition and I now feel like an altogether different person," she continued. "My bowels have been so regulated that all those poisons which had been causing so many ailments have been eliminated entirely from my system. I now have a normal, healthy appetite, able to eat the foods which had formerly been denied me, my stomach disorder has been so corrected that I never am bothered with that awful gas and bloating any more. Headaches have disappeared entirely and I feel my entire system has been thoroughly 'goneover' and the least disorder corrected. I would not take anything for the great benefit I have derived from the use of this new Gly-Cas which I am sure is unequalled in merit."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Company, 348 DeSiard street, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. —Adv.

WOMEN PLANNING BENEFIT SHOW

Minstrel Will Be Produced To Aid Good Fellows Fund

Well pleased with the result of their efforts last year in the raising of funds for the Good Fellows' fund, the Missouri Pacific Women's club, headed by Mrs. Paul Newman, is planning a "larger and better benefit" for the same cause this year.

Decision has been reached to stage what will be known as the Good Fellows' Benefit minstrel which, according to present plans, will be held at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium on the night of December 10.

Mrs. W. H. Daly, of Palestine, Tex., who has relatives in Monroe and who has already obtained an enviable reputation by directing minstrel shows of superior excellence, will come to Monroe to stage the show.

The very best talent in Monroe and surrounding cities and towns will be drawn upon and already some have been secured but still more are desired. Those who are experienced in minstrelsy are invited to get in touch with Mrs. Newman so that the very best may be secured.

Indications Saturday were that the show will be a highly successful one in which unusual talent will be shown.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the Sunday next before Advent are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. Church school will meet at 9:30 a.m. Rector's Bible class at 9:50 a.m. Morning service and sermon at 11 o'clock. The only services this week are on Thursday (Thanksgiving day) and on Friday. On Thanksgiving day, the service will be at 9 a.m., and will consist of a choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist and sermon. On Friday the weekly requiem will be celebrated at 9 a.m. This is the last Sunday in the Christian year; the following Sunday (Advent Sunday), we begin another and a new church year. In thinking of the last Sunday in the Christian year, and in fact the services of the entire year, seems like the grand oratorio of the "Messiah." The mere stranger who comes for a single service is like him who listens to a recitative or trio, and goes his way, knowing nothing of the magnificent whole of the music, its choruses, and its sublime Hallelujah at the close. Happy are they, who year after year, enjoy this foretaste of the music of Heaven. The Messiah is its Alpha and Omega; it begins with its "Hosanna to the Son of David," and ends with "the Lord our Righteousness." The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

'BREAD PRINCESS'

'BREAD DAY' TO BE HELD IN CITY

Event Sponsored Tuesday By Northeast Louisiana Bakers Association

Acting Mayor R. D. Swayze Saturday issued a proclamation designating Tuesday, November 24, as "Bread day" and calling on the citizens of Monroe to "serve bread at every meal in tasteful variety" on that date.

"Bread day" is sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Bakers association, which includes Bond's Bakery, Inc., City Bakery, Hanson's Pastry shop, Iron Mountain bakery, Ouachita Baking company, Primos bakery, Royal confectionery, Surebest bakery and Traina's bakery.

A parade will be staged through Monroe and West Monroe Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock commencing at the Missouri-Pacific vacant lot and going west on Texas avenue to Grand street, thence north to DeSiard street, thence east to Five Points, thence north to Louisville avenue, where the parade will turn west and cross the new bridge over the Ouachita river, then south on Cotton street to the old bridge, and back to Monroe.

A decorated float will be included in the parade and Christine Galloway, noted young dancer, will ride as "Bread Princess." Miss Galloway has danced in various parts of the country and declares that she has eaten as many as seven slices of bread before dancing in order to give her energy for her strenuous task.

The Neville High school band will also take part in the parade.

Open house will be held Tuesday night from 7 o'clock till 10 o'clock at the City Bakery, Iron Mountain bakery, Ouachita Baking company, Surebest bakery and Traina's bakery, and the public is cordially invited to visit these places and witness the way in which bread is manufactured.

In Arizona the Pony Express still rides.

RUSTON, La., Nov. 21.—(Special)—As the first lyceum attraction of the year at Louisiana Tech, Irina Skariatina, Russian countess and authority on Russian affairs, will talk in the Wigwam Monday, November 23, at 10 a.m.

Countess Skariatina is an authoress as well as a lecturer, having written "A World Can End," and "A World Begins," in which she vividly described the revolution in a day-to-day diary of the events that shook the world.

Born to wealth and luxury, related to Russia's most powerful families, she is a direct descendant of Rurik, first prince of Russia. Her mother was Princess Mary Dobanov of Rostov, her father General Vladimir Skariatina.

Countess Skariatina was maid of honor to Empress Marie Feodorovana and the ill-fated Alexandria. She served as nurse and medical student during the World war, and was decorated by the Tsar for Red Cross work under fire at the front. In 1922 she was imprisoned by the Bolsheviks and sentenced to death for resisting the desecration of churches. She was saved by members of the American relief administration, who were able to obtain a passport for her to leave the country. She succeeded in reaching England and later came to America, where she married Victor P. Blageslee, lieutenant, U. S. navy, retired.

She returned to Russia in 1932, after 10 years' absence, to note the changes that had taken place. Because of her past experience her impressions of the U. S. S. R., are valuable, it is pointed out.

A small admission fee will be charged those other than students who attend the lecture.

Life Moves Serenely Along For Confederate Veteran

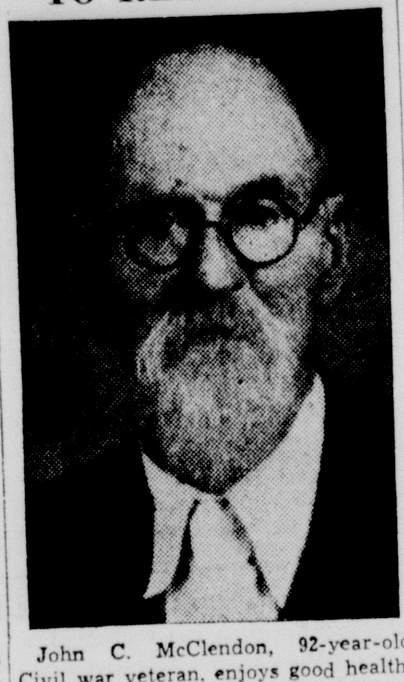
'TO REACH 100'



John C. McClendon, 92-year-old Civil war veteran, enjoys good health, an active life and is looking forward to starting on his second 100 years. He says that when he reaches the century mark he will surpass all known longevity records of his forebears, several of whom lived nearly a century.

Life moves serenely along these days for John C. McClendon, 92 years of age, of West Monroe.

He lives in that pleasant late twilight of life that is enriched by memories of a life well spent.

The vicissitudes of his many years have given him a serenity, a placid disposition that meets each new day unruffled.

He has lived through several economic depressions and revivals. He lived through four years of violence and hunger and want, wearing the soldier's uniform of his beloved Dixie in the War Between the States.

As a lad of 16 years he came from the soil, from a Ouachita parish farm, to join a Confederate regiment, and after the stark realities of the struggle he returned to the peace and quiet of the soil.

He reared a large family and has lived to see some of his grandchildren reach maturity.

Now, his work is done.

John C. McClendon has never lost his faith in man or communion with nature. One of his greatest pleasures is his rambles about the vicinity of the home of his son, Jack McClendon, with whom he resides. The home is located at 1305 Parnell street, West Monroe, two blocks east of Trenton street and about two blocks south of the Millsaps school. The area is a new residential section, sparsely populated, with numerous meadows and roads and lanes over which little traffic travels. A short distance away some woods are located.

He moves about with the aid of a walking stick. With the stick he occasionally breaks clods of dirt. This carries his memories back, he says, to the days when communities of Ouachita parish held public road working days. Every able bodied man and youth of the communities joined in the work, and each worked hard from daylight to dark. They performed so much work in one day that it was necessary to work the roads only once a month, Mr. McClendon relates.

He likes to compare the past with the present, to show that although living in the latter half of the last century cannot compare with the conveniences and luxuries of today, people in the past nevertheless enjoyed life just as much, and even more, he declares, than life is enjoyed today.

The automobiles whizzing up and down Trenton street remind him of the seasonal trips to Monroe that his parents and their children made in wagons from their home at Forksville, east of Calhoun. The trips were made after the cotton and corn were harvested, at the beginning of the planting season, shortly before Christmas and occasionally at other times. Because the trip was a "long" one, two days were required for journeying to Monroe, and the same time was required for the return journey. Overnight stops were made between Monroe and Forksville.

The children, looking forward to each trip to Monroe as a momentous event, enjoyed anticipation and realization just as much as children of today enjoy them in connection with an automobile trip of several hundred or a thousand miles, Mr. McClendon says. The barrels of flour and big sacks of sugar and salt that were carried home from Monroe gave the children and their parents as much satisfaction as the finest foods give people today when they are delivered to their homes.

And so, John C. McClendon lives to a considerable extent in the past, a link between the old south and the new.

He was born in 1845, on October 17, in Macon county, Ala. His father was Dennis McClendon and his mother before her marriage was Leta Burrows, daughter of a Methodist minister.

When John C. McClendon was 10 years old his parents moved to Louisiana and settled at Forksville. The trip to that community was made via Mobile, Ala., where the family boarded a boat for New Orleans. From New Orleans the family traveled by river boats to Monroe.

During the Civil war Mr. McClendon served with a regiment stationed in the Indian Territory to protect property and women and children from Indians and marauders. In the latter part of the war his regiment served in south Louisiana at forts and other strategic points.

After the war he settled on a farm at Indian Village and married Miss Fannye Bryant, who died some years ago. Seven sons, of whom five survive, were born to the couple. The surviving sons are: W. B. McClendon, plantation overseer of Transylvania, in East Carroll parish; B. B. McClendon, Monroe business man; R. E McClendon, wholesale gasoline dealer of Lake Providence; H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish veterans' service officer; and Jack McClendon, furniture salesman, of West Monroe. Jack McClendon is the youngest son.

John C. McClendon enjoys good health and is active for his age. His eyes and hearing are weakened by age, but he reads newspapers and carries on conversations with his friends. Until seven years ago, when he was 85, he rode horseback on the plantation managed by his son at Transylvania.

Several of his forebears have lived well past 90 years of age, but none of them, as far as has been learned, reached the century mark. He says that he will establish a record for the McClendon family by living to exceed 100 years in age.

A clean, temperate life, wholesome food that is not too rich, plenty of hard work and adequate sleep are among his principal rules for long life.

The schedule of daily activities that he follows now is simple, with few variations. He gets up at 5:30 a.m., before other occupants of the house awake. When he has finished reading the daily paper his breakfast is ready. Every morning he eats a bowl of oatmeal with a pint of milk, and drinks a cup of coffee.

During the morning Mr. McClendon takes a leisurely walk about the vicinity of his residence. At noon he eats soft foods, such as peas, beans and cornbread. An hour's nap after dinner, another walk or an automobile ride with his daughter-in-law and grandchildren, carries his day's schedule up to late afternoon. He eats supper at 5:30 p.m. and retires to bed with the coming of night.

That schedule of activities may seem monotonous, but is interspersed with various other activities. For instance, he thoroughly enjoys watching over the three grandchildren of the home while they are at play. The children are Jack, Jr., five years of age, Lenora, 3, and Margaret, 22 months old. The latter, known as "Little Sister," is his favorite. A bright-eyed, towheaded child full of playful energy, she asks her 92-year-old grandfather no questions when she wants him to go with her out into the yard. She merely takes him by the hand and pulls in the direction of a door leading outside. Inwardly pleased with the mastery of the child, Mr. McClendon is always ready to accede to her demands. The child has learned, however, not to disturb him when he is reading or taking a nap.

To "Little Sister" is accorded the privilege of being the grandfather's page. She summons him to meals, notifies him when an automobile ride is awaiting, and gets his hat and coat for him.

Mr. McClendon recalls that the happiest days of his life were those when his own children were small, living under the paternal roof at Indian Village. His working day was long and hard, but in the evening when he returned home and his children rushed to meet him and shouted and jumped for joy, his own happiness was complete.

Other contacts outside his regular daily schedule which add to the variety of life include the meeting of people who are guests at his son's home, or people whom he meets on the afternoon automobile rides.

Sometimes he is reticent to admit before a stranger that he is not the physical man that he once was. Or, perhaps it should be said that means to imply that he is a better physical man than he is in reality. At any rate, he will manifest that independent spirit that has characterized him as a self-reliant planter man.

A visitor at the McClendon home six weeks ago, thinking to engage the 92-year-old retired planter in conversation, observed to him that a good cotton crop was being produced, but that the shortage of cotton pickers was so acute, especially in Mississippi, that Mexicans were being imported to pick the cotton.

Now, for a man whose fortunes during life were large associated with the success of the cotton crops, Mr. McClendon gave a terse and decidedly uninterested reply. "I don't care how many cotton pickers they need," he declared. "I picked my share and quit years ago. And I'm not going to pick any more."

The visitor had not intimated that a state or national government or any person was going to force Mr. McClendon to pick cotton, but in replying as though such an intimation had been made he spoke upon the premise that he was an able-bodied man capable of picking cotton if he was so minded.

Sometimes he resents his daughter-in-law's apprehensions for his safety and well being. For instance, one afternoon when he had prolonged a rambling walk until dusk, she became worried by fear he would not find his way home in the dark. Finally, when he did return home and learned of her anxiety, he said: "Don't you worry about me. Any time I don't get back here by bed time you will know that I have rented me a room somewhere for the night."

In that statement his intimation was that he was fully capable of doing with himself just whatever he pleased.

But in a broad sense, he is a man of placid disposition, a man in whom the milk of human kindness flows in goodly measure.

Winter is coming, now, and there will be cold days and rainy days when he cannot go outside for rambles about the meadows and fields. He will sit inside beside the fire in peace and tranquility that younger men struggling for place and power in the welter of the world's work cannot know until they, too, reach the twilight of life. He will dream of the past. He will dream of the coming of spring—spring, when he and all of his children and grandchildren again will gather at the old farm home at Indian Village where the ties of so many years of his life are interwoven.

Mrs. Bush Given Lasting Relief By New Herbal Remedy After All Else Failed; Stomach and Bowels Regulated; Entire System Toned.

"Never before have I ever experienced such a feeling of complete and permanent relief through the use of any one medicine as I have after only a short trial of this new Gly-Cas," said Mrs. L. L. Bush, 606 E. Monroe street, Harlingen, Texas. "A stubborn case of constipation had seemingly always been a source of distress for me. My system was so clogged with the poisons that had accumulated from improper bowel elimination that soon I was affected with a number of other ailments. My stomach became disordered until gas and bloating bothered me to the extent that I was always in discomfort. I lost my appetite, foods lost all their appeal to me for to eat meant only suffering. Then too, severe headaches seemed to be constantly with me and the suffering I endured from them at times became almost unbearable. Try as I might I could find nothing to give me any relief and I became terribly discouraged as I was steadily growing worse. Then I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas that I decided it must be at least worthy of a trial—it was wonderful."

"Gly-Cas has made a 100% change in my condition and I now feel like an altogether different person," she continued. "My bowels have been so regulated that all those poisons which had been causing so many ailments have been eliminated entirely from my system. I now have a normal, healthy appetite, able to eat the foods which had formerly been denied me, my stomach disorder has been so corrected that I never am bothered with that awful gas and bloating any more. Headaches have disappeared entirely and I feel my entire system has been thoroughly 'goneover' and the least disorder corrected. I would not take anything for the great benefit I have derived from the use of this new Gly-Cas which I am sure is unequalled in merit."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Company, 348 DeSiard street, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns. —Adv.

YOUNG John I, Count of Luxemburg and King of Bohemia, had spread his might and fame over Europe, during the early 14th century, through his boldness and superiority as a warrior. He was only 17 when he claimed the throne of Lombardy, upon his father's death, and he had not yet reached his majority when he was ruler of three countries—Luxemburg, Bohemia and Polish Silesia.

Hardly a year passed without John's active participation in battles that spread from Luxemburg to Poland and Hungary, and from Bohemia to Italy. Blindness overtook him, at the age of 46, but that did not allay his ambitions, and he continued fighting for more territory, more greatness. He even won the favor of Pope John XXII.

Then, in 1346, came the battle of Crecy. King Edward III of England threatened the French under King Philip, and the blind King John came to Philip's aid. John had just turned 50.

Inferior in number, the British long-bowmen proved superior to the French with their crossbows. King John, hearing the screams of his wounded and the quickened tread of the fleeing, furiously called for one of his knights. Their saddles were lashed together, and so the blind ruler was led into battle. Lashing wildly at the enemy infantrymen, the blind king died fighting.
